Miniature Armies Mobilized In Political Struggle Between State and City

THREATS EXPRESSED

All Weapons in Hardware Stores and Pawn Shops Guarded by Police

NEW ORLEANS, La., Aug. 1.—(UP)—Two miniature armies were mobilized here today, armed with almost every device known to modern warfare and ready to enforce the wills of their angry commanders, Senators Huey P. Long and Mayor T. Semmes Walmsley.

On the one side were Huey Long's national guardsmen, 600 strong, infantrymen, artillerymen and cavalrymen.

Against them were pitted 840 city police and 500 citizen volunteers, who were being sworn in and armed to defend the city.

Points of concentration were the Jackson barracks for troops and police headquarters for the volunteers.

The city bristled with preparations for war but few expected any catastrophe to develop from the situation. Martial law has been a familiar spectacle during the struggles of Huey Long against the city political ring and it hasn't cost any lives yet.

Except for a detachment of 50 troops that surrounded and menaced the city hall with machine guns, the militiamen were all confined to Jackson barracks.

There were only 20 police on the city hall steps, defending the building, but riot call reserves were held in readiness at police headquarters.

At headquarters, too, were a throng of citizens volunteering for service against Huey Long. Superintendent of Police George Reyer ordered 500 of the citizens mustered in. The volunteers were to be transported to points of vantage throughout the city, armed with shotguns, revolvers, riot guns, machine guns and other weapons.

CLEAN MOVIES DRIVE BACKED

LOS ANGELES, Aug. 1.—The campaign for clean movies received the unqualified support of the Presbyterian Synod of California-Nevada, when it endorsed the League of Decency movement. The Synod also advocated federal censorship of motion picture, and non-attendance of local members on unsavory films.

The action was taken in approving the report of the committee on moral welfare at a session in the Highland Park Presbyterian church.

Legislation to prohibit "the system of block-booking and blind-booking as now practiced" was also recommended.

Other objectives outlined by the committee report and approved by the Synod included support of the pending federal child labor amendment, opposition to compulsory military training in secondary schools and colleges and a diligent campaign for temperance.

PLEADS NOT GUILTY OF GIRL'S MURDER

NORMAN, Okla., Aug. 1.—(UP)—Pale and distraught, Neal Myers fidgeted today while his attorneys entered a not guilty plea for him on a charge he murdered Marian Mills, University of Oklahoma beauty queen.

After a brief procedure in a courtroom crowded by many spectators who knew both the victim and the youth, Peace Justice J. D. Grigsby set the preliminary hearing for next Saturday.

The state accused the young university pharmacy student with administering drugs in an attempt to avert motherhood for his campus sweetheart. These administrations, investigators alleged, caused her death.

Divorce Trial Halted By False Teeth

SAN FRANCISCO, Aug 1.—(UP)—Mrs. Ralph Zorilla's divorce action was halted by court order today until she returns her husband's teeth.

In answering his wife's action, Zorilla complained this his wife "not only took my truck, which I need to earn a living, but also took my false teeth."

Judge Walter Perry Johnson asked Mrs. Zorilla about the teeth.

"I don't have them," she replied. "The last I saw of his teeth they were in the basement and the dog was playing with them."

The judge ordered her to find the teeth and bring them into court so that the proceedings could continue.

NOTORIOUS DESPERADO IS CAPTURED

TULSA, Okla., Aug. 1.—(UP)—Jim Clark, notorious Oklahoma desperado and leader in two Kansas prison breaks, was captured here early today.

He was arrested without a battle by members of a Kansas highway patrol squad and federal agents.

Clark and Frank Delmar were the only two members still at large of the desperate band which broke from the Lansing, Kan., prison last January 18 with Bob (Big Boy) Brady, slain by a posse two days later.

Clark today was back on his way to the Lansing prison.

After his capture, the officers, heavily armed, bundled him into a car, and started the drive back to Kansas.

SWANSON URGES REDUCTION OF NAVIES 20 PCT.

Naval Secretary Opposes Japan Move for Change in 5-5-3 Ratio

WASHINGTON, Aug. 1.—(UP)—Secretary of the Navy Claude A. Swanson said today he would sponsor a general reduction of 20 per cent in naval armaments by the great powers, but was definitely opposed to abandonment of the 5-5-3 ratio fixed by the Washington treaty of 1922.

Swanson's statement came as a reply to a declaration by Premier Keisuke Okada that Japan was dissatisfied with the 5-5-3 ratio, arbitrarily designated as Japan's proportion of capital ships in relation to the United States and Great Britain.

"I believe that if we abandon the ratio, there is no telling where we would go," said Swanson at a press conference.

"I believe, further, in a 20 per cent reduction in all categories."

Swanson made it clear that this was his personal opinion and not necessarily the stand to be taken by the administration at the 1935 naval conference. The government's policy, he emphasized, will be determined by the president, "but my convictions are that we should not change the ratio."

The navy secretary, who represented the United States at the Geneva disarmament conference, said he had repeatedly expressed his position concerning the ratio and a general reduction of armaments in public statements, "and in my reports to the president."

Swanson made it plain that he would not advocate a 20 per cent general reduction in all categories, unless there was a general reduc-

RULES NURSE MAY GIVE ANAESTHETIC

LOS ANGELES, Aug. 1.—(UP)—A nurse is privileged under California law to administer anaesthetics, according to a superior court ruling on file today.

The ruling, of wide importance to the medical profession, was issued by Superior Judge Allan B. Campbell, sitting by assignment from Kern county, in denying an injunction to three physicians who sought to prevent Miss Dagmar A. Nelson, a nurse, from such practice. The suit was in the nature of a friendly action.

"Acts of the defendant, under the evidence introduced in this case, do not constitute the practice of medicine or surgery under the medical practice act," Judge Campbell held.

LOS ANGELES, Aug. 1.—(UP)—Suits demanding that the E. K. Allison syndicate and 20 other independent oil producers in the Huntington Beach field be enjoined from production in excess of the quota established by the national oil administration will be dismissed August 6, it was learned today.

Major Frank P. Doherty, special assistant to the U. S. attorney general, said dismissal will be sought in view of the fact that the defendants now are abiding by their quotas.

Similar injunction suits have been filed against the Wilshire Oil company and its subsidiaries. Doherty intimated that they also will be dropped.

Electrician Survives High Voltage

LOS ANGELES, Aug. 1.—(UP)—"Tell them to turn that damned thing off!" an electrician shouted to the crowd from his perch among the high-voltage wires 40 feet above the ground.

Horror-stricken passersby saw the worker swinging and swaying, "stuck" on a 220-volt wire that carried plenty of punch known officially as amperage.

For 15 minutes the electrician fought to break loose from the wire which he accidentally touched. Then the power was turned off.

The man climbed down unaided.

"And I ain't hurt," he said as he climbed into his truck and drove off.

ROOSEVELT TO REACH OREGON BY TOMORROW

Executive Party Ahead of Schedule; to Be in Portland Friday

ABOARD THE U.S.S. NEW ORLEANS, with President Roosevelt, Aug. 1.—(By Radio to the United Press)—Slightly ahead of schedule, the U. S. Cruiser Houston, flagship of President Roosevelt's vacation cruise, carried the presidential party toward Oregon today at 22 knots an hour.

At the present speed, the Houston and its convoy, the New Orleans, will reach Astoria, Ore., Thursday. Navigators pushed their ships ahead at a rate greater than necessary in order to allow leeway in event of fogs off the Oregon coast.

The president spent most of his time on a thorough examination of documents bearing on public works and relief projects in the Pacific northwest, through which he will pass on his way overland to the east.

He also was attending to administration details communicated by radio from his Washington offices.

The Houston and the New Orleans will part company when they reach Astoria. The Houston will proceed up the Columbia river, carrying Mr. Roosevelt to Portland, where he is due Friday. He will find Mrs. Roosevelt waiting for him there and also his secretaries, Louis Howe and Stephen Early.

Alameda county registrations totaled 140,511, with an apportionment of $183,997, and San Francisco county, with 139,240 cars, will receive $182,333.

New Record Set; G. O. P. Still Leads

Democratic Gain of 5000 Shown in Registration Since June Report

REGISTRATION records in Orange county were smashed today when County Clerk Joe Backs announced that a total of 63,814 electors have signified their intention of voting at the August primaries.

Never before in the history of the county has such a large number of voters been registered, Backs said. The county clerk just completed compilation of his report which will be mailed to the secretary of state Friday. The large number of registered voters indicates the interest felt by citizens in the coming election, it is said.

In spite of a decided swing to the Democratic party, the Republican forces in Orange county were still about 5000 ahead of the Bourbons, with 33,295 Republicans and 28,251 Democrats registered. In former days the Republican majority in Orange county was approximately two and a half to one.

In a report made in June by Backs, a total of 59,209 voters were registered, of which 33,782 were Republican and 23,174 Democrat.

Registration figures now show a gain of 13,519 over the total registered at the time of the November, 1930, election, when 50,304 were registered. The swing to the Bourbon ranks is shown in the comparative party figures at that time when but 16,692 were registered Democrats and 37,154 were Republicans.

Party registrations in the report just compiled are as follows: Republican, 33,295; Democrat, 28,251; Socialist, 222; Prohibition, 472; decline to state, 1393; Liberty, 33; Progressive, 107; Commonwealth, 44, and Communist, 3.

DUTCH HARBOR, Alaska, Aug. 1. — (UP) — The cannery tender Otsego, formerly the German raider Eltel Fredrich, was safe in port today after being convoyed in a leaking condition by two coast guard cutters.

The Otsego ran aground at Cape was under convoy of two coast guard vessels.

The Otsego, ran aground at Cape Madvinoff in Bristol Bay late yesterday. Its plates developed leaks. Refloated, coast guard vessels came alongside to accompany the 32-year-old steamer on the 300-mile journey.

The ship, a vessel of 2535 tons built in Hamburg, is used to carry workers and supplies to Alaska salmon canneries.

18 RECOVER FROM FOOD POISONING

Samples of food served at the meal were being analyzed to determine the exact cause of the wholesale illness.

CHARGE GERMAN NAZIS BACK OF BLOODY REVOLT

Coded Documents Found on Secret Courier Basis of Charge

VIENNA, Aug. 1.—(UP)—A Heimwehr patrolman shot a civilian dead in the third ward of Vienna tonight. It was the first such fatality in Vienna since last week's outbreak.

LONDON, Aug. 1.—(UP) — The Austrian cabinet has agreed "in principle" to the acceptance of Baron Franz Von Papen as German minister, the Exchange Telegraph Vienna correspondent reported today.

VIENNA, Aug. 1.—(UP)—Fascist Austria charged Nazi Germany today with direct complicity in the bloody revolt that took the life of Chancellor Dollfuss.

The charge was made on the basis of coded documents found in the shirt and shoes of Franz Heel, a secret courier, arrested on his way from Munich, headquarters of the German Nazi party and Austrian Nazis' refuge in Germany.

Col. Walter Adams, minister of propaganda, in a radio speech, said the documents showed the German government was connected with the revolt.

One document, half deciphered by government code experts, said: "It follows Rintelen". There followed several undeciphered words and then: "Rintelen arrested. There will not be any more new samples of table service." Government experts believed "Table service" meant arms.

Anton Rintelen was Austrian minister to Italy, a trusted aide of Dollfuss. Evidence that he conspired with Nazis caused his arrest. He shot himself. Yesterday he was removed to a prison hospital and was retired along with other prominent officials on two thirds of the normal civil service pension.

In the shoes of the arrested courier, police found long instructions providing that if the Dollfuss government fell, the Nazis should give the password "Summer Festival." This, it was said in explanation, would mean an organized, uniformed march on government and communications buildings in each district, but with arms concealed under the uniform.

If the government opposed the Nazi coup, the instructions provided, the password should become automatically "prize shooting with Italian night," which

FILE NEW CHARGES AGAINST RADICALS

SACRAMENTO, Calif., Aug. 1.—(UP)—All of the 28 alleged Communists arrested in police raids July 20 today were accused of criminal syndicalism in additional charges filed by District Attorney Neil McAllister.

The new charges were filed, McAllister said, to forestall any possibility of the prisoners securing bail and leaving the city. Bail was placed at $3000 on each charge by Police Judge Byron Gaddis.

Warrants also were issued for the arrest of seven asserted teachers at the Communist school here who are still at large. The school was one of three places raided by the officers when two teachers were taken into custody.

JUDGE SEWELL IN COLLAPSE TODAY

LOS ANGELES, Aug. 1.—(UP)—Superior Judge Harry F. Sewell collapsed en route to court today, forcing another postponement in the insanity hearing of Louis R. Payne, convicted young axe killer, until this afternoon.

Sewell, under fire from Presiding Judge Frank C. Collier, who accuses him of being intoxicated in a court appearance last May, failed to appear at the opening of court this morning, and an hour and a half later his nurse notified Superior Judge Fletcher Bowron that he had been seriously ill all night. Judge Bowron announced postponement until this afternoon.

ARREST LABOR LEADERS WHEN RAIDS STAGED

Minneapolis Strikers Left Disorganized as Guard Units Stage Coup

MINNEAPOLIS, Aug. 1. — (UP) —"Dictator" Adjutant General Ellard A. Walsh struck with a mailed fist today to suppress the revolt of 6000 striking truck drivers against martial law.

In a series of swift and dramatic raids on labor headquarters and arrests of leaders of the 16-day-old strike, General Walsh left the milling mobs of strikers leaderless and dispirited.

Militiamen armed with rifles and backed with machine guns "cleaned out" strike headquarters, termed by employers, "a nest of communists." William S. Brown, president of the union, and three other leaders were arrested.

Another detachment of guardsmen raided the Central Labor Union headquarters. While citizens scurried to cover, they surrounded the building. Led by an officer with a riot gun, guardsmen entered the building and quickly cleared it. A hundred strikers and strike sympathizers stood outside the building, held by a line of militia and shouted derisively at the troopers.

The action of the militia in striking before the strikers could carry out their announced intentions of resuming forceful picketing, was believed to have averted further bloodshed. Five men have died and 300 have been wounded in previous rioting.

COMBINE RAIL, MOTOR SERVICES

SAN FRANCISCO, Aug. 1.—(UP)—The state railroad commission today granted the Santa Fe and Southern Pacific railways permission to combine rail and motor service for 34 points in the lower San Joaquin valley.

The decision, made on reopened proceedings, was made over the protests of truck companies which fought the granting of certificates of public convenience and necessity to the Santa Fe Transportation company and the Public Motor Trucking company, railroad subsidiaries.

HITLER AT CAPITAL

Nations Apprehensive as Death Approaches for German Leader

BERLIN, Aug. 1.—(UP)—Private sources said tonight that President von Hindenburg's death agony had started.

Doctors refused to predict the time of his death, saying he might die tonight or linger a day or two.

The doctor was quoted as saying the length of life depends entirely on the strength of Hindenburg's heart.

(Copyright, 1934, by United Press)

BERLIN, Aug. 1.—(UP)—A proposal to make Adolf Hitler sole ruler of the Reich without a president over him will be considered by the cabinet, reliable quarters said tonight.

Information was that the cabinet is scheduled to meet as soon as possible, perhaps tonight and probably in the strictest secrecy, to adopt measures to be taken on the death of President Paul von Hindenburg.

It was generally expected the cabinet would decree a general referendum to sanction a proposd change in the consittution which would abolish the post of president and combine the president's duties with those of the chancellor in a "Reich Feuhrer" (leader of the Reich) or some similar title.

The referendum also was expected to ask confirmation of Hitler in the new post.

Although at present it is not certain that the particular procedure outlined would be followed, it was felt certain that something similar would be adopted.

Hitler would temporarily fill the office of president until the referendum, which would be accomplished simply by a cabinet law under an enabling act setting aside the Van Schleicher constitutional amendment providing that the supreme court chief justice shall take over the duties of the president on the death of the latter.

OWNED MEDAL WON BY SAVING LIVES IN FIRE

Ernest Umphenour, 14-year-old Garden Grove youth who was the hero of a fire at his home in Santa Ana Gardens and received a medal for his feat in 1930, was fatally injured last night in Garden Grove while riding his bicycle when struck by a car driven by Barclay Ralston, 14, son of the Rev. Grove Ralston of Garden Grove.

The injured youth died two hours after the wreck in St. Joseph's hospital. The accident occurred at Stanford and North Huntington streets in Garden Grove at 6:05 p. m. The injured boy was thrown to the pavement and suffered a severe skull fracture and other injuries. His death brought the total of traffic fatalities in the county this year to 34, nine more than at this time last year.

The Ralston youth did not have a driver's license, because of his age, according to officers. He is in the custody of his father, who is secretary of the Orange County Law Enforcement League.

The accident victim is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Claude Umphenour of Garden Grove and is also survived by seven sisters and five brothers. These are Mrs. Alice Jiles of Santa Ana, Ruth Umphenour of Santa Ana, and Inez, Besie, Beth, Juanita, Martha and Mable; and LeRoy, Clarence, Lawrence and Leonard Umphenour, all of Garden Grove, and Arthur L. Umphenour of Santa Ana.

Coroner Earl Abbey has scheduled an inquest for 3:30 p. m. tomorrow from the Harrell and Brown funeral home, where funeral arrangements will be announced later.

The fire in which young Umphenour displayed so much bravery occurred on January 22, 1930, at his home off Edinger road southwest of Santa Ana. The house caught fire when a coal oil lamp exploded. Ernest and his five smaller brothers and sisters were alone at the time of the fire and he saved them all by carrying them from the blazing building. He was then but nine years of age and had been left to watch over the younger children while his older brothers and sisters and parents were attending church in Santa Ana.

Attempts were immediately started to secure recognition for the youth, and he was awarded a medal from the Ralston Purina Hero commission in March, 1931, nearly 14 months after the fire. The medal was presented by the Rev. Elder W. Jiles, pastor of a revival meeting being held at that time in Garden Grove.

HERO DIES

No one was hurt at 11:30 a. m. today in a three-car wreck at First and Main streets. A car driven by F. C. Anderson, 313 North Ross street, is reported to have hit a machine driven by Miss Lillian Whiting, 443 Ashton drive, Laguna Beach, which in turn was thrust into a parked machine owned by Barney Reidenour, 1051 West Second street.

W. K. Maxwell, 719 North Spadra, Fullerton, and A. E. Davis, 790 Carhart road, Fullerton, were slightly injured Monday evening, when the car in which they were riding in La Habra Heights, plunged over an embankment near the Hacienda Country club.

HAITI TAKES OVER THE NATIONAL ARMY

PORT AU PRINCE, Haiti Aug. 1.—(UP)—The Haitian army or national guard, was turned over to the Haitian people today, marking the end of 19 years of United States occupation.

The island of "Black Magic", once a melting pot of revolution and ruin, and now a land of happy and contented people, was given complete control of its destinies.

A child was shot and injured seriously last night. Trucks were dynamited. Frequent crashing of glass was heard through the night as strikers hurled stones.

Strikers fired into the home of Grady Hart, a worker who refused to join the walkout, and wounded his son.

Police Chief W. P. Brown informed the United Press he was powerless.

Longshoremen Happy at Work

SAN FRANCISCO, Aug. 1—(UP)—From Canada to Mexico, winches and hoisting tackle clattered and creaked today as 20,000 Pacific Coast maritime workers, shouting "It's good to be back" sought to move unprecedented freight tonnage piled up during their 83-day strike.

Men plunged happily into the task of loading and unloading more vessels than west coast ports had seen at one time since world war days.

In San Francisco harbor were 77 ships, most of them ocean carriers. In Seattle 37 others jammed the roadstead. As six vessels cleared from Portland, others rushed into the piers. Los Angeles, Tacoma, San Diego and all other ports experienced record-breaking waterfront activities.

The new shipping boom started yesterday when the 20,000 seaboard workers — longshoremen, licensed officers and sailors—went back to jobs they had abandoned May 9 in strikes demanding union recognition, control of hiring halls and wage adjustments.

A federal arbitration board went to work immediately seeking to adjust the issues which caused the strike.

Extension of Strike Threatened

CHICAGO, Aug. 1.—(UP)—Extension of a Chicago stockyards strike to the ring of giant packing houses that encircles the yards was threatened today by union leaders.

While federal mediators awaited arrival of Gen. Hugh Johnson, hoping he would try his powerful hand at settlement of a walkout of 800 stock handlers which has halted activity of the world's largest livestock market, 400 meat cutters walked out last night.

William Collins, international organizer for the union, said that more of the 8000 union cutters and butchers in the packing house district would strike today.

All but three or four of the largest plants would be closed by such a walkout. Even they, because of the difficulty of obtaining animals, might close.

The handlers walked out a week ago, leaving 80,000 head of stock without food or water on one of the hottest days of the summer. Thousands died before they could be moved or slaughtered.

The men charged in their strike call the Union Stockyards company failed to abide by an agreement reached at the end of a similar strike last winter.

NOTORIOUS DESPERADO IS TAKEN TODAY

Clark and Brady were leaders with Wilbur Underhill, who was slain last fall at Shawnee, in the Memorial day break at the Kansas prison in 1933.

On October 6, Clark and Brady were captured and wounded in Tucumcari, N. M., and returned to the Kansas prison. They were in the prison only until January 19 of this year, when they engineered another break.

Clark was serving a life term in the Kansas prison on conviction of bank robbery under the habitual criminal statutes.

The desperado was captured in front of an apartment house in which he had lived for three weeks. So quickly did officers close in on him that he had no chance to resist.

Money sacks found in the car at the apartment were believed to have been taken when the Ottawa, Kan., bank was robbed recently.

Heel, it was said, received the documents at Passau, on the German-Austrian frontier, with instructions to take them to Linz and leave them at the general postoffice with an agent.

The instructions listed nine points in all, the last of which said that if any Nazis were sentenced to death, all Nazis were instructed to make a quick rescue.

It was announced that Pope Pius, complying with a request of Dollfuss' widow, approved a plan to dister his body later and rebury it along with that of former Chancellor Ignatz Seipel in the Seipel Memorial chapel now under construction.

Storm Troopers Back in Uniform

BERLIN, Aug. 1.—(UP)—The familiar brown shirt uniforms of the Nazi storm troopers reappeared throughout the country today at the end of their enforced month's vacation, announced just before the Roehm revolt of June 30 and ending as President Paul von Hindenburg was believed dying—leaving his post, according to reliable information, to Adolf Hitler.

The impossibility of completing the planned reorganization of the "SA" or ordinary storm troop organization; the troubled international situation and Hindenburg's illness combined to bring the storm troops back in full number, estimated anywhere up to 2,500,000.

HINDENBURG NEAR DEATH THIS EVENING

There was talk here of a French march into the Rhineland as a precautionary measure in the event a Hohenzollern was called to lead Germany either as king or president.

Little entente nations—Czechoslovakia, Roumania and Jugoslovakia—have threatened to march into Austria if a Hapsburg was put back on the throne or named regent.

Reports that seemed unquestionably true said there was no chance of a call for a Hohenzollern to replace Hindenburg.

The new factor, which brought fears in European chancelleries back to where they were in the early days of the Nazi revolt in Austria, was Hindenburg's illness.

France particularly watched Hindenburg's Neudeck sick room with anxiety. French government chiefs refused to say what action they would take if the Hohenzollern problem rose.

Many observors thought France, and perhaps Belgian and troops of another nation, apparently meaning Britain would make a rapid march into the Rhineland as a precaution-ary measure.

There were many developments that showed Europe's frame of mind.

French military experts held this summer's air manoeuvers in France, Italy, Japan, Great Britain and the United States showed that a large airplane fleet by sudden attack could deliver a shattering and, perhaps decisive, blow at an enemy nation.

The Paris prefecture of police, it was announced, was speeding up air defense machinery. A study was begun of means of evacuating all possible Parisians to the country in event of attack.

500 OFFICERS SWORN IN AT NEW ORLEANS

As a precaution against sporadic rioting, Reyer planned to seize weapons from all hardware and pawn shops in the city and hold them under guard until after the emergency.

Dire threats flew from camp to camp during the morning. City officials were wildly excited. Guardsmen, irresponsible for their remarks, threatened to "turn artillery loose on city hall". Police expressed a desire to "cut lose on

The tropps are in command of the office of the registrar of voters in the red brick office building across the street from the city hall. It is a state office. Four machine guns are mounted in the windows. Three of them trained on the city hall. A squad of four troops also occupied a second story hotel room across the street, commanding the entrance to the city hall. They sat on a window ledge, a Thompson machine gun across their laps.

City officials were in conference inside the beleaguered city hall. Huey Long was barricaded behind bodyguards in his hotel room headquarters.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 1.—(UP)—The war department has informed Mayor T. Semmes Walmsley of New Orleans that it can take no hand in the use of state troops by the Louisiana governor.

Held for Trial On Theft Charge

James Jerome, charged with grand theft in connection with the alleged swindling of J. A. Murdy jr., of Talbert, was held to answer in the Santa Ana justice court today by Judge Kenneth Morrison.

Jerome was arrested after he had taken a check from Murdy to assertedly secure the return of an investment in a defunct Hollywood beverage concern. He was arrested in Long Beach after perpetrating a similar fraudulent transaction.

Deputy District Attorney J. E. Walker appeared against Jerome today while Chris Wilson was defense attorney. Bail was maintained at $1500 which Jerome has failed to post.

Clouds Of Smoke Cover County As H. B. Grass Burns

Clouds of smoke which filled the air in Santa Ana and other parts of the county around 2 o'clock this afternoon were the result of the burning of salt grass in the flats between Huntington Beach and Newport Beach, about a half-mile east of Huntington Beach, it was learned from the Huntington Beach fire deparment.

There was no occasion for concern over the fire, the fire department said. A Standard Oil company rig near the scene had its crew of men on watch to see that the rig was not menaced. Numerous calls were received by The Register regarding the source of the smoke.

WARM WEATHER IS AID TO D. CUPID

Warm, balmy summer weather brought romance into the hearts of more couples during the past month than it did at the same time last year, with the result that more marriage certificates were issued by County Clerk Joe Backs during July than in the same month last year.

A total of 372 marriage licenses was issued the past month, while in July, 1933, 353 were issued. So far this year 2389 licenses to wed have been issued, and every month but April this year is ahead of last year.

POPE LEAVES VATICAN

SWANSON URGES REDUCTION OF NAVIES 20 PCT.

tion to this extent by all nations signatory to the London treaty.

He repeated he believed in a United States navy "second to none."

Elaborating on his disarmament "convictions", Swanson said he would suggest that if the 20 per cent reduction were agreed to, "that we abandon ships over-age and refrain from building new ones." At present the American navy has one battleship over age. In 1936, it was said there would be three such battleships.

Commenting on the recent Baldwin declaration that Great Britain's frontiers now extend to the Rhine, Swanson said that "our frontiers extend to all our territory. We have no aggressive policy, but we're determined to defend ourselves."

Former President Herbert Hoover at one time advocated a 33 1-3 per cent general reduction in naval armaments.

Questioned extensively, Swanson indicated that his proposed 20 per cent reduction might be offered at the 1935 conference as a "feeler", adding that if the nations appeared willing to go further, he might sponsor a reduction of even 25 or 30 per cent.

SALES TAX IS APPROVED BY C. OF C. BOARD

Members of the Santa Ana Chamber of Commerce board of directors, at a semi-monthly meeting held this morning in the chamber offices in the courthouse annex, went on record as being in favor of the sales tax, with the stipulation in the motion adopted that the sales tax be simplified in operation and any inequalities adjusted.

The motion was made following considerable discussion during which time directors said they were informed that there will be considerable opposition against the sales tax, and that these efforts should be met with expressions of approval.

A letter from the B. R. Hunt manufacturing company, an eastern concern, was read in which company officials expressed a desire to locate a small plant in Santa Ana provided financing aid could be secured here.

The company, manufacturers of leather specialty goods, needs 4000 feet of floor space, and wishes to be advanced $1500 for freight and moving expense, which they offered to pay back at $50 a month and giving the factory equipment, which would not be valued at more than the loan, as security. It was estimated that the goods made would be valued at about $100,000 annually, including jobbing expenses, and that the payroll would run from $5000 to $15,000 a year. The directors decided to write the firm a letter to obtain further information.

Directors expressed an objection to weather reports in Los Angeles newspapers reading higher temperatures than those which actually prevail here, and discussed means of correcting the information published.

Word Received Of Death of Former Santa Ana Man

Word of the death of Hirem E. Epperly, who died from a heart attack while hunting Sunday south of Duarte, was received here today.

He was the father of Fred E. Epperly of Anaheim and of H. L. Epperly, of 1025 West Myrtle street, Santa Ana. The dead man was found after he failed to return home Sunday night. It was recalled that his grandson, Ervin Epperly, was killed in a wreck north of Fullerton three months ago.

Mr. Epperly had lived in Santa Ana and Anaheim for a short time before making his home at Monrovia, where he was an engineer for the Southern Counties Gas company. He was retired on March 1.

LA HABRA MEN DIE AS TRAIN STRIKES TRUCK

Two former La Habra residents, George W. Beer, 73, and H. G. Corbett, 55, met instant death at the Rosedale crossing near Bakersfield yesterday afternoon when their truck was struck by a fast northbound Santa Fe train.

Corbett, driver of the truck, apparently attempted desperately to halt the vehicle after sighting the locomotive, highway patrolmen said. Wheels on the truck dragged for 15 feet as the brakes were applied, they said.

The two men were employed by the Dean Core Drilling company at Bakersfield and went there in May to take up that work.

Corbett had been making his home recently in the Weed Patch district, near Bakersfield, with his wife and family and although funeral arrangements had not been completed, relatives here expect interment to be made there.

The body of Beer will be brought to the Southland for burial at Loma Vista cemetery, where his wife, the late Mrs. Barbara Beer, is buried.

Relatives of Mr. Beer who live at La Habra, are Gurnard Beer, a nephew, of La Habra Heights; Mrs. Sarah Elder, a sister-in-law; Grant Sherman and Herbert Sherman, brothers-in-law, La Habra. He is also survived by one son, Pearl Beer, of Fruitvale, with whom he made his home.

MRS. ETTA SMALLEY DIES AT HER HOME

Mrs. Etta Pearl Smalley, 48, resident of Santa Ana for the past 15 years, died at her home, 411 Richland street, yesterday following an illness of about two years' duration. She had been employed at Rankin's Dry Goods store for about 10 years.

She is survived by her mother, Mrs. Minerva J. Switzler; two brothers, Harry E. Switzler, of Santa Ana, and Bruce E. Switzler, former manager of Rankin's, now of Fresno.

Funeral services will be held at 2 p. m. tomorrow at the Harrell and Brown Funeral home, 116 West Seventeenth street, with the Rev. W. S. Buchanan, minister of the First Christian church, officiating.

Interment will be made in Westminster Memorial Park.

WALTER V. DRAKE CALLED BY DEATH

Walter V. Drake, 76, a rancher in Santa Ana for 12 years, passed away at his home in Santa Ana Gardens yesterday.

The elderly man had been ill for some time before his death. He was the husband of Lydia M. Drake of Santa Ana and stepfather of Dr. A. O. Holmes of Oakland.

Funeral services will be held Friday at 2 p. m. from the Smith and Tuthill funeral chapel.

BAN ON CHIP GAMES ISSUED IN LOS ANGELES

Following the example of Sheriff Logan Jackson, of Orange county, in driving gambling games out of Seal Beach and Balboa, Los Angeles authorities yesterday took similar action against chip and circle games at Venice and San Pedro resorts, by wholesale revoking of licenses.

The Los Angeles police commission voted unanimously to revoke 17 permits in Venice and one at San Pedro, under which chip and circle games were conducted under the guise of games of skill.

The police commission termed them out-and-out gambling devices and a menace to public welfare, thus upholding the same view taken by Sheriff Jackson in running them out of Orange county.

Nearly two days were occupied by the police commission in hearing the charges against the Los Angeles beach resorts, the evidence convincing the commission that the games were purely gambling devices.

Assistant City Attorney Kendall, of Los Angeles, declared to the commission that "the playing has all the attributes of gambling." The commission rejected the argument of defense counsel that the livilihood of 400 persons depended upon the games, and that the taxpayer's interests were affected.

"I am pleased, not only because of this evidence that our actions against the gamblers here were well considered, but also because it will be a fine thing for Los Angeles beaches to be rid of this type of parasite," he said.

"Orange county may be sure," he added, "that so long as I am sheriff, and my hands are not tied by the courts, the gamblers will never get a foothold in the county again."

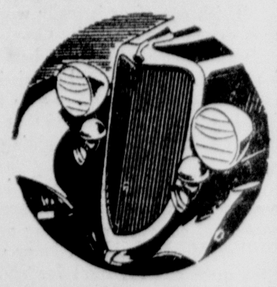
INAUGURATE NEW TOMATO PRORATE MOVEMENT HERE

A new movement to effect a prorate for tomato crop of the current season was launched today when representatives of the Orange County Farm Bureau and of the Farm Advisor's office began circulation of petitions among county growers as part of a statewide movement started here to increase prices for tomatoes for the present crop.

A voluntary prorate agreement entered into among growers of Orange county recently collapsed, with resultant decrease in tonnage prices for tomatoes, when it was found that tomatoes grown in other parts of the state came into competition with the local tomatoes, according to R. D. Flaherty, executive-secretary of the Farm Bureau.

H. D. Zimmer, of Anaheim, has been named chairman of a statewide committee to attempt to get the prorate plan into operation. Other members of the committee are E. W. Soper, of Chino, and K. Mukaeda, Los Angeles, president of the Southern California Japanese association.

There are some things we refuse to do to sell a car



There are some things we refuse to do to sell a car. We like sales, but fair-dealing and the confidence of our customers are desirable too.

For one thing, we refuse to poison any one's mind against another make of car. We know what our car is and what it will do, and we are ready to tell you about that. But to imply defects in another car is not our business.

We have done our utmost to encourage intelligent buying of motor cars by showing purchasers how to protect their own interests. All that a good producer asks is a customer who knows quality when he sees it. An intelligent purchaser will speedily conclude that only a bad product requires bad sales methods.

We refuse to keep dinning in your ears that the Ford V-8 is the best, most economical, lowest priced car. That is claimed for several cars. Obviously it cannot be true of all. There comes a point where claims and adjectives and all advertising hysteria disappears in its own fog. Personally, I prefer facts.

We say the Ford V-8 is the best car we have ever made.

We say that our 8-cylinder car is as economical to operate as any lower number of cylinders.

We say that we have always been known as the makers of good cars and that the many good, well-balanced qualities of our present car place it at the head of our line to date.

Any one wishing to do business with us on these principles will find our word and the quality of our product to be A-1. What we say about economy, operation and durability will stand good anywhere.

ATTORNEY M'FADDEN SENDS LONG LETTER TO PUBLISHER; FAILS TO DENY ASSERTIONS

A denial which signally failed to deny, was made today by Thomas L. McFadden, Anaheim attorney who is city attorney at Placentia, in a communication addressed to the publisher of The Register, regarding disclosure of political motives behind a recent Placentia trial.

Objecting to The Register's showing that the trial was made the occasion for Mr. McFadden, as a defender of gamblers and bootleggers, to stage a political show on behalf of his staunch ally, the district attorney, the communication yet substantially admitted the truth of The Register's statement of his position. This statement had been submitted by The Register as proof of his motives and the political nature of the Placentia incident, in which District Attorney "Soppy" Kaufman made an attack upon The Register.

Mr. McFadden's communication submitted his attempted denial as a thin disguise for the personal attacks upon The Register's publisher, which made up a large portion of his statement. The communication, in full, follows:

Hon. J. Frank Burke
Editor of Santa Ana Register
Santa Ana, California
Dear Sir:—

On page 5 of your issue of July 27th under the caption "To the Voters of Orange County," much space and abuse was devoted to me. I am not flattering myself that I am worthy of the space, time and effort therein expended, for I realize that you are merely attempting to use me as a vehicle to injure Mr. Kaufman in his campaign for district attorney, and it would seem that any means would, in your opinion, justify the end.

I cannot but believe that you consider yourself fair, that you believe that you would not stoop to unfair advantage, and that you think that you are sincere in statements made and methods used. Relying on your estimate of yourself, I am asking you to publish this letter, and give to it the same prominence given to the article in question. Further relying upon your sense of fairness and justice, I believe that you will be only anxious and willing to correct misstatements, which, in some instances, if not deliberately and maliciously made, were made through gross carelessness, and without due regard to the sources of information that are at your disposal, and which cannot be excused by the license that any newspaper has to color facts and information to suit the occasion.

Let me say that I am a daily reader of The Register, that I have been a subscriber for a period long antedating your connection with the paper, and even now permit the paper to be delivered to my home in Placentia, where I was born, raised and now live.

I have been impressed with the great amount of space given to moral questions in the news columns and in the editorials. My acquaintance with you has been entirely through your publication, and I doubt if you would know me if you met me on the street. I do not recall that you have ever been introduced to me or spoken to me. In this I may be in error. It is barely possible that having formed the estimate that you have you would not appreciate an introduction or an interview.

Be that as it may I cannot but assume from the tone of your editorials and news columns that you are the living epitome of moral rectitude. In this assumption, which would be rather violent in far too many instances, I hope I am correct.

Fortified with this assumption I have no hesitancy in approaching the subject matter of your article to which I have already referred.

I, as the City Attorney of Placentia, am accused of making a "Roman Holiday" out of a simple misdemeanor. A most perfunctory investigation of the true facts by an intelligent investigator would, in your desire to be fair, have precluded you from making that statement.

Mr. McLauchlan was arrested in the city of Placentia for distributing papers, handbills, etc., without a permit. I did not order his arrest; I did not draw the complaint as the basis for issuing the warrant; I was not present at the arraignment or the fixing of the bail. This all happened on a Monday. I knew nothing of the matter until Monday night at approximately 8 p. m. when, as city attorney, I attended a regular meeting of the city council. At this time I was informed that McLauchlan had been arrested, taken before Judge Harmony, and was represented by counsel in the person of William Maxwell Burke, your brother, and, I am informed, vice president of The Register Publishing company, at which time Mr. Burke asked Judge Harmony to release the man on his own recognizance, saying that he knew the man and had known him for approximately two years, that he had learned to love and admire him, that he was a man of integrity, and had been a great help to The Register. Bear in mind that I was not present and at that time knew nothing about the case. Judge Harmony fixed the bond at $50, and in lieu of bail he was committed to jail. His attorney immediately went to Santa Ana, procured the signatures of two employes of The Register, one of them your son-in-law, on the bail bond, which bond was approved by Judge Morrison, and the defendant ordered released. This all took place Monday afternoon without my knowledge. If this was preparation for a Roman holiday, who made these preparations with so much care and precision?

It then developed that McLauchlan was a Communist by his own admission that the paper he was selling and distributing was the Western Worker, a Communist paper.

For some reason best known to himself, Mr. Maxwell Burke withdrew from the cast. Not having been paid for his services he had a perfect right so to do, and no one has the right to question his motives or the propriety of his action. Mr. McLauchlan was left without counsel, but out on bail with a perfectly satisfactory bail bond. The case was set for trial Tuesday, July 24, in the hall over the bank at Placentia, the only place in the business district of Placentia suitable for a jury trial.

Prior to the trial a Communist organization circularized the community with handbills calling on all workers and friends of the Communist movement to be at the trial.

The case was called. The hall was filled with people, perhaps a hundred or more, Mr. McLauchlan acting as his own attorney. The jury was called and Mr. McLauchlan conducted his own examination. His first statement to the jury was "I am a Communist" and then proceeded to ascertain what affect that fact would have on the minds of the jury. The jury was impaneled in a short time; the defendant, if I remember correctly, excused but two. Just preceding the commencement of the trial I did prepare and file an amended complaint substantially the same as the original one on file.

If this was a "Roman Holiday" wherein, Mr. Burke, do I appear as yet as the stage manager?

Mr. McLauchlan moved to quash the proceeding on the ground that the ordinance was unconstitutional in that it violated the constitution of the United States, and to his credit handled the matter rather intelligently. He, however, gave the court, jury and spectators a 15-minute dessertation on Communism and the great good it would bring to the world.

The trial proceeded. The city's evidence consumed not to exceed five minutes. The defendant took the stand in his own behalf and freely answered all questions put to him. He again declared himself a Communist and admitted he had been one for several years, and said "I am proud of it." He admitted he had been in contact with Communist sources who had agreed to furnish him contacts on the Irvine ranch. He said that he and his family were on the county at the time he, as a delegate, attended the Communist convention in San Francisco; that he was born in Canada and had been in Orange county only a few years.

The court adjourned at 11:30 until 1:30 to permit the Placentia Chamber of Commerce to use the hall for the regular weekly luncheon. The luncheon was held. Mr. Kaufman was a visitor as has been every other candidate. He had not been at the trial of McLauchlan but did speak very briefly to this luncheon gathering. He did not mention the trial, nor The Register, nor you, Mr. Burke. I was called upon to introduce him which I did in a few brief words to which you seem to take exception. This all took place at the Chamber of Commerce meeting and not at the trial as your article would seem to intentionally convey.

The trial was resumed at 1:30 p. m. In a very brief opening statement to the jury I asked the jury to disregard the fact that this man was a Communist, and very definiely told them not to convict him if in their opinion the evidence was insufficient to convict a man not a Communist and not distributing Communistic literature.

Mr. McLauchlan spoke for fully 30 minutes, addressed his remarks to the spectators, and urged upon them for the full period of time the wonders to be accomplished by Communistic domination.

In my closing remarks I did answer Mr. McLauchlan as best I could, even though the controversy developed subject matter outside the issues.

Mr. McLauchlan was convicted and in due course the court fixed the fine at $35 or 17½ days in jail. The fine has been paid, he is out of jail. Who paid the fine I do not know. Those who read have the right to guess.

This is the "Roman Holiday" you charge that I staged for Mr. Kaufman. If a "Roman Holiday" it was, in fairness, Mr. Burke, give credit where credit is due. Give credit to Mr. Maxwell Burke, your brother, who vouched for Mr. McLauchlan in such glowing language. Give credit to the bondsmen, your employes, one of them your son-in-law. Give credit to Mr. McLauchlan, long-time friend and client of Mr. Maxwell Burke, who alone injected Communism into the trial.

I have known Mr. McLauchlan about the same length of time as has Mr. Maxwell Burke, but I knew him as a Communist from the first meeting. I know Mr. Maxwell Burke to be a lawyer of ability and shrewdness, and I cannot believe that in Mr. McLauchlan he did not know he had a dyed-in-the-wool red Communist as a client. If he failed to reveal this fact to your employes who signed the bond, do not blame Mr. Kaufman, do not blame me. Had he sought my advice I would have advised differently.

To those who know something of your financial connections in the county and the rumored financial interest of the Hon. Jas. Irvine in your paper, it is rather difficult to understand how you, in your defense of Mr. McLauchlan and so much of what he advocates, could be so disloyal to your backers. Mr. McLauchlan admittedly is endeavoring to gain contacts on the Irvine ranch in an effort to disrupt his organization in true Communistic fashion, yet he is being defended, in court and in your paper, by your officers and yourself. This, however is a matter for Mr. Irvine and perhaps is beside the issues.

I make this statement concerning your so-called "Roman Holiday" in fairness to Mr. Kaufman who knew even less about it than did the signers of the bond that released your pet gladiator.

Let us proceed, Mr. Burke. You say I have been repeatedly attorney for bootleggers. If my memory serves me correctly, I have represented three persons charged with the sale of liquor, and while they were acquitted, Mr. Kaufman had nothing to do with it as it all occurred before he was district attorney and before he was even connected with the office. I have represented other liquor violators by giving them the comfort of an attorney while they entered pleas of guilty, in none of which cases has Mr. Kaufman appeared or had any knowledge so far as I know.

In this respect let us be fair. These men are entitled to an attorney, the law gives them that right just as fully as though they were charged with manslaughter.

I would be pleased to have you publish the list of my clients who have been liquor violators if you will publish at the same time and with the same prominence, those represented by your brother, Maxwell Burke, who, I am advised, is the vice president of The Register Publishing company.

Permit me to further comment upon the fact that it matters not who may be successful in the race for district attorney, I will not be the chief deputy or a deputy of any kind in the office, and should Mr. McKinney be successful I am sure I will receive every courtesy, every favor that Mr. Kaufman and his office has extended me. As a fair district attorney he could not do less. I have asked no special consideration in the past; I hope I will never ask for any in the future.

Again, you charge me with having been attorney for the gambling interests, and also attorney for the gambling devices. I take itt hese two charges are the same and have been segregated by you merely to bolster up your case against Mr. Kaufman.

My office at one time did seek to test the validity of the vending machines operating in Orange county. A temporary restraining order was obtained, but with this the district attorney had nothing to do. His consent to file the petition was not asked, his approval was not sought. It was granted ex parte by a superior judge of Orange county. Mr. Kaufman, however, did promptly move to dissolve the restraining order and his motion was granted. What more could you have a district attorney do, Mr. Burke? If Mr. Kaufman is, as you charge, friendly to the gambling interests, this prompt attack was a bit of ingratitude, and mind you there was no campaign on at that time.

No injunction was obtained that interfered with any officer of Orange county other than the restraining order above noted which at most would interfere for but a few days. For three years and six months they have been operating and no restraining order interfered with the sheriff or other police officer. Perhaps they were forgotten until this primary election reminded them that activity against these vending machines might make votes.

Had you read the record of these cases above referred to, which record is public and readily accessible, I am sure you would not have made the statements, which, if made by another under the same circumstances, would be classed as deliberate falsehoods.

Again, Mr. Burke, you cast aspersions upon the district attorney because I represented a man charged with undue familiarity with some little girls. He was charged in four counts, at the trial he was acquitted on two counts, convicted on one, and the jury disagreed on the other. Again I say this man was entitled to counsel just as much as though he had been charged with manslaughter.

This defendant, a gassed World war veteran, with an unbalanced mind, took liberties of a minor character with these little girls. The district attorney's office prosecuted this case almost with bitterness, would not give an inch or concede a point, determined that this man should go to the penitentiary. That he did not go was not the fault of the district attorney. Probation was opposed to the last, but the superior court felt that under all the circumstances, probation was proper, and committed him to the county jail, where he now is. Not satisfied, the district attorney's office filed four more counts against this man, and tried him again, in an attempt to send him to the penitentiary, but I, however, withdrew from the case, and he was represented by other counsel.

Judge Henderson, of Ventura, who tried this case, and granted probation, stated, at the conclusion of the trial, that this case had been handled in a most efficient manner by the district attorney's office, and commented upon the vigor and ability of the prosecution.

The intensity with which this case was prosecuted, according to your ideas of political favoritism, should be another reason why I should oppose, instead of favor, Mr. Kaufman.

Again, Mr. Burke, you say that this is not an isolated case. In your article, you refer to a man who molested a little girl at Westminster, and state that his defender was this same man McFadden. In this you are so grossly in error that I cannot but class this statement in the category of deliberate and malicious falsehoods.

This man was arrested without a warrant while committing no offense of any kind, thrown in jail, and held there on a suspicion of vagrancy. Subsequently, such a charge was placed against him, which was promptly dismissed. He was a working man, out of employment, looking for work, lives in this community, and always enjoyed a good reputation. Personally, I knew nothing about this case until he was discharged from jail. Suit was brought against the sheriff in behalf of this man, for false arrest and imprisonment, judgment for $500 was obtained, and by the sheriff paid. Wherein does Mr. Kaufman figure in this episode? Do you believe it fair, Mr. Burke, to attempt to stretch this mantel of abuse heaped upon me, over Mr. Kaufman? Those are the facts, and, relying on your reputation, honesty, integrity and Christian rectitude, I feel that you will make due apology at least to Mr. Kaufman.

In your reference to an indecent show in Anaheim, you have reached the acme of political mudslinging. You mention the fact that I am an attorney in Anaheim, that the show was in Anaheim, trying to convey the idea that I had something to do with the show, arranged protection for it, otherwise aided and abetted the enterprise. For your information, let me say I knew nothing about it until I read it in The Register, and only learned afterwards that the account therein given was inaccurate, and unduly emphasized an incident that might happen any time, any place. You rejoice in the fact that you were "tipped off," but, so far as I know, you concealed this fact from the police in order to get the story.

Space, I am sure, will not permit me to answer in further detail your aspersions, innuendos and abuse directed at me. My clients, among whom I number some of the outstanding people of the county, will resent the charge you make that they are gamblers, bootleggers and underworld characters. Less than one-half of one per cent of my law business has had to do with the criminal side of the law. I do not represent any gambling interest or liquor interest, and such representation as you charge me with has been but sporadic cases that fall to the lot of every lawyer doing a general practice in a county such as this.

While your venomous attack on me, I am sure, had for its primary purpose injury to Mr. Kaufman, you must realize that to the extent of your influence, you have done me untold injury. It should perhaps not give me too much concern. I believe that I have the confidence and respect of those who know me, some of them for 40 years or more, in this county, a record that will not suffer in comparison with your own, even though you are still a tenderfoot in our midst. I do know that in your short career as a newspaper man in this county, you have antagonized every other newspaper in the county, both daily and weekly. It cannot be that they are all wrong, that they cater only to the so-called underworld, that their subscribers comprise the disreputable element of the community as you would have your followers believe. Something is wrong, Mr. Burke. Might it not possibly be with you?

I do know that before your arrival in our midst, Orange county was outstanding in the state of California in its reputation for decency and good government, and that if it still maintains that reputation, it is in spite of your vigorous efforts to picture the county government as being conducted by underworld characters, or by men and women with underworld connections. Because the voters of this county have not meekly submitted to your political dictatorship from the day of your arrival, you, through your paper, have attacked the best citizens of Orange county, men who have spent a lifetime in building up the wealth and prestige of this county. Your part in the political life of this county has been that of a political carpetbagger, and the time will come when you will move into some other peaceful community, and sow seeds of discontent and political animosity. I dare to say that you undoubtedly had such a record from whence you came. Your super ego will cause you to repeat wherever you may go.

Under the subhead, "McFadden's Message," you make statements which you do not say are quotations of mine, but you would leave that impression by enclosing the alleged statements in quotation marks. This may be a trick indulged in by newspaper men. It may be legitimate newspaper technique, but, measured by the standards of common honesty and decency, it falls far short of what one would expect from a man who is not only an experienced publisher and able writer, but an avowed follower of Christ as well.

I know you have influence in Orange county, most especially in Santa Ana. I know there are a large number who blindly follow your lead, but it would seem that this outburst against me is so plainly the trick of a political shyster that decent and intelligent people will not be fooled.

You make much of the fact that you are opposed to Communism, but let me call your attention to the fact that the strongest denunciation of Communism ever appearing in your paper appears along side of the article which calls forth this reply. You have, it is true, in prior issues, commented on Communism, but in many instances in such a lukewarm and apologetic manner that the impression was given that if you dared you would espouse the cause. Many people of Orange county are wondering whether or not you are a member of the American Civil Liberties Union. This question you might answer editorially.

I grant you, Mr. Burke, that few of the human family have attained perfection. I am not one of those who have. I doubt even that you have attained that envied goal. Might it not be well for all of us to sort of appraise ourselves, our innermost thoughts, our erstwhile conduct, take notice of our shortcomings, our delinquencies, so to speak, catalogue those things that might be of public interest, but not for public consumption? Perhaps then those of us who happen to publish a newspaper might be a little more considerate of the shortcomings of others.

Equipped as you are with an efficient newsgathering organization, I am sure that instances of moral delinquencies amounting to felonies committed by prominent people have come to your notice and attention. I have reason to believe such is the case. Have you at all times been as eager to report these instances to the police and other law enforcing agents as you have to blacken the character of one of no great importance because it suits your political program?

Whether your readers will still believe me the public enemy that you picture me, I do not know, but I can say that after all is said and done, so far I have never been prosecuted or charged with the crime of manslaughter.

In conclusion, permit me to again say that in my humble opinion, just common justice between man and man, unaccompanied by any degree of high ideals, would prompt you to retract that which you have so falsely written.

Yours very sincerely,
THOS. L. McFADDEN,
607 Bank of America Bldg.,
Anaheim, Cal.

Reply Made By J. F. Burke

Dear Mr. McFadden:

Your kindly and friendly letter was received in due order, and I am writing you in this manner, because it may be possible that things can be put more clearly, and you can understand them better than you can through the form of an editorial.

A great deal of your letter, Mr. McFadden, is the recital of the news items which every newspaper carried, including our own. But I am printing it nevertheless, although it is a repetition in some cases of three or four times of the same matter.

BUT, MR. McFADDEN, THE PARTICULAR THING I WANT TO THANK YOU FOR IS YOUR ACKNOWLEDGEMENT OF THE SUBSTANTIAL TRUTH OF EVERY STATEMENT IN MY EDITORIAL, AND IN THE OTHER MATTER THAT WAS PRINTED ON THE FIFTH PAGE, EXCEPT ONE.

That one was that you were not the attorney for the second man cited charged with molesting girls, but you acknowledge you were attorney for him in prosecuting the sheriff.

In this I was misinformed, but I believe, Mr. McFadden, even at that, you would not consider that serious, in the light of the rest, would you? In no other particular have you cited one untruth or one misstatement of fact in the whole page of matter.

IN CONSEQUENCE OF THAT, MR. McFADDEN, I AM REPRINTINGB THAT WHOLE PAGE, WRITTEN BEFORE YOUR STATEMENT, ONLY ELMINATING THAT WHERE THERE CAN BE A QUESTION FROM YOUR CRITICISM. THAT CERTAINLY IS FAIR TO YOU, MR. McFADDEN.

READ IT. IT IS PAGE FIVE. IF I HAD WRITTEN IT AFTER I RECEIVED YOUR LETTER, IT WOULD BE A COMPLETE REPLY.

READ IT AGAIN

Now read it over, Mr. McFadden, very carefully, and see now if every sentence isn't justified. You have added some material, which I should like to have added to that editorial, which I didn't know.

The real issue, Mr. McFadden, after all, between us is not when you became attorney for this party, but it is the question of commercialized law violations, and whether we want them continued.

You have been defending those engaged in it and want Mr. Kaufman elected. I have been fighting them and, to rid ourselves of it, know we must have a change.

After you have admitted all the facts but one, and I beg pardon for that misstatement, you ought to know that that near completeness in agreement on the facts in a controversy is something for which you should congratulate The Register.

You say that the slot machines are now running in Orange county. Frankly, Mr. McFadden, I didn't know it. As I recall, Mr. Foust is your client. He has been designated in this county as the "slot machine king." It was on his behalf that you tied up the sheriff, so as to prevent his grabbing the slot machines you refer to, until after your client had collected them, and after they were all collected, then the injunction was dissolved. And the district attorney didn't get it dissolved until then.

I am not questioning your loyalty, ability and zeal for your client, only possibly to suggest it is too great, maybe, at times, for the public good.

Now you say these slot machies are back running again. Yes, we can understand why you got the injunction. Do you think they will be running in this county if either Mr. McKinney or Mr. Guy is elected district attorney?

IS KAUFMAN IN EARNEST?

Do you know, Mr. McFadden, in spite of your protestation, I find it is difficult to believe in the light of this that the district attorney is very terribly in earnest about the law enforcement business.

Now really, Mr. McFadden, why are you anxious for Mr. Kaufman's election, because the gambling business is permitted to run, as you say it does, or because the district attorney is such a fighter for the enforcement of the law as you say he is?

You call me a "tenderfoot," I have been here seven years.

I am just as much in favor of law enforcement as when I first came. How long does it take to get over it?

YOU TELL ME WHAT A PERFECT SET OF COUNTY OFFICIALS YOU HAVE ALWAYS HAD IN ORANGE COUNTY. I HAVE READ THE REPORTS OF GRAND JURIES ON THE SHERIFFS AND HAVE NOTED CERTAIN SUICIDES AND HAVE NOTED THAT FOR 20 YEARS A HANDFUL OF POLITICIANS HAVE RUN THE POLITICS AND ABUSED ANYONE WHO CRITICIZED, AS THEY HAVE DONE ME. AND, FURTHER, I HAPPEN TO KNOW THAT THIS COUNTY WOULD BE SADDLED WITH $16,000,000 MORE DEBT IF THESE SAME OFFICIALS HAD HAD THEIR WAY.

Which is best, to watch quietly a pickpocket in a crowd stealing from a victim's pocket, or grab the thief and yell for the police? I suppose you would say: "Keep quiet or you will be a disturber!"

Which one of us is really working at the job of getting and keeping a decent reputation for Orange county?

Can Orange county be better off by permitting commercialized vice to run the county or by insisting that it be run out of the county?

You say that the attempt to fight gambling now is but a political trick, just before election. If that is so, it is not a trick of The Register, is it? We have been fighting it wherever we heard of it, haven't we?

Wasn't it three years ago, in a non-political year, when we exposed the terrible conditions when you defended the gambling in the county and got your restraining order on the sheriff?

Yes, Mr. McFadden, I know you are against the Communists. That is the great outdoor sport for all of us, isn't it? It doesn't cost anything, and there aren't very many of them, and they are a poor, deluded people.

THE REAL ISSUE

But, Mr. McFadden, this fight isn't over the question of that kind. I ask you, are you against any men who are breaking law for the purpose of making money out of it?

If so, where did you show such opposition and under what circumstances?

I HAVE NOT CHARGED YOU WITH ANY PERSONAL DELINQUENCY. YOUR PERSONAL LIFE MAY BE AS PURE AS THE DRIVEN SNOW. I AM ONLY SPEAKING OF YOU IN A REPRESENTATIVE CAPACITY, AS A LAWYER, AND AS YOU ARE ENDEAVORING TO INFLUENCE OTHERS IN GETTING A DISTRICT ATTORNEY OF YOUR LIKING ELECTED.

I note you try to create sympathy for yourself, because there was recited your attorneyship for law breaking interests, as we were noting your support for the district attorney.

These were facts to which attention was called, but you can point to no place or circumstance where either the publisher or the Register supported Communism, which you charged to the paper, as you introduced your friend, the district attorney, to the audience between the two sessions of the court.

You know very well what I referred to as "staging." It was not the trial, it was the manner in which you endeavored to give your friend, the district attorney, an opportunity to take advantage of the grandstand play you were making in trying to tie The Register to Communism.

I haven't attempted to suggest, Mr. McFadden, that you be fair. So I was not surprised at all, that you should attempt to tie to me and The Register, statements of an attorney for his client, statements for which I, in no respect, nor the paper were responsible, could not control and which the attorney since has declared he knows was a misstatement of fact.

I am not concerned seriously about that, because I feel the whole matter of commercialized law-breaking is altogether too important a question when defended, protected and continued, to spend the time over statements of an attorney for his client in another matter entirely.

You know it didn't have anything to do with the trial. You know very clearly just what you staged.

Mr. McFadden, why don't you organize the gamblers and bootleggers of the county into an anti-Red squad, or is that what you are trying to do. It will give them great gobs of patriotism, put the communities under a wagon-load of gratitude, cause the citizens to forget the stealing they are doing from honest men.

AND WHO KNOWS BUT THAT THROUGH PROPER MISREPRESENTATION AND CAMPAIGN ABUSE, YOU CAN MAKE SOME FRIGHTENED BOOBS BELIEVE THAT THOSE WHO ARE OPPOSING COMMERCIALIZED VICE ARE COMMUNISTS, YOU CAN DO AWAY WITH ALL OPPOSITION TO GAMBLERS AND OTHERS, AND YOU CAN REALLY PERFECT ORANGE COUNTY ALONG THE LINES YOU DESIRE. IT WILL THEN HAVE PERFECT PEACE, THAT OF CORRUPTION, CONTENTMENT AND DEATH. THAT'S A REAL PROGRAM.

KAUFMAN ATTACKED THE REGISTER

You say, in this letter, speaking of your friend Kaufman, he did not "mention The Register nor you." Let's see what he did say. We happen to have it in his exact language. What he said was this: "I have had requests made by a publisher in Orange county, and his son-in-law, Loyal K. King, and they have advised me they will defeat me for election."

Mr. McFadden, do you think that anybody but a lawyer would say that a man who made such a statement did not refer to me or to The Register.

I presume that he was referring to the Western Christian Advocate at the time, and everybody knew it.

And, incidentally, how was it that you knew and that Mr. Kaufman knew that The Register was opposed to him? Up to that time it had never said a word against him. Didn't you know it from the fact that The Register stands for one thing and you stand for another thing? And that you and Mr. Kaufman agree?

LET ME ADD, IN THAT CONNECTION, THAT I HAVE NEVER MENTIONED ANY OFFICIAL BY NAME, TO OPPOSE HIM, IN THE MIDST OF A POLITICAL CAMPAIGN, EXCEPT AS SUCH OFFICIAL HAS FIRST ATTACKED THE REGISTER.

You state that you have received word from people who know my financial condition that Mr. Irvine was interested in The Register, and that The Register is connected with Communism, and is protecting it, and the Communists are planning to do something to Mr. Irvine.

And you make these suggestions to indicate that something should be done about it by him.

Well, Mr. McFadden, if you are telling the truth about these things, I should think there would be. You know if I were in your place I would send that letter special delivery to Mr. Irvine. I would underscore that part. I would do it for two purposes. First, to show him the earnest solicitude of your heart for his welfare. Second, could there be any more certain way to eliminate the pernicious rascal against whom your animosity is directed than to have him see, if he is financially back of The Register, that he is working for his own undoing?

Then, if nothing happens, you will probably conclude either Mr. Irvine has been fooled and duped, or The Register has bought him off, and made him a part of its program.

No, your purposes, Mr. McFadden, are too thin. You protest too much.

You ask whether I am a member of the American Civil Liberties Union. The facts force me to say to you "No"; that I have not supported them, but at the same time I want to assure you that I realize that there are many fine leaders among them, such as Charles F. Amidon, retired judge of the U. S. District Court of North Dakota; Harry Elmer Barnes, journalist, former professor of sociology, Smith college; Edwin M. Borchard, professor of law, Yale University Law school; Richard C. Cabot, Professor of Social Ethics, Harvard university, and professor of medicine, Harvard Medical school; John Dewey, Professor of Philosophy, Columbia University, and John A. Ryan, head of the social department of the United Catholic Welfare conference, who I understand are all members.

HAS DONE FINE JOB

Mr. McFadden, you have done the best, as a lawyer, that could be done for your client. You have done the best to avoid the effect of the facts concerning the Concordia Club.

I didn't say you were the attorney for the city of Anaheim. As a matter of fact, far from it, it was your partner who was the attorney, and of course your partner and the police and Mr. Kaufman knew nothing about what was transpiring.

THE LAST PEOPLE WHO LEARN OF THESE THINGS ARE THE PEOPLE WHO ARE EMPLOYED TO PROSECUTE THEM. LET ME REMIND YOU, MR. McFADDEN, THAT COURTS HAVE DECLARED THAT YOU CANNOT ENJOIN PEACE OFFICERS FROM DOING THEIR DUTY UNDER A VALID LAW.

You say you got this injunction from a superior court judge of Orange county.

Granted, and wouldn't a district attorney who wanted to see law enforced advise a sheriff that such an order was invalid. A sheriff who did this with Newton D. Baker as his attorney was protected by the higher courts.

The injunction was not dissolved, was it, Mr. McFadden, until after your client had collected the paraphernalia which, by implication, you say he is now using again in the county? You certainly interposed no objection to dissolving the protection which the court afforded you, after you had saved the gambling paraphernalia, did you, Mr. McFadden?

You say that the man whom you defended from molesting little girls was shell-shocked, was not himself, was not responsible for his acts.

This is entirely possible, but certainly the people who wanted him incarcerated for the protection of society would be warranted in their endeavor, just as much if his acts were due to shell-shock as to any other reason, the only difference being in the one case it might be in prison and the other in an asylum.

BOTH ARE CONSISTENT

THERE IS ONE THING, MR. McFADDEN, IN WHICH BOTH OF US SHOULD TAKE CONSOLATION. YOU HAVE BEEN REPRESENTING THE GROUP THAT HAVE BEEN VIOLATING LAW FOR MONEY. AS A PUBLISHER, I HAVE BEEN ENDEAVORING TO PREVENT THEIR OPERATIONS.

I would not say that these people may not be entitled to an attorney, but I will say that there are limitations which the public good will place upon attorneys who are defending men who make their living out of such operations.

If I am sincere in my editorial and you are sincere in your letter, isn't it natural that we should come to conflict and meet headon? It is proof, maybe, that both of us are carrying along very consistently.

AND, MR. McFADDEN, IF THERE IS ANY PLACE IN MY WRITINGS OR SPEECHES OR LIFE, WHERE COMMUNISM HAS HAD DEFENSE OR PROTECTION, WHY DON'T YOU TAKE ADVANTAGE OF MY CHALLENGE AND DISCOVER IT?

EVERY EDITORIAL I HAVE EVER WRITTEN IS HERE UNDER THE ROOF OF THE REGISTER. IF YOU THOUGHT YOU COULD FIND ANYTHING TO SUPPORT YOUR CASE YOU WOULD HUNT IT UP, WOULDN'T YOU?

I WILL GRANT THAT I AM NOT DIVERTED FROM GOING AFTER THE REAL MENACE IN ORANGE COUNTY BY THE DESIRES OF THOSE WHO WOULD PROTECT THESE MENACES, AND THROW A RED HERRING OF SOMETHING THAT IS NOT A DANGER TO ORANGE COUNTY, ACROSS THE TRAIL.

Isn't this what makes you mad, Mr. McFadden? Now read over my corrected matter on the other page, and see if you will not grant that it is in harmony with truth and justice and with your attitude?

You want things as they are and are becoming. And you say that gambling is being carried on.

I want it cleaned up and officers elected who will do it.

I don't blame you for fighting for it if you believe that way.

I want the law enforced, gambling driven out, the money spent with merchants and landlords.

You are working to get your plan. I am working to get my plan. We have given the people an exhibition of what each thinks. Now that the public has it clearly in mind, let's let the voters decide, as they are going to do anyhow.

Yours truly,
J. F. BURKE.

Motives For Attacks Upon The Register Exposed

REGISTER'S OPPOSITION TO COMMUNISM OFTEN MADE KNOWN THROUGH EDITORIALS

The position of The Register and its publisher in respect to Communism, or any other "ism" that would employ force and violence, or would attempt to undermine law or society, is too well known to be affected by untruths and misrepresentations in Orange county.

For many years the publisher of The Register has not only spoken openly and frankly upon all economic questions, but his views have been presented upon almost every phase of these questions.

REGISTER'S OPPOSITION

We have given expression to our views primarily through our editorial columns. Neither friend nor foe has ever accused us of either indecision or ambiguity or equivocation. The volumes of these editorials are here in our office. The files of The Register are here under our roof.

And we challenge any man to find one solitary word that by any mental gymnastics could be even remotely twisted into a claim that we stand for any man or group that would achieve its ends by force or violence or the overthrow of government.

We have written upon this very question many times, and we are herewith printing a recent editorial published in our paper of Saturday, April 28th, of this year.

Read it and then ask any of these men, who are trying to slander our institution and break down the influence of The Register and what it is standing for, to produce any utterance The Register publisher has made, or any word that has ever been printed by him that is contrary to this editorial:

THE ABSURDITY OF THE COMMUNISTS' REASONING

If there were real ground for fear, because of Communism, the way to meet it would be to show the false basis of the Communist political organization, as well as to show a better way to meet the difficulties of our social life, which gives the Communist his opportunity to challenge anyone.

We note that there are those who claim that their object in life is to fight the "red radicals," as they call them. But chiefly they fight them by denunciation and not by argument. Denunciation convinces no one. It may arouse passion, but it leaves intelligence cold.

We have just been looking through a pamphlet that is published by the "Workers Library Publishers." It is being distributed, we understand, by actual members of the Communist party. There are many things of interest in it. In a chapter headed "Building the Party," we have found some striking statements. This is one of its sentences:

"While preparing for ILLEGALITY, the party must at the same time struggle against every attack upon its LEGAL rights through the development of mass struggles."

Take that sentence—and its content. The party acknowledges that it proposes to defy law and accomplish its purpose by other methods than legal ones. In other words, it is an organization of force. It does not propose to appeal to the intellect, to the reason or the judgment. It proposes to compel by strong power. It acknowledges this and then says: "While preparing for that we must defend ourselves against every attack upon our LEGAL rights."

This show the hypocritical and the pernicious character of its program. It would use, for the protection of its individual members, the very institutions which it would destroy in endeavoring to accomplish its purpose. It fails to recognize that all problems really are of the mind, and if the mind of the people is wrong, and is not changed, the problem remains unsolved. They depend upon force. Force is war. War never settled any question. It cannot settle questions, in the very nature of them.

You may, by force, prevent a man or an animal from doing certain bad things. But as long as he wants to do them, the problem is still there. The man can have the facts so presented that he doesn't want to do them, because he has the power of reason. The animal cannot. More than that, one can never even achieve what he is after by force, unless he has the major portion and the greater power, which means the majority, or at least the control of the means of force. In our country, this is only possible through majority action. And when one gets the majority, he can gain his ends without force. There is no basis upon which the program of the Communists, in this respect, can be defended.

This is what forces it into such foolish, inconsistent statements as we have just quoted. Let us paraphrase their statement: "While preparing for the time when we can accomplish our ends by force, we must protect ourselves from an attack by force, through the appeal to the law." In spite of this, we believe that even they should be protected by law in all the rights that any individual should have under our constitution and law. This is not for their good, however, but for ours. For if we should permit any man to be denied the protection which the law affords, we cannot insure the protection of the law to the rest of us.

The only way those of us, who believe that the only method to achieve ends is through legal and constitutional methods, can be assured of the protection of the law, which we desire, is to be sure that its mantle of protection is thrown upon every other individual. This is the only insurance we have of protection of property, person and life.

We should be interested to know on what theory of equity or ethics the Communist, in this sentence, asks the protection of the very institutions which it is his purpose to destroy.

STATEMENT BY ATTORNEY W. MAXWELL BURKE

The statement that Charles McLaughlan, Communist who recently was arrested at Placentia on a charge of distributing literature without a license, "has been of assistance to The Register," was made by his attorney, under an erroneous impression, in an effort to obtain the client's release without posting bail.

And the two Register employes who signed the $50 bail bond eventually required of the client, had no idea of his identity, but acted purely as a favor to the attorney.

Attempts by rival newspapers to seize upon the attorney's statement and use it in an attempt to pin Communism upon The Register, were upset when the attorney himself today issued a statement explaining his own mistake and the circumstances of the bail bond.

W. M. Burke, the attorney, issued the following statement:

"An effort is being put forth by the newspapers, which are hostile to and competitors of The Register, to make it appear that The Register is supporting Communism and Communists, because of a certain action by me as an attorney.

"I was called over to Placentia the other day by Charles McLaughlan, who had been arrested for distributing literature in Placentia without a license. McLaughlan is a resident of Anaheim. I had known him some time, and I do not know how I got the impression, but I thought he had sometime worked for The Register. I found later this was untrue; that he had never worked at any time for The Register, and that its publisher had never known him until about the time when he detailed a representative of the paper to find the Communists in the county.

"Not being able to get McLaughlan out on his own recognizance, and needing a bond signed, I went to The Register office and asked Mr. Lee Millis, who is the bookkeeper, and Mr. Loyal King, the manager, to do this for me.

"Neither Mr. Millis nor Mr. King knew the identity of the defendant when they signed the bond, but only that he was charged with distributing dodgers without a license.

W. M. BURKE."

To The Voters Of Orange County

An attorney of Anaheim, who is also employed by the city of Placentia, made a Roman holiday of a misdemeanor committed by a misguided youth, who claims he is a Communist. He staged the political part of the affair in order to give his friend and comrade, the district attorney, an opportunity to make a speech and to misrepresent the attitude of the Santa Ana Register.

Mr. McFadden, the attorney in question, and the district attorney knew full well, as lawyers, that the attempt to make The Register "Communistic" was utterly silly and absurd. They knew full well that The Register and its publisher are opposed to force and violence and the overthrow of government, but they were grasping at straws and trying to make an issue against the paper and its editor. Why?

It was because of what The Register stands for as a publication in Orange county, and what those interests stand for, that this attorney has been representing in Orange county. The Register has been taking an open, frank position against law violations, particularly against public gambling, against bootlegging, and, incidentally, it has been against any special privilege being granted by politicians to the influential, at the sacrifice of the general good.

MR. McFADDEN, WHO STAGED THIS SHOW ON BEHALF OF HIS FRIEND, "SOPPY" KAUFMAN, HAS BEEN REPEATEDLY THE LEGAL REPRESENTATIVE AND ATTORNEY FOR THE ELEMENTS IN THIS COUNTY THAT THE REGISTER HAS HAD TO FIGHT, AND HE AND THOSE WHO HIRE HIM FOR THESE PURPOSES, HAVE RECOGNIZED THAT IF THEY COULD BREAK DOWN THE INFLUENCE AND POWER OF THE REGISTER, THEY COULD "GET AWAY" WITH THEIR MACHINATIONS UNVEXED AND UNTROUBLED BY AN AROUSED PUBLIC OPINION.

WHAT McFADDEN REPRESENTS

Mr. McFadden has been repeatedly the attorney for bootleggers.

He has been the attorney for the gambling interests.

He was the attorney for the gambling devices in Orange county, and actually obtained an injunction against the sheriff to prevent him from performing his duty in rooting out the slot machines.

When it was found that a moral pervert had been abusing little girls in Santa Ana, so that the motherhood of this city was aroused, as it has not been on any other proposition for 10 years, it was this same attorney who appeared on his behalf, using every device known to the law to protect and defend him.

We do not say that no attorney in Santa Ana would have taken this case; we do not say there is no other attorney who would take it in Orange county, but we do say that the attorney, who has been the legal stay of the bootleggers, the gamblers and who tied up the sheriff from carrying on his work as sheriff, as far as the gamblers were concerned, was the attorney who was called upon and accepted the job.

In another case, of a man who had been before the court charged with molesting a little schoolgirl at Westminster, Mr. McFadden brought suit on his behalf against the sheriff, claiming false arrest, the sort of maneuver that tends to break down and intimidate law enforcement.

"PROTECTION" IS OBJECTIVE

He is an attorney in Anaheim. It was in Anaheim where practically open gambling and an indecent show were put on without let or hindrance, and when The Register was "tipped off" by the man who was on the inside, The Register was told that high county authorities had pledged protection for that gambling and indecent party.

AN AROUSED ELECTORATE IN ORANGE COUNTY IS DEMANDING BETTER THINGS. THE REGISTER HAS BEEN UNCOVERING THIS FLAGRANT AND CHALLENGING AND IMPUDENT VIOLATION OF OUR GAMBLING ACT AND THE WHOLE MISERABLE FRATERNITY, WHICH IS TRYING TO GET ITS INCOME FROM THE HONEST LABOR OF THE PEOPLE, IS AROUSED AND ANGRY AT THE REGISTER FOR THESE EXPOSURES AND FOR ITS OPPOSITION.

They see the day approaching when the electorate will place in the office of the district attorney, a man who is more honest in determination to make Orange county law-abiding and to protect the county from these ravaging wolves, who are no better in the manner, in which they get their money, than common thieves.

DISTRICT ATTORNEY HIS PAL

So here was the opportunity to make the combination. Here was the opportunity for this "special pleader" for this group to do some "hot" and "fast" work for his faithful friend, the district attorney.

So this man who has succeeded in protecting his clients, possibly, beyond the powers of other attorneys to do it, stages a performance, metaphorically puts his arms around the district attorney, placing his generous and expansive hand upon his shoulder, this man representing, as an attorney, this element in Orange county, in this manner places upon the district attorney the stamp of his unqualified approval.

He declares: Here is a man who is four-square. In effect he says: This is the man whom I, the attorney for this group, want elected district attorney.

McFADDEN'S MESSAGE

NOTING MR. McFADDEN'S ACTIONS, HIS STAGING OF THE POLITICAL SHOW AT PLACENTIA, HIS INTRODUCTION AND ENDORSEMENT OF KAUFMAN, HIS TYPE OF CLIENTELE, AND THE INTERESTS HE HAS BEEN PAID TO PROTECT FROM THE LAW, THERE IS NO DIFFICULTY IN GETTING HIS MESSAGE TO THE PEOPLE OF ORANGE COUNTY AS CLEARLY AS IF HE HAD USED THESE IDENTICAL WORDS:

"THIS IS THE MAN (KAUFMAN) WHO IS SUPPOSED TO BE ELECTED TO DRIVE FROM THE HAUNTS OF DECENT SOCIETY THE VERY CLASS OF PEOPLE, SOME OF WHOM I AM DEFENDING.

"THE SLOT GAMBLING DEVICES ARE NOW IN OPERATION, AND THEY MIGHT NOT BE IF MR. McKINNEY WERE DISTRICT ATTORNEY, SO I URGE YOU TO VOTE FOR MR. KAUFMAN, THE 'FOUR-SQUARE MAN,' THE 'FOUR' CONSISTING OF ME, MY CLIENTS, MR. KAUFMAN, AND AGAINST THE REGISTER.

"MR. KAUFMAN IS OPPOSED BY THE SANTA ANA REGISTER, THE INSTITUTION THAT IS FIGHTING THE TRAFFIC IN WHICH MY CLIENTS ARE ENGAGED. I WILL GRANT MR. McKINNEY IS A GOOD LAWYER, BUT HE IS IN FAVOR OF THE POSITION WHICH THE REGISTER TAKES UPON THIS QUESTION. VOTE FOR MR. KAUFMAN AND YOU WILL HAVE MY UNDYING THANKS AND GRATITUDE."

PROTECTING GAMBLER CLIENTS

We are not urging, understand, that Mr. McFadden shouldn't do what he is doing as an attorney. We are not claiming that he isn't looking after his clients' interest in his activity for the district attorney.

We are not claiming, for a moment, that his clients should complain at the manner in which he is endeavoring to get the district attorney back into office. We are just pointing out that as an attorney, representing those elements which are subversive to the public good, his leadership on behalf of his clients is naturally contrary to the good of those elements in society that realize that there is a terrible undermining and destructive force being carried on by those in whose interest Mr. McFadden makes his appeal. And what is for their interest is against the interest of the county.

The voters of this county cannot be fooled.

GAMBLERS FOR KAUFMAN

This is the issue in Orange county. All the men who are intelligent, concerning the political situation in this county, see instantly, in summing up what communities will be carried by Mr. Kaufman for district attorney, begin with Seal Beach and declare that he will get that without any question by a very large percentage, as it is the Monte Carlo of Orange county, and defying law with constancy, and has been for weeks.

They declare that he will probably carry Newport Beach, but not by as big a majority as he will Seal Beach. For there are more people in Newport Beach who realize that the gambling fraternity is robbing the people of money that should go to the merchants and to the landlords, and that people can only stay a day or two in frequent cases, because of this robbery, when they had money enough to begin with to spend a period.

They say he will carry Newport Beach, however, with the aid of this fraternity, by a vote of possibly 60 to 40.

They declare that this man McFadden's influence will probably bring a majority of the voters of Anaheim to him, with all that Mr. McFadden represents. And elsewhere, wherever this group is sufficiently numerous, it is declared that votes will be "stacked up" that way.

MONEY FOR CANDIDATES

The whole racketeering element is happy and rejoices whenever the Register and its publishers are abused. There are newspapers which are expressing the abuse and hatred which that unsavory outfit feels. We know that that group is putting money into this campaign for candidates.

We do not say that they are hiring these newspapers to make these assaults. These newspapers and men interested, like Mr. McFadden, may be doing this for nothing and boarding themselves.

But verily, some way or other, they are receiving or expect their reward.

But let it be known that there are striking and marked exceptions to this attitude of sychophancy to these interests among the newspapers. The exception among the dailies is that of the Orange News.

You can examine for yourself and see your own weekly paper as to its attitude in abusing The Register, in proportion as The Register is exposing the combination of gambling and bootlegging in the county.

MR. KAUFMAN IS WELCOME TO THAT KIND OF SUPPORT THAT STAGED THAT SPECTACLE AS A POLITICAL STUNT OVER IN PLACENTIA. IF MR. McFADDEN HAD STOOD FOR EITHER MR. GUY OR MR. McKINNEY IN THIS CAMPAIGN, WE WOULD HAVE HAD SOME DOUBT IN SPITE OF THE FACT THAT THE REGISTER'S REPRESENTATIVES IN CONTACTING PROFESSIONAL GAMBERS AT SEAL BEACH AND ELSEWHERE, FOUND NONE OF THEM FOR GUY OR McKINNEY.

RESENT REGISTER'S INDEPENDENCE

There has been a constant effort to break down the influence of The Register before the people of Orange county. The politicians are desperately opposed to independence. They desire that a paper shall publish that which is agreed upon by a bunch of men who are trying to run the politics of the county and who are in league with the elements that are preying upon its citizens.

The desperation of this gambling, bootlegging, racketeering outfit to break down the influence of an independent journal in Orange county is now patent to everyone who is capable of reading.

AT DISTRICT ATTORNEY'S DOOR

The real liability for lax law enforcement, for permitting criminal conditions in any county lies right at the door of the district attorney. With a district attorney able, determined, devoted to the interest of the protection of his county, with a sheriff who is reasonably fair upon the question, he is bound to succeed.

WITH THE BEST-INTENTIONED SHERIFF IN THE WORLD, LAW VIOLATORS CANNOT BE BROUGHT TO BOOK, CONVICTED AND SENTENCED WITH AN INDIFFERENT AND PASSIVE DISTRICT ATTORNEY, SAYING NOTHING ABOUT ONE WHO IS DEPENDING FOR HIS ELECTION UPON THE VOTES OF THE VERY ONES WHOM HE SHOULD DRIVE, AS ENEMIES OF THE REPUBLIC, FROM THE HAUNTS OF HONEST MEN.

Recently we spent a few weeks in the east. When we returned, we were told on every hand about the licentious and flagrant manner in which the gamblers were carrying on at Seal Beach. We could not believe it possible that they had become so bold and impudent.

We sent representatives of the paper there and found it was as open as at Tia Juana or Monte Carlo.

By constantly turning on the searchlight and arousing the people to the desperate condition, the places were forced to close for a period. Why must conditions reach such a point as this?

WHY ENFORCEMENT FAILS

One of the reasons why the 18th amendment failed to the degree it did was because men in sympathy with the liquor traffic were selected to enforce the law. The man whom the law-abiding mothers and fathers, wives and husbands, can depend upon to sustain the reputation of this county, as one of the finest counties for home-seekers in this country, is the man whom the elements that are trying to break down the bulwarks of law and order in the county want defeated.

We heard one time of a man who had a large family and an extremely small income. They seemed to be getting along in a pretty fair way. His neighbors asked him finally how he did it. His reply was: "I find what each one of my children doesn't like, and then I give him all he can eat of it."

THE BEST DOSE THAT CAN BE GIVEN THOSE WHO WOULD UNDERMINE SOCIETY, DESTROY ITS INSTITUTIONS AND RUIN ITS WORTH IS TO FIND OUT WHAT IT IS THEY DON'T WANT, AND GIVE IT TO THEM IN LARGE AND COPIOUS QUANTITIES. THEIR CRY IS: "WE DON'T WANT McKINNEY." THE REMEDY IS PLAIN.

FACTS ON ARREST OF COMMUNIST FOR DISTRIBUTING LITERATURE IN CITY OF PLACENTIA OUTLINED

We have ignored, personally, the stories that have come out concerning the trial of this Communist for distributing literature in Placentia.

The publisher of The Register knew nothing of the episode until after it had taken place. The attorney for this man asked two men connected with The Register to sign the bond for this misdemeanor, and in each case it was signed without knowing who the man was, what he was charged with, or his political ideas. They signed this, as they have similar bonds before for the clients of this attorney, and as we would ourselves sign a bond by application by any reputable attorney for his client, for the amount of $50.00 for a misdemeanor.

FACTS ON ARREST

The attorney said that when he was called into the case, he had thought that the man had been distributing copies of The Register. The news dispatches emanating from Placentia said that he made some statement indicating that the man had worked for The Register. We do not know what was said.

We only know that this man, nor no other man of his ideas concerning force and violence and the overthrow of government, has ever worked for The Register or has ever done anything for The Register, except to make it more difficult for The Register and all others who believe in correcting the evils of society by democratic methods to do so.

The only thing that The Register has insisted on has been that those people who do recognize the evils of society, and are trying to aid the distressed and the unemployed, and who are trying to do it, such as President Roosevelt and our various philanthropic agencies, shall not be charged with being Communist simply because they are trying to help.

We further maintain that the dangers to our civilization and our system come infinitely more from the criminal class, who are finding it profitable to carry on their criminality and are able to employ attorneys to defend and protect them, and to have newspapers "smear" those who are fighting the law violator, than there is from an insignificant group of misguided and nondescript youth, who, penniless and helpless, are carrying on so foolishly as this man was in Placentia.

If the Communists ever get to the point where it is profitable for them to racketeer, when they are numerous enough to have votes, they will then find lawyers to protect them and newspapers to defend them.. We believe, however, that more can be gained by teaching even those people that America stands for law, it stands for order, it stands for equity, it stands for impartiality in the application of law.

NATIONAL WHIRLIGIG

-- News Behind The News --

WASHINGTON
By Paul Mallon

USINESS

The figures show Joseph P. Kennedy told the truth when he said usiness was better than business confidence.

Official and unofficial tabulations indicate that we are in a summer recession which is now about 5 per cent more than seasonal. That is hardly amazing in view of the drought, strikes, heat and inner usiness skittishness. You would naturally expect the recession to be least three times that much, in the face of all these troubles.

The seasonally adjusted monthly business chart proves that production was off about 4 points in July, employment 2, wages 2, and sales 1.

The only things higher in July were the price index and the thermometer. The price level was higher than it has been for two years. The drought did it.

CONFIDENCE

Government business seers, with these figures in front of them, take less excited view of conditions than, for instance, the marketeers in New York.

They look on the drought as a more serious hazard to business than strikes. Labor troubles can be settled but the drought cannot. Both are national problems, but are localized.

There is another more widespread national problem, less obvious, but possibly even more important in their view. That is the subject of which Mr. Kennedy spoke—the (at times) irrational uncertainty among some business men.

When Mr. Kennedy spoke as chairman of the securities commission, his voice was drowned out by the assassination of Dollfuss, which occurred the same day. His cooling promise of restrained and sensible business relations was lost in the face of the hot blasts from Europe. It was lost only temporarily.

From the way Mr. Roosevelt's economic counselors are now murmuring among themselves, you can see very plainly that they are going to meet Mr. Roosevelt at the pier with advice that Washington turn the electric fan on the business man's brow.

There will be more speeches like that of Mr. Kennedy—and more than speeches.

CHART

Meanwhile you can get a general idea of how things have been going from the following table of business indices. The average years 1923, 1924, and 1925 are 100 for each index except prices.

1930	96	87.8	87.4	92	102	92	86.4
1931	81	74.4	66	75	92	63	73.0
Mar. 1932	67	66.4	52.3	61	72	26	67.1
July 1932	58	58.3	39.6	51	65	27	64.4
Jan. 1933	65	59.4	39.2	56	60	22	61.0
May	78	60.6	42	56	67	16	62.7
July	100	70.1	49.9	65	70	21	68.9
Sept.	84	74.3	57.6	60	70	30	70.8
Oct.	77	73.9	57.4	58	70	37	71.2
Dec.	75	71.8	53.1	62	69	58	70.8
Jan. 1934	78	71.8	52.9	64	68	49	72.2
Feb.	81	74.7	59.2	64	71	45	73.6
April	86	78.3	65.6	62	77	32	73.3
June	84	77	63.3	64	74	29	74.6
July	80	75	61	63	73	29	75

(June and July privately estimated).

Neither the drought, strikes nor heat had much to do with the decrease of industrial production in July. It was due mainly to increased prices of steel and lumber and the fact that textile mills are on a 25 per cent curtailment program. The drought and strikes hurt department store sales and car loadings.

BOOKS

A General Motors executive walked into the NRA headquarters the other day. He was formerly connected with the NRA and just dropped in for a chat. Under his arm was a fat book about the size of the old-fashioned family Bible.

NRA'ers probably had never seen a Bible and inquired about it. They were amazed when informed that it was the price policy of General Motors reduced to writing.

The price policy of the NRA has never been reduced to writing. Neither has the labor policy, except in the most general terms.

That started a round of discussion about the advisability of reducing all NRA policies to detailed writing, so all the bickering and uncertainty of the different code systems could be avoided. There would be one rule for all.

It could be done but it would take more print paper than there is available in the world.

* * *

MORALE

In the NRA organization the morale is not what it used to be.

General Johnson has been carrying the rules and regulations of that outfit around in his head since the start. They have never been put on paper either.

The result is that since Johnson has been away there has been considerable inter-office confusion, conflicts of authority, disputes as to procedure. Some executives have become disgusted.

* * *

RESUMPTION

There has been a big rush lately among vacationing government officials to get back on the job before the boss comes back from Hawaii. Messrs. Morgenthau, Roper and Tugwell arrived the same day, acting as if they had never been away.

The influx aroused suspicions that Mr. Roosevelt had ordered some of them back to work, but such suspicions are undoubtedly groundless. The truth is the president invited his associates to take a month off if they could arrange it. Few could.

NOTES

Down in the dungeons of Wall Street they are still referring to the New Stock Exchange commission as "the securities extermination commission." . . . certain people are trying to promote national interest in the Donovan case by getting the discharged NRA labor leader to make a speech-making tour.

NEW YORK
By James McMullin

DECISION

Watch for the National Labor Board's ruling in the case of the Houde Engineering Company of Buffalo. It will have a vital bearing on future capital-labor relations.

Here's the background. The Regional Labor Board ordered an election by Houde employes to determine whether they wished representation by a Federation union or a company union. The Federation won but the company insisted on dealing with both groups. The Regional Board stepped in and ordered the company to recognize only the Federation union. The Houde people refused to comply and Federation officers appealed to the National Labor Board for a final decision.

New York insiders get word that the Board will uphold majority rule as against proportional representation and it has them worried. The proportional idea—whereby any minority group of employes can name representatives for collective bargaining—is their main hope of resisting Federation gains.

* * *

OPEN SHOP

This was the principle invoked in the motor strike settlement. Industry liked it. It strengthened company unions by assuring workers of representation without having to pay dues to a Federation group. The steel mediation proposal was based on the opposite idea that whatever organization received a majority vote should represent all workers. The steel companies accepted it because they think they can lick the Amalgamated in an election. Amalgamated is staking its very existence on an all-or-nothing basis—but if it wins it wins everything.

There are many lines of business not so confident as the steel heads. They feel that once organized labor gets the upper hand their company unions are sunk without the proportional safeguard to keep them alive. Hence the Houde case means a lot in their battle to preserve the open shop.

Already open shop leaders are preparing to fight the expected adverse decision. Their strategy will probably be to ignore this labor Board's authority as they sometimes snubbed its predecessor and leave it up to the Board to prove them wrong in court.

* * *

STABILITY

A New Yorker with wide corporate connections believes the government could best promote recovery by promulgating a law or regulation forbidding reduction of wages below present levels for five years.

His point is that industry must be convinced that wages and raw materials (of which wages are the chief cost ingredient) have reached bottom before serious buying begins. As long as there's a chance for further wage cuts—and therefore lower prices—they have no incentive to go ahead. By doing so they might give competitors who hold back a chance to score.

Conversely he argues that wage stability would spur purchases.

It would mean that prices couldn't drop further and would probably rise—making it smart to buy now even if the goods bought weren't needed for use till later. Advance purchases bred by the conviction among industrial leaders that prices had touched their low limit marked the beginning of the real upturn from previous depressions.

This man's idea doesn't get much backing among his fellow New York conservatives. Somehow they can't enthuse at the prospect of not being able to cut their major costs if they want to.

* * *

EUROPE

Informed financial circles aren't in the least excited about the war scare. They admit a stray spark might ignite the powder keg at any time but are convinced that Hitler will backtrack even further than he has already—perhaps to the point of renouncing the Anschluss—if it's necessary to keep Mussolini off his neck.

Von Papen isn't out of the German picture because he was sent to Vienna. Quite the contrary. He's simply out of the way of fresh inter-Nazi squabbles now brewing and in a position to hop back to Berlin on a moment's notice as and when needed to participate in the formation of a new government. Insiders understand that von Papen is now rated the chief white hope of the industrialists—and they will have a lot to say about Germany's future political leadership.

WEIGHT

Wall Street's reported enthusiasm for Joseph V. Kennedy's reassuring remarks was genuine enough but accompanied by a distinct undertone of skepticism in informed circles.

A leading broker puts it this way: "We knew all along that Kennedy was a good scout. The question is, how much weight does he carry? We'd feel a lot more chipper if it had been FDR who said those kind words."

* * *

LITTLE

The first serious argument between the Stock Exchange and the Securities and Exchange commission is likely to focus on small margin accounts. The SEC has intimated that abolition of such accounts — protecting the shoestringers from themselves—would be in the public interest. The Exchange thought it over and decided against such action on the ground that the little fellows would only find a way to speculate outside the Exchange — so what's the use? Some members of the Commission are reported as displeased at this ignoring of their wishes.

STAKE

Kurt von Rieth—the German envoy to Austria who was recalled for offering aid to the Austrian Nazis—has a sizable stake in the American oil business. His father was European director for the old Standard Oil Company—before it was trust-busted—and passed his large stock interest on to his son.

VICTORY

In the troubled waters of world affairs none fish more successfully than the Japanese, as the straightening out of the Chinese Eastern Railway friction shows to those behind the scenes.

The acceptance by Russia of Manchukuo's Chinese prince supported by Japanese personnel is of far-reaching moment. It is only a de facto recognition but it will prove the forerunner of that formal and complete establishment of diplomatic relationships which will constitute another milestone in the world's history. It is perhaps not too much to say that the last war cloud lifts from the Far East with a three-cornered setup of Soviet-Japan-Manchukuo in working order.

It should not be long now before we become accustomed to an economic relationship between the three which will shape the trade currents of the world.

EXPECT CROWD AT DEBATE ON EPIC PROGRAM

Several thousand people are expected to assemble tomorrow night in the Greek theater in the Anaheim city park to hear the Rev. Russell Stroup, candidate for congress, and W. E. Robb debate on whether or not the Sinclair EPIC plan is in harmony with President Roosevelt's recovery program. The debate is scheduled to start at 8 p. m.

The formal subject for the debate will be: "Resolved that Upton Sinclair, with his EPIC plan, is in complete harmony with President Roosevelt and his recovery program." The Rev. Mr. Stroup of Newport Beach will take the affirmative and Robb, of Riverside, manager for John King, candidate for congressman from this district, will debate the negative side.

In the debate the speakers will go into not only the Sinclair plan and its relation to the coming election in California but the entire program of national recovery. The Rev. Mr. Stroup will attempt to show that Sinclair and his plan are necessary for the national plan to succeed as it relates to California while Robb will seek to show that Sinclair's plan is impractical and unnecessary and would obstruct, rather than assist, the presidential plan.

Since Sinclair announced himself as candidate for governor in California the Rev. Mr. Stroup has been speaking in favor of him and his plan throughout the 19th Congressional district. Robb has already debated the question in Arlington and invited Stroup to meet him in Anaheim and Santa Ana because, in Stroup, he recognized one of the principal champions of the Sinclair plan.

Under rules accepted by both speakers for the debate the Rev. Mr. Stroup will speak for 20 minutes with 10 minutes for rebuttal. Robb will have 30 minutes and each speaker will be given 15 minutes for answering questions.

Correcting an erroneous statement contained in today's issue of one of the advertising circulars issued in Santa Ana, and declaring that he had refused to take space in the issue when solicited to do so by A. Berry, former Santa Ana newspaper man, but that an ad had appeared anyway, Joe Steele, proprietor of Steele's Barber shop, which recently moved to a new location on Main street, today said that his shop does not open until 8 o'clock, the regular opening hour observed by all barber shops in Santa Ana.

W. E. KUHNE, 64, IS FOUND DEAD: PLAN AUTOPSY

FULLERTON, Aug 1.—William E. Kuhne, 64, who had been in poor health for 10 years, was found dead in his home at 206 North Drake avenue yesterday evening by neighbors who missed him in the yard. Evidences were he had died about noon.

The aged man, who for several years was janitor at Fullerton Chamber of commerce, left two notes, one to his son, Paul, of Fullerton, telling him of his final wishes, and one to McAulay and Suters, morticians, making final requests as to his burial. The son said he had been accustomed to write such notes during the past few years, when he was feeling particularly ill. Other suvivors are five sisters and four brothers in the east.

An autopsy was to be held today to determine the exact cause of death.

NEW SCHEDULE IS STARTED BY BANKS

FULLERTON, Aug. 1.—Fullerton banks, starting today, are remaining open on a new schedule, from 10 to 3, on all week days except Saturday, when the doors will open at 9 a. m., and will close at noon.

Another change was announced as effective today, all checking accounts of $100 or under are to have a charge against them of 50 cents a month.

New Meaning Of Slogan Is Coined

FULLERTON, Aug. 1.—Miss Marjorie Allen, daughter of C. R. Allen, candidate for assembly from 75th district on the "End Poverty in California" platform of Upton Sinclair, candidate for governor, yesterday presented a new meaning of the slogan, EPIC. She said eventually, when the Sinclair program is in force, it will mean, "Enjoy Prosperity in California."

ROOSEVELT AND SINCLAIR PLANS HELD IDENTICAL

FULLERTON, Aug. 1. — The President Roosevelt plan for caring for 80,000 families in Washington, D. C., who through no fault of their own, are penniless is identical with the EPIC plan for California, as it is the platform of Upton Sinclair, candidate for governor on the Democratic ballot, according to Dr. Walter Thomas Mills, veteran of progressive movements in the United States, who last night talked to nearly 200 persons at Upton Sinclair headquarters on East Commonwealth avenue.

Dr. Mills outlined the two policies, to put people on the land; to start machinery that they may use the raw materials they use, and to issue a basis of exchange that they may exchange produce and live, and be taken off the backs of taxpayers.

These two facts, he said, show positively that the Sinclair program will fit into the Roosevelt program for relief, both of the unemployed and the taxpayer. "The Roosevelt program goes one step forward, for the unemployed, in Washington, D. C., are to care for not only the unemployed and their families, who can labor, but the sick and helpless, also, and take them off the taxpayers' back," he declared.

Thus, briefly, did the 80-year-old lecturer describe the two programs, and advised that if taxpayers want to continue to support the unemployed, out of work through no fault of their own, they should vote for other candidates for office, but that if they want to let the unemployed care for themselves, they should back Sinclair.

"If you are going to vote as taxpayers to keep the burden on your own shoulders, and make paupers out of the rest of us, then you need but fail to support Sinclair, and you will have accomplished it," he declared. "You know, the people must be fed, and if you refuse to let them care for themselves, then there is nothing for it but that you feed them, and make them take a pauper's oath."

After declaring the Sinclair and Roosevelt programs, for California and Washington, D. C., are the same, he declared, "I am for the old age pension; I like to call it an income; but I am also for an income for all under 60 as well as all over 60. I have found that all who are most vociferous in saying $200 a month is too much are living on many thousands a year; if John D. Rockefeller will say it is enough for him to live on, I am willing to say it is adequate."

He declared the work of people is actually to span the bridge that keeps an armed camp on the one hand and industry on the other, and to assist in beating swords into plow shares and organize a new society, with all given an equal chance. He said until the Constitution of United States was written, governments had been formed on military power, and had included a "church wing," but that "The United States constitution is different, and we can stand on it, and secure a freedom."

He whimsically told of the little home being built by him by "67 laborers to the present time," on lots given him by S. C. Hartranft, of Fullerton. He told of his giving up a large income, when he found how it was being earned, and of taking a vow to have no more than he needed, and delved back into the history of his life, which he is planning to write as soon as the Sinclair campaign is over.

He called attention to Frances Willard, and said, "she taught me a great lesson." He said years ago she was talking to him, and she asked him if he was a socialist; he said no, but that if he ever became one, he would be a Christian socialist." Her reply was, "Why use two words where either one will answer?" This story as in answer to a question as to whether Upton Sinclair is a socialist.

OPPOSES STATE TAKING OVER ALL HIGHWAYS

Warning against allowing gasoline tax funds escape from the control of local government agencies, J. A. Mellon, engineer of the regional planning commission of Los Angeles, at a meeting of Associated Chambers of Commerce of Orange County last night in Laguna Beach, told his listeners to beware of the new auto club plan to have the state highway commission take over all highways in the state.

Mellon, who was the speaker of the evening and who was introduced by George Kellogg, chairman of the highways committee, declared that the majority of the highways in California have been constructed by the gasoline tax money paid out by Southern California.

"If the highway commission spends the money" he declared, "you will probably find the majority of the funds expended in Northern California. If the control of all roads is in Sacramento, you may be assured you will not get service like you now do."

Describing the use value of highways, the speaker told of how roads had figured in the growth of California and how land values, market values, etc., depend upon transportation along the roads. Civilization, he pointed out, has always centered around roads. He traced the history of roads in California, beginning with the famous old Ey Camino Real. He exhibited a chart to show the terrific volume of traffic which flows along highways in Los Angeles.

Ralph McFadden reported for the water committee, declaring that efforts to unite water interest of the county in regard to the Elliott plan are progressing favorably.

FARM WOMEN TO HEAR NATIONAL HOME CHAIRMAN

Mrs. Charles W. Sewell, national home and community director of the American Farm Bureau Federation, will address a general meeting of Los Angeles, Ventura, Orange, Riverside and San Bernardino county Farm Bureaus on Friday, August 10. The meeting will begin at 2 p. m. at Ganesha Park, Pomona. An effort is being made to have as many as possible come to the park with picnic lunches at noon, according to Farm Bureau officials.

Mrs. Sewell is a nationally known Farm Bureau worker and has been speaking at least once and sometimes twice a day on a schedule of meetings throughout the entire west, particularly in Wyoming and Montana. She is holding a series of meetings throughout California the week of August 6, following the Western Regional Farm Bureau Conference at Reno, Nevada.

Mrs. Sewell's message will be of special interest to the farm home departments of the various counties although it will be general in character, and the meeting is designed for the entire family, the announcement said.

Mrs. Mabel D. Ahart, chairman of the farm home department of the California Farm Bureau Federation, will be in the party with Mrs. Sewell.

Mrs. L. A. Bortz of Olive, chairman of the Orange County Home department, is making arrangements for an official delegation to attend from this county, but all farm women are invited to attend.

REPUBLICANS TALK PLANS TO REGAIN LOSSES

Speakers discussing the political situation in California at a dinner meeting of the Orange County Republican Club held last night at the White House cafe at Laguna Beach, agreed that the maintenance and effective operation of two major political parties, the Republican and the Democratic, with new ideals of public service and under a leadership of young men divorced of any connection with special or selfish interests, are indispensable to the perpetuity of the American idea of constitutional government and democratic institutions.

Coupled with these views, some of the speakers took issue with the present election system under which Upton Sinclair, a prominent Socialist, was seeking support on a Democratic ticket, and urged legislation that would modify the present primary law.

A portion of the meeting was taken up with discussion of ways and means of strengthening the party and recovering losses in the ranks of the voters as reflected in recent registration. In addition to building up an effective organization in every section of the county, it was proposed that the club launch an educational campaign among the voters by means of missionary work of individual club members, followed by meetings at appointed places and climaxed by a grand rally on the eve of the approaching primary election.

In the absence of Alvin Drumm, president of the club, now in the East, Walter Spicer, of Newport, presided over the meeting which was attended by a large number of prominent Republican leaders and several visitors. Among the latter were several candidates for public office including Captain Don Wilkie, N. E. West, and B. Z. McKinney, who were introduced to the gathering.

The principal address of the evening was made by Congressman Sam L. Collins, representing the Nineteenth Congressional district, whose talk was principally devoted to building up the Republican party on progressive lines, stressing the necessity of the individual citizen taking an active interest in the business of government. He told his listeners that on the whole he had supported the administration in its recovery measures. He questioned, however the wisdom of the administration policy which, he observed, has led a large portion of the population to depend upon the government for support, even to the extent that some people believe that the government owes them a living. He also voiced his adherence to constitutional methods and questioned the expediency of experimental measures in effecting necessary changes."

Other speakers of the evening included Leslie F. Kimmell, of Laguna Beach; Howard Irwin of Fullerton, Republican county chairman; Ray H. Overacker of Huntington Beach; E. M. ("Sunny") Sundquist of Santa Ana; Paul Muench of Orange; Roy Divel of San Clemente; Leonard West of Fullerton; and Milburn G. Harvey, of Santa Ana.

PONTIAC IS FIRST AUTO ON ISLAND

MACKINAC ISLAND, Mich, Aug. 1.—History was made here today at this fashionable summer resort, the last stronghold of the horse and buggy in the United States when a new Pontiac automobile, first motor driven vehicle ever to be permitted upon the island, was escorted under a heavy guard over the mile long route from the dock where it was landed to its resting place in the grille lobby of the Grand hotel.

With the tercentenary . . . three hundredth anniversary of the discovery of the Island by the famous French explorer, Jean Nicolet . . . serving as a background of historical pageantry, the 30 year old regulation of the Michigan State Park Commission forbidding a motor driven vehicle from being run on the streets of Mackinac Island was modified for the first time in order that the Pontiac might take its place in the celebration. The motor vehicle ban was only partially lifted, however, thus preventing a complete victory for the modern car, as the gas was drained from its tank and it was hauled up the long hill by four spanking black horses lead by coachmen in red livery.

RENEW 40-LAP RACES AT BOWL

LUCKLESS S. A. CLUB LOSES IN 10 INNINGS, 1-0

Beaten in extra innings for the third time in two weeks, Santa Ana today prayed for a change of luck in the fourth and final quarter of the National Night Ball league season, which begins at Olive tomorrow night.

Fickle fortune turned against the Stars again here last night when Huntington Beach, the first-half champion, scored in the tenth inning for a 1-0 victory in another of those brilliant pitchers' battles in which the unlucky Jim Coates finds himself game after game.

With two out, and Manager Joe Rodgers of Huntington Beach poised on third base, Pitcher "Chico" Sabella hit an unusual single past first base that accounted for the winning run. Sabella topped the sphere with the end of his bat, and the ball squirted off into foul territory by several feet before caroming crazily into fair territory just as it hopped over the bag. Sabella was as dumbfounded as the Santa Ana players and fans, and for an instant he remained motionless at the plate while his "hit" continued its unique journey into short right field.

Coates perhaps had a slight edge on Sabella in the mound duel, allowing seven hits to "Chico's" 11. Sabella fanned 10, to Coates' 8. Jim walked one, Sabella three.

Sabella was hard to get along with in the pinches. The Stars wasted chance after chance in the early rounds. Denney and Daley singled in the first but died on third and second, respectively. Sears singled in the second but was thrown out trying to go for two so Wilcox and Coates followed with misspent singles. Conrad singled and Preble walked to no avail in the third. Wilcox singled again in the fourth. Daley walked and Ballard singled in the fifth, without result. Hits by Conrad and Preble netted nothing in the seventh. Young opened the ninth with a single and moved up on a passed ball, but Sears fanned. Wilcox popped up and Coates fanned.

Last night's struggle completed the third-quarter during which the Santa Anans defeated Olive, Fullerton, Anaheim and Long Beach but lost by one run in extra innings to Torrance, Westminster and Huntington Beach. The last two setbacks were by 1-0 margin.

YANKEE CLUB PLAYS .844 BALL AT HOME

NEW YORK, Aug. 1.—The Yankees with their brogans once again in the comforting soil of Col. Jake Ruppert's ball yard, today tossed off an offer to take all comers.

Yesterday the Red Sox came, and the Yankees took them—twice. This put the Ruppert Rifles back at the head of the American league, two points above the Detroit Tigers.

The Yanks have lost only five games in 27 played at home, which averages .844. They have lost 17 out of 32 starts in the midlands, which is .469. Jaunts through the east have not been much better, averaging only .548.

They will play 29 more games at home, staying until September 4, save for a tour of Washington and Boston for seven games next week. It becomes fairly obvious that Foreman J. Vincent McCarthy and his men must knock off their winning lead this month, or be knocked off in September.

GOLF

By Art Krenz

Experts claim that if the first half of the golf swing is right, the other half will take care of itself.

To correct this fault of pressing, one must concentrate on the first half of the swing, checking up on the start, which should be slow, the fairly straight left arm, horizontal position of the club at the top, and a well-timed downswing, waiting patiently until the proper hitting region is reached.

TWELVE BOUTS ON EBONY CLUB RING INVASION

"Bargain night" will be observed tomorrow at the Orange County Athletic club, where there will be 12 bouts instead of 10, and a triple main event featuring Bill Wana vs. Paul Watkins, Paddy Guillen vs. Carmen Tullio, and Frankie Trott vs. "Babe" Rosales.

Orange County Athletic club fighters make up one side of the program with the crack Ebony club of Los Angeles furnishing the rest. The Ebony boys, all colored, constitute perhaps the No. 1 amateur team in Southern California. In three inter-club tournaments here they've never failed to provide spirited competition.

Wana, Westminster's able middleweight, will have to be at his best to beat Watkins, a straight-punching Los Angeles Negro who has been mastering all comers.

The Tullio-Guillen bout will be a "rubber" contest, each holding one decision over the other.

Trott and Rosales, the latter from Placentia, are nimble 118-pounders of more than average ability.

Other bouts, all four rounds:

Jack Curley, Ebony club, vs. Al Garcia, Santa Ana, 130 pounds;

Al Ponce, Westminster, vs. Bill ("Tex") Cook, Orange, 135 pounds.

Trojan Grid Application Blanks Out

LOS ANGELES, Aug. 1.—More than 70,000 ticket applications today were ready for mailing to football fans of the west by the University of Southern California. Applications for public season tickets to Trojan home games are expected to reach a new record this year, according to General Manager Arnold Eddy of S. C., and preparations have been made to handle a heavy pre-season demand.

Season tickets, good for nine home games, including the double-header which opens the season September 22, will be placed on sale at a cost of $14.50, including government tax. The cost represents a discount of 10 per cent over the cost for individual tickets.

Tickets will be issued in three classifications, Eddy said. Persons who have purchased season tickets for three or more consecutive seasons, including 1933, will be placed in the most preferred classification; fans who have subscribed for the past two seasons will be grouped in the second classification, and new purchasers will receive applications in the third group.

Occidental and Whittier double-header, Sept. 22—all seats $1.10; College of the Pacific, Sept. 29—all seats $1.10; Washington State, Oct. 6—reserved seats $1.65 and general admission $1.10; Oregon State, Oct. 20—reserved seats $1.65 and general admission $1.10; California, Nov. 10 — reserved seats, $3.30 and general admission $1.65; Oregon, Nov. 17—reserved seats $1.65 and general admission $1.10; Washington, Dec. 1—reserved seats $2.20 and general admission $1.65; Notre Dame, Dec. 8—reserved seats $3.30 and general admission $1.65.

'DIZZY' DEAN FOOLISH AS FOX

Cardinal Hurler Watches Diet Like Musicomedy Star

HIS GOAL THIS YEAR 30 WINS

BY JACK CUDDY

NEW YORK, Aug. 1.—(UP)—"Dizzy" Dean is co-operating with mother nature in a determined attempt to provide the National league at last with another pitcher who can win 30 ball games in a season.

Endowed with the long, loose-muscled body of a young hound dog—the perfect pitching physique—"Dizzy" pride of the Cardinals' mound staff takes meticulous care of that body to prevent anything impairing his blinding speed and control.

This 23-year-old native of Arkansas has built up a reputation for goofiness equal to that of "Lefty" Gomez of the Yanks. But his Red Bird teammates point out that he is "dizzy like a fox" after he leaves the club house. He is one of the cleanest livers in the game.

The most famous of the three throwing Dean brothers already has won 18 games this season. Barring accident and poor support, it seems that he may chalk up 30 victories in 1934.

"And if I do get 30," he said today, "I see no reason why I can't go right on getting that number, for a couple of years at least."

The last National league flinger who considered 30 victories as the amount he should turn in was mighty Grover Cleveland Alexander who registered 31, 33 and 30 respectively in '15, '16 and '17.

"Dizzy" is as careful of his diet as a musical comedy star. He eats only two meals a day, although he has such a healthy appetite he would like to eat about five.

"I don't have to worry about weight," he explained. "I scale about 180 now, and never go above 188. But I pitch best when I'm eating lightly. Light breakfast, no lunch and then a good dinner with a nice steak. No, I don't drink coffee; use milk instead. Don't touch liquor. Take plenty of exercise. Sleep in my pajamas, uppers and lowers, taking no chances on kicking off clothes and catching cold."

Dean has been married three years to "the swellest girl in the world," a pretty brunette from Mississippi. They have no children. He and his wife like to go to the movies and band concerts in St. Louis. "No, we don't do much dancing—sort of home people."

Why does he pull off goofy stunts, like that one early this month at St. Louis when he started a bonfire on the diamond to warm his hands when the temperature was 102.

"Oh, I don't know, I like to play around and sort of let off steam. Baseball is a game, and I think the players and fans should get as much fun as possible out of it. I get a big kick out of it."

This Week's Games

Thursday—Santa Ana at Olive.
Friday—Westminster at Torrance; Huntington Beach at Anaheim; Long Beach at Fullerton.

Westminster today forged into a tie for first place in the National Night Ball league after beating Long Beach, 8-3, last night while Torrance was dropping a 6-0 verdict to Olive.

Other developments—Santa Ana's defeat by Huntington Beach and Anaheim's third successive setback at the hands of Fullerton—left seven of the league's eight clubs in the championship struggle. Never has the National wheel "enjoyed" such a spectacular race.

Jack Dugan, Orange schoolboy, hurled another fine game as Olive blanked Torrance. The 1933 Southern California champions were helpless before the kid's "double-shuffle" delivery which was recently outlawed by the Orange County Night league. Dugan fanned Dan Leonard and "Pancho" Fabergat four times each, whiffing 14 altogether. No Torrance batsman got further than second base.

Olive made one in the second and two more in the fourth when Freddy Gunther blasted a homer to center with Al Reboin aboard. The Packers picked up single runs in the fifth, sixth and seventh.

Fullerton beat the Valencias for the third time this year at Fullerton last night, 11 to 3. The inspired Bellhops drove "String" McDonnell out of the box in the sixth inning and cuffed Russ Coggan for six more runs in his brief occupancy of the box. Thomas rapped a homer with two on in the eighth. Anaheim's three errors were all costly.

Post-Mortems Follow U. S. Tennis Defeat

WIMBLEDON, England, Aug. 1. — (UP) — England wrapped up the historic Davis Cup for another year today and America's quartet prepared to return to native shores.

Speculation as to what "might have been" was scarce among the players, but plentiful among American supporters, who pointed chiefly to the great fourth-set battle between Frank Shields of New York and Fred Perry of England as the real turning point in the series.

Had the tall American been able to weather that storm, there was considerable belief that he might have come through. His inability to cope with Perry's great variety of strokes in the end wore him down, and he lost, 6-4, 4-6, 6-2, 15-13.

It was believed generally that Sidney Wood, who lost to the No. 2 Englishman, H. Wilfred Austin, 6-4, 6-0, 6-8, 6-3, would probably have turned the tables had there been anything hanging on the match.

HUNTINGTON BEACH TO BATTLE GHOSTS

The Sioux City Ghosts, colorful colored club which won 54 out of 65 starts before invading the tougher Southern California night baseball sector, play an exhibition game at Huntington Beach tonight.

This will be the first of three starts for the Ghosts in Orange county territory. They are tentatively scheduled for a game in Santa Ana Friday, and will square off against the Orange 20-30 club line-up Saturday.

Howard Morning and Paul Watson are expected to share the mound burden for Huntington Beach.

CYPRESS POINT CLUB GETS CAL. AMATEUR

DEL MONTE, Aug. 1.—(UP)—The State Golf association today announced that the executive Cypress Point club course will be available for the qualifying rounds of the State Amateur golf tournament August 27 to September 2.

In addition to Cypress Point, three other courses will be used in the tournament. The championship rounds will be played at Pebble Beach, and the handicap tournament at the Monterey Peninsula club and at the Del Monte course No. 1.

The annual Del Monte women's championship will be held simultaneously.

AGE PILOTS OF CIRCUIT ENTER EVENT, CLAIM

Two new cars, the daring and skill of most of the top-notch drivers in the midget racing circuit and a new fast track with graveled turns will be combined tonight in an assault on new records at the Santa Ana Bowl, beginning at 8:15.

Through further agreement between promoters of the Southland, the leading racers will appear at the all tracks each week. This will end the temporary absence of the faster drivers who occasionally deserted the Bowl here. As a result, fans tonight will watch Bill Betteridge, Johnny Kiem, Neil Thuesen, Chet Mortemore, "Curly" Mills and others broadside around the turns.

Kiem will be watched with interest in his new four-cylinder water-cooled Henderson with No. 52 on the tail while Tom Elliott will try out his new No. 72 for the first time. Since Betteridge has ironed out the kinks in his speedy No. 7, he has swept aside all competition on other tracks.

Orville Brunmeier and Mel Kenealey, noted for their driving exploits with the bigger racing cars in the AAA circuit, will be here to inspect the track preparatory to entering their own cars. They will see the return of the 40-lap main event and another "surprise" race which is expected to include the comic antics of four Negroes.

Offering variety to the program, the American Legion drum and bugle corps will march in "warming up" for the state convention at San Francisco this month. The Maywood Legion auxiliary will give a team drill show during the intermission.

Because 50 pushcars were trundled on the track last week, officials will conduct a trophy dash for the two fastest cars and a one-lap main event for 10 cars. The kids qualified their pushcars this morning.

The new gravel turns, especially on the north end, held up perfectly last week and will insure faster racing. Qualifying heats will be held as usual prior to 8:15.

MISS CRUICKSHANK FACES MISS SMITH

EASTHAMPTON, N. Y., Aug. 1.—(UP) — Josephine Cruickshank, seeded second but leading ranking player since default of Carolyn Babcock of Los Angeles, led 16 players into the second round of the Maidstone Invitational tournament today.

Miss Cruickshank, from Santa Ana, Calif., meets another Westerner, Theodosia Smith of Los Angeles. Miss Babcock defaulted, under doctor's orders, to Dr. Esther Bartosh of Los Angeles.

Two gained the second round through upsets, Helen Fulton of Chicago eliminating the third seeded player, the Baroness Maud Levi, Minden, Nev., and Gracyn Wheeler of Los Angeles beating Mae Ceuvorst of Wichita, Kansas, seeded eighth.

Other Westerners who advanced included Priscilla Merwin, Pasadena, Calif.; Marianne Hunt of Los Angeles and Mrs. John Van Ryn of Philadelphia, formerly "Midge" Gladman of Los Angeles.

BRITISH DOG-HOMES 'DOGGY'

England Abounds In Fashionable Canine Resorts

NEWSPAPER 'ADS' ALLURING

By HENRY M'LEMORE
(United Press Staff Correspondent)

WIMBLEDON, Eng., Aug. 1. — One of the most vexing problems faced by your Englishman each summer is where to send his dog for his or her vacation.

Unlike in America, where the choice is limited to the number of relatives one has living in the country, England abounds in summer resorts run strictly for dog holiday-seekers. The papers and magazines this time of the year are filled with advertisements of places where dogs may spend two weeks or more away from the bustle and cares of the city.

In one issue of a popular magazine alone there were no fewer than 10 resorts listed, ranging from seaside retreats where "your dog will enjoy surf bathing twice a day," to mountain inns where "pets romp to their hearts' content in a majestic wood swept by cooling breezes."

The one that caught our eye, however, and made us long for a jaded wolfhound who needed a rest and complete change of scenery, was one headed "A Holiday Hotel for Your Dog!"

"Two understanding sisters," it read, "owners of a spacious farm in Sussex, invite your pet for a happy, carefree vacation. We stress freedom with discipline. Kennels are large, modern and spotless, and the dogs have acres and acres of Sussex Treeland, fairly haunted with the wild delirious smell of rabbit, to run about in. References required. Charge: 13 shillings per week for large dogs, 8 shillings small dogs."

"It is quite a problem," a dog-owner told us, "to decide which resort would make your dog happiest. Last year we sent Rover to Tilton-on-the-Sea". It seemed an ideal place. He had a large, sunny outside kennel and the cuisine, which featured rump steak and dog biscuits, was ideal. Furthermore, the proprietor assured us that the company was quiet and middle-aged and that Rover, who is nearly 10, would find it much to his liking.

"We hadn't been home two days before we received a wire from the proprietor to come at once—that Rover was miserable. When we got there we found that, because of an unexpected rush, Rover had been forced to share his kennel with a St. Bernard. He had never slept with anybody before and he couldn't get used to it. Besides, the St. Bernard insisted on sleeping on his back, with his paws spread out, which left poor Rover so little room he couldn't have slept had he cared to.

"And the company which was supposed to be middle-aged and sedate, was the wildest I ever saw. If they weren't on a bone hunt they were out in the surf chasing fish, or fighting cats, and they kept it up all day and all night. Rover hadn't slept a wink. I don't know where to send him this year, and he must just go somewhere, for he's so tired these days he can hardly go out and get the morning paper."

Smiles in SPORTS

Few of John McGraw's hired hands ever got the last word in an argument. Hugnie McQuillan tried it once—but he didn't get very far.

It seems that Hughie was keeping late hours, and the late manager of the Giants got wind of his actions. So Jawn parked himself in Hughie's room and waited until 3 o'clock in the morning for the carousing McQuillan to return.

Imagine Hughie's surprise when he saw McGraw seated in his room when he opened the door! But the pitcher was equal to the occasion—or thought he was.

"I was just over in the next room giving one of the newspaper boys an interview," he attempted to explain.

"Oh," came back the Little Napoleon, "I thought perhaps you were attending your grandmother's funeral."

Tim McGrath, the old-time fight promoter, once ran a saloon in San Francisco known as "The Tip." Naturally it was frequented by fighters—and into it one day, very much in his cups, walked "Deacon" Jones, famous colored fighter.

"Deacon" demanded a drink, and the bartender refused to give it to him.

"White boy," he shouted, "Ah's gwine pull yo' bar down if you don't give me dat drink!" whereupon he commenced tugging at the bar.

It so happened that this incident occurred on the morning of April 18, 1906, the date of the San Francisco earthquake. While Jones was tugging at the bar, the earthquake struck, and it tumbled "The Tip" down around his ears.

"Please tell Mr. McGrath Ah'm sorry Ah caused such a disturbance."

Umpires are constantly the butt of ball players' jokes, both on and off the diamond. John Quinn is no exception—as he found out at Fort Myers, Fla., where he was working out with the Athletics.

John had put in a very tough day. He went up to his hotel room with thoughts of retiring. The bed looked mighty good to him, and he took a dive at the inviting mattress, landing on it heavily.

Instead of finding soft down, John wound up on the floor with a shock that shook the hotel building. Some ball-playing "friends" of his had removed the slats from his bed!

JONES OPEN-MINDED ON NEW FOOTBALL

LOS ANGELES, Aug. 1.—(UP)—Howard Jones, head football coach at Southern California, sees both advantages and disadvantages in the use of the new, smaller football. He believes they just about will balance.

"The main thing is to get a uniform ruling ont it," he says. "If one section of the country is going to use the old ball, while another is taking up the new one, there's bound to be trouble in intersectional games."

Trojan passers in spring practice found that the new ball is easier to grip but requires more power to throw.

"They found—probably because the new pill isn't as heavy—that they had to put a lot more force into each throw," their coach reports. "From what I can see, the new ball will travel farther, if it's kicked right, than the old one. But it has to be handled just right. If a kicker gets off a bad boot, then it's just too bad with this smaller ball. That's the main difference, so far as I can see."

The Trojan mentor believes that the new ball will make no difference in the centers or backfield receivers.

"In our spring practice," he explains, "there weren't any more bad passes from center, or any more fumbles in the backfield than there ever are in spring practice."

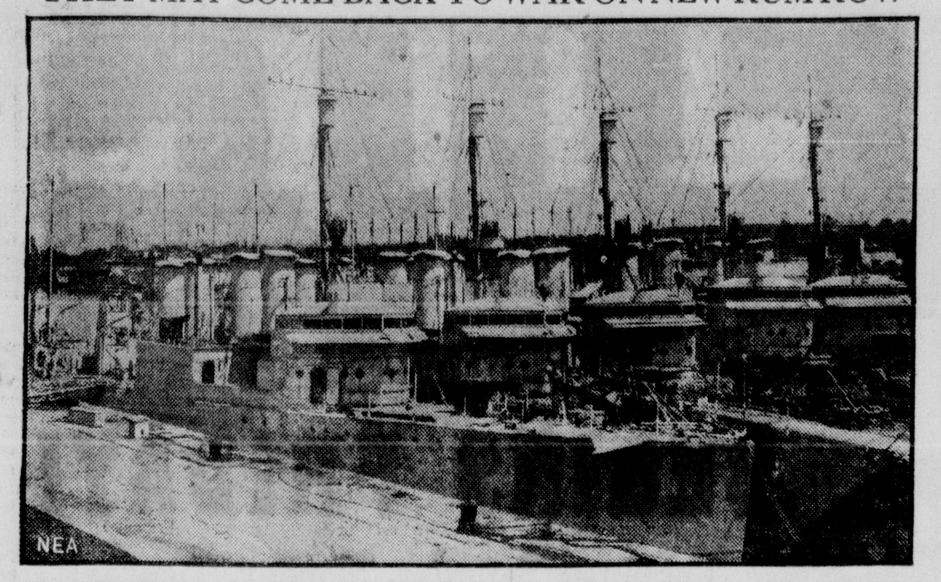
World-Wide News Events Told In Pictures

THEY MAY COME BACK TO WAR ON NEW RUM ROW



These five destroyers, veterans of the Prohibition rum blockade, lay uselessly at their moorings in the Philadelphia Navy Yard as Thomas Jefferson Coolidge, Acting Secretary of the Treasury, admitted official concern over the rapid growth of a new "Rum Row" off the New York seaboard. An increase of Coast Guard personnel and operations, now under consideration, may soon put these victims of post-Repeal economy back in service.

Blue Eagle Chief Surveys Coast

DUEL TO THE DEATH

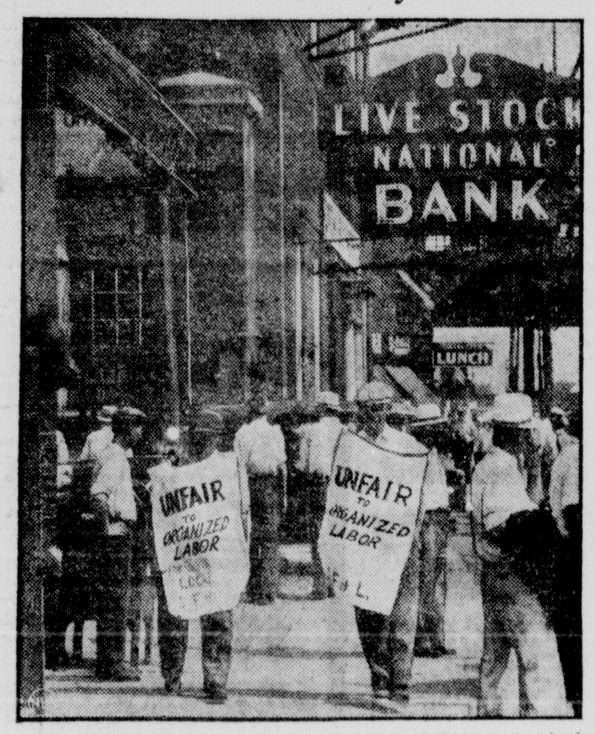
GIRL IN RED

The mysterious "woman in red," who figured in the death of John Dillinger is pictured here. She is Mrs. Anna Sage, who said she knew Dillinger only as "Jimmy Lawrence." She was said to have been Dillinger's theater companion the night he was slain by federal agents.

Strike Dooms Cattle by Hundreds



With cattle, sheep, and hogs dying of hunger and thirst by hundreds in pens of the Chicago stockyards, pickets of 800 strikers of the stock handlers' union, demanding wage increases, are shown here at the yards' main entrance, keeping close guard and preventing relief measures. Demand for immediate U. S. intervention was made, as violence halted efforts to feed and water the tortured beasts.

A 1910 Speedster Goes Up Again

Denies Rumor She Will Wed in Paris

She's on her first vacation in four years, but Miss Marguerite Le Hand, private secretary to the President, is still busy—denying rumors that she went abroad to marry. She's shown as she appeared on arriving in Paris.

Berlin Nazis Swear Allegiance to Chancellor Hitler

Perishes in Effort to Scale Everest

The daring attempt of Maurice Wilson (above) to climb Mount Everest alone failed dramatically when, according to his porters, he perished on the gale-swept glaciers but 6,000 feet short of his goal. A former British Army captain, Wilson, disguised as a Tibetan to elude authorities, made the forbidden ascent after weeks of training in an attempt to plant the Union Jack atop the peak.

A Little Doe Goes a Long Way

They're little city girls from New York, but you can bet that Marjorie Hunt and Evelyn Bollerman can get along in the country. Here you see how they made friends with an orphaned doe that wandered into the Camp Fire Girls' summer camp at Arden, N. Y. Marjorie's doing the honors.

Lack of Gasoline Didn't Stop Young 'Teamster'

When teamsters joined the strike movement in San Francisco, any and every sort of vehicle was pressed into service, and that lad at the left tried to do his bit to see that his mother had bread at home. But gasoline stocks quickly ebbed, and most gas stations could give you only a shrug, as the fellow at the right is doing to an anxious motorist.

Science Serves Quintuplets

(Int. News Photo)

Officer Felled in Amsterdam Rioting

Air View Shows Portland, Oregon, Including Its Inland Harbor

(Copyright by Brubaker Aerial Surveys)

This airview of Portland, Ore., looks downstream along the Willamette River, and shows the business section on the left, the industrial and residential east side on the right, and the series of drawbridges connecting the two shores. Though 100 miles from the ocean, Portland through the Willamette River, and the Columbia into which the Willamette empties, has a deep waterway that makes it an important seaport.

EXPECT CROWD TO HEAR TALKS BY CANDIDATES

Considerable interest is being shown in the candidate's meeting to be held under the auspices of the League of Women Voters Thursday night at 7:30 o'clock in the Y. M. C. A. building, according to Mrs. Cra K. Heine, president of the League.

The meeting will give the general public an opportunity to hear a three-minute declaration of platform policy of all candidates seeking office for which the electorate of Santa Ana may cast their ballots in the August primaries.

Mrs. E. C. Wilson, chairman of the department of government and its operations, stated that candidate's meetings held previously have attracted large audiences, and it is anticipated that this meeting will also.

All candidates will be heard on an equal and impartial basis and time will be alloted for questions from the assembly, Mrs. Heine said.

LEGION DRUM CORPS TO PARADE TONIGHT

One of the features in the midget auto races in the Municipal Bowl tonight will be a demonstration by the American Legion drum and bugle corps of 42 men. The group is in training for the state convention in San Francisco this month, where Santa Ana hopes to win first place, after having won second prize for two years.

S. of the Huntington Beach Baptist church, the party being held at the Preston home. The first hour of the evening was devoted to a devotional service. A feature of the evening's social entertainment was the editing of a newspaper which caused much merriment.

OPERATION OF COUNTY LIBRARY IS OUTLINED

Following a recent story concerning a list of new books available at branches of the Orange county free library, which has headquarters in the courthouse annex, many requests have been received there for some of the volumes named, according to library employes. Service on these books may only be had through the various branches in the county, it was pointed out.

The following statement concerning the method of operation of the county library and the service it renders, was issued today by library officials:

"The Orange county free library was established by a resolution of the board of supervisors in December, 1919. A librarian was appointed, and work was begun in September, 1921. The library is supported by a tax levy on property outside of municipalities and school districts. It gives free service to every resident in the parts of the county which support it.

A town with a library is not included, either for service or taxation, unless the city council notifies the supervisors that it wishes to be.

"The Orange county free library is simple in its method of operation, following closely that of a city library with its branches in different sections of the town. Branch libraries, in charge of custodians, are maintained in Brea, Costa Mesa, Garden Grove, El Modena, Laguna, La Habra, San Clemente, Seal Beach, Shadybrook, Tustin, Trabuco Oaks, San Juan Capistrano, Westminster and Wintersburg.

"Collections of books are sent to each of these branches, with special reference to the needs and desires of that particular locality, the largest collection being placed where the demand is greatest. These collections are changed, in part or as a whole, when the community no longer uses them. Any book, anywhere in the system, is available for the reader. All branch requests for books not in the county library are given careful consideration. If funds or future demands do not justify the purchase of an expensive book, it is supplied from the state library at Sacramento, which loans books to any library in the state. The state library pays transportation on shipments to the county, and the county pays transportation on shipments within the county.

"The teachers' professional library is a part of the county library. Any teacher in any city in the county is entitled to borrow books from the teachers' professional library, which contains books and periodicals of professional interest. Forty-three elementary schools and one high school have joined the county library system.

"Upon resolution of the district school board of trustees of any district, the school library funds may be transferred to the county library. With the pooling of funds and books, the schools receive a service which makes it possible for them to have access to four times the number of books they would have under the old system.

COUNTY MEETING AND RADIO TALK SET FOR HAIGHT

Supporters of Raymond L. Haight for governor will meet tomorrow night in James cafe at 6:30 o'clock for an organization meeting for Orange county, it was announced today by William Croddy, who is handling arrangements for the affair.

On the same evening from 7:30 to 7:45 o'clock, a program endorsing Haight will be broadcast from Station KREG. His qualifications for the governorship and endorsements by prominent civic and governmental leaders will be given.

At the organization meeting, representatives of all Orange county communities will be present to participate in the formation of a compaign for this district. Merle F. McGinnis, field representative, will speak.

MYSTERY STORY AND ROMANCE AT STATE

"The Ninth Guest," a mystery story, and "Beloved," a musical romance, are the two feature films on the mid-week program at Walker's State theater.

"Beloved" brings John Boles and Gloria Stuart in leading roles supported by a cast including Dorothy Peterson, Albert Conti and Lucille Gleason. The story tells of the lifetime struggles of a composer to write "the great American symphony."

A penthouse in New York is the setting of the other feature which tells of the attempts to bring death to eight persons who are trapped there, and from which only two escape. Donald Cook and Genevieve Tobin are the featured players.

BIG CONTEST OPENS TODAY FOR 120 BOYS

Offering carrier boys an opportunity to earn clothes and cash before school opens, the Register opened the second annual "Clothes for School Contest" today for the 120 city and suburban carriers.

Duplicate prizes will be given in the city and suburban division, totalling $100 in each classification. In addition, other prizes, bonuses and cash commissions will be paid to insure that the young salesmen are repaid for their efforts in securing new subscriptions. The contest is under the direction of Circulation Manager R. M. Conklin.

The clothing prizes are now on display in the Broadway windows of Vandermast, Inc., at Fourth and Broadway. The winners can select the specified clothing or make any other choice up to the value of the prize won.

First prize in each division will consist of a $35 dress outfit, including suit, shirt, tie, underwear, sox, sweater, or other merchandise. Second prize will be a $15 outfit, third prize is $10, fourth prize $7, fifth prize $5, sixth to thirteenth prizes, $3, and fourteenth and fifteenth prizes, $2.

The prizes will be paid in addition to the regular carrier commissions earned during the contest. The competition will close on August 31 at 8 p. m. and new subscriptions must be taken for a two-months period or longer. Subscriptions mailed to the Register with request for contest credit will be honored.

There are live methods of earning votes in the contest. For each new subscription, 2000 votes are awarded. For payment in advance on new subscriptions, 1000; for payment in advance on renewal subscriptions, 1000 for one year, 500 for six months; for perfect service throughout duration of the contest, 1000; for each one increase in number of subscribers on carriers' route, August 31 over August 1, 1000.

The city carriers were told of the new contest yesterday afternoon and immediately started in search of votes. Suburban carriers have also been notified and will begin their intensive drive for subscriptions at once. The contest held last year was one of the most successful in the history of the paper, according to Conklin.

Singers To Take Part In Concert

Supplementing the weekly band concert by the Santa Ana Municipal band, the Bel Canto club of the Southern California Telephone company will offer a group of vocal numbers tomorrow night in Birch park.

E. M. Waycott, director of the organization, announced the program today for his singers. Selections will include "The Glowworm," by Paul Lincke; "Carmena," by H. Lane Wilson; "By a Waterfall" and "The Footlight Parade." The Bel Canto numbers are scheduled for 8 o'clock Mrs. Blanche Hackelton will act as accompanist for the group.

The band numbers will open with the stately "March" from Wagner's music drama, "Tannhauser." The overture, Keler-Bela's "Ungarische Lustpiel" or "Hungarian Comedy," is distinguished by a brilliant style and clever arrangement and is based on the national dance, the "Csardas."

Director Leland Auer has chosen "Tales for the Vienna Woods," by Strauss, for the third number, and the next will be "Echoes From the Metropolitan Opera House," arranged by Moses-Tobini, which includes masterpieces familiar to every concert-goer. Included in this selection are strains from Gounod's "La Reine de Saba," Wagner's "Venusberg" from Tannhauser, "Song to an Evening Star," a march from the "Ring des Nibelungen," Leoncavallo's "Pagliacci," Weber's "Invitation a la Valse," Mascagni's "Cavalleria Rusticana" and Liszt's "Second Hungarian Rhapsody."

For the lighter half of the program, Auer has chosen a selection from Victor Herbert's "Babes in Toyland," followed by Cesar Cui's original "Orientale" from the violin suite "Kaleidoscope."

"The Flight of the Bumble Bee," from Rimsky-Korsakow's "The Legend of the Tsar Salton," will precede the "Bacchnale," from Saint-Saens' sacred drama, "Sampson and Delila." The descriptive fantasia, "In the Clock Store," by Orth, will be followed by the closing number, a march by Goodman, "Tribute to Sousa."

Auer has announced that the last program of the summer season will be an all-request program, not limited to the numbers already played this season. Harry Hanson, president and manager of the band, is receiving requests until August 15.

Pays $150 Fine On Drunk Charge

Pleading guilty to a charge of driving while intoxicated, George Brown, 33, truck driver of 191 North Tustin street, Orange, drew a fine of $150, lost his driver's license for six months and was placed on probation for a year, when he appeared before Judge A. W. Swayze in Orange yesterday. He paid the fine.

It was claimed that Brown's car turned over twice in the plaza square Sunday. He was arrested by Officers A. H. Westerman and James Johnson.

W. C. Watson of North Orange street drew a fine of $50 when he appeared in Judge Swayze's court on a charge of assault and battery. The complaining witness was Mrs. David Etters, his daughter. The charge grew out of a family dispute, it was reported.

TAX WASTE IS CONDEMNED BY COUNTY C. OF C.

Making six definite recommendations regarding the local tax situation and declaring that extravagance and waste in any department of government must reflect itself in increased taxation, a report submitted by the tax committee through J. A. Knapp, chairman, was adopted at a meeting of Associated Chambers of Commerce of Orange County last night in Laguna Beach.

"The people pay the taxes and cannot escape them," Knapp said. "Extravagance and waste in any department of government must reflect itself in increased taxation. The only way to reduce taxes is to reduce expenses.

"The tax burden and problem affects every investor, every home owner, every family and every worker. Not one of us escapes its crushing burden. That is why each and every one of us should do his part to create efficient and economical government, and to study the necessity behind every tax demand from the smallest county seat in the land to the capitol at Washington."

Recommendations made by the tax committee, adopted as part of the report, are as follows:

"1—We believe the present operation of the sales tax is fair and effective and therefore recommend its continuance.

"2—We suggest that definite information be widely disseminated regarding the recent changes in the collection and expenditure of corporation taxes and the way in which this will affect the tax rate on real property in this county. Since approximately 60 per cent of the county taxes formerly went to education, what decrease shall the owner of real property realize now that the state pays the education bill?

"3—We recommend the 40 cent road tax be reduced to 10 cents, said reduction to begin this year, or eliminated altogether, since the state has taken over so much of the county highway system. The taxpayer does not see a present necessity for this tax.

"4—We believe there is a duplication and even a triplication of expense in our library systems by maintaining city, county and school libraries under present methods.

"5—The county government act provides for our system of departments of which, in many instances two or more might be combined, causing less expense and greater efficiency. We suggest that efforts be made looking toward legislation to correct these conditions.

"6—Since the average incomes of our people have not been materially increased, and since certain groups of school teachers have volunteered to accept and have accepted reduced salaries for their services we suggest that other groups might do likewise and thereby materially help the struggling taxpayer."

Tragic Anniversaries

France Mobilizes; Germany Declares War on Russia; British Fleet Is Made Ready

BY MORRIS GILBERT
NEA Service Staff Writer

It's August 1, 1914—and war! Swiftly, now, move tragic events that finally embroil the whole of Europe in armed conflict such as the world never before has seen . . .

Paris, 3.45 p. m.—General mobilization ordered.

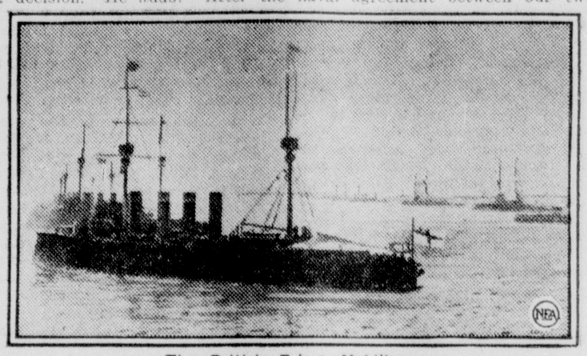
London.—French ambassador pleads with Sir Edward Grey to reach a decision. He adds: "After the naval agreement between our two countries by which our fleet has been concentrated in the Mediterranean to permit yours to concentrate in the North Sea, with the result that if the German fleet chose to destroy Calais, Boulogne and Cherbourg, we could not oppose the least resistance, you tell me that your government cannot decide to intervene. How can I send such a message to my government?"



The British Fleet Mobilizes

Sir Edward observes that no written agreement exists and that the decision rests with parliament alone.

Winston Churchill, again acting on his own hook, gives orders for the British fleet to mobilize. "We had no legal authority to call out the naval reserves," he declares in his Memoirs. The act was ratified next day by the cabinet.

COMPARE VALUE OF FERTILIZER FOR GROWERS

By E. E. EASTMAN
Assistant Farm Advisor

Citrus growers can many times effect a considerable saving in the purchase of their organic fertilizers if they keep in mind one or two salient points.

In purchasing any form of organic material to apply as a fertilizer only two things have been found to be deserving of consideration. One of these is the amount of nitrogen present. It is a necessary fertilizer readily used by plants and the most quickly depleted of our fertilizing materials.

The other thing of value is the organic matter present in the material purchased. Organic matter is a source of nitrogen, phosphorus, potash, calcium, iron, and all other minerals that are used by plants in their growth.

Orangic matter also acts as a food for the beneficial bacterial life of the soil and in decomposing produces certain compounds that assist in dissolving the minerals of the soil.

Allowing $2 per unit or per cent for nitrogen and 5 cents per unit for organic matter, various sources of material can be compared as to their value:

Manure, per ton price paid, $2.50, nitrogen content, 3/4 per cent ($1.50); organic matter, 30 per cent ($1.50) actual value to grower, $3.

Other organic material, per ton price paid, $26; nitrogen content, 6 per cent ($12); organic matter, $65 per cent ($3.25); actual value to grower, $15.25.

HEADQUARTERS FOR QUINN ARE OPENED

Orange county headquarters of the John R. Quinn-for-Governor organization have been opened at 605 North Main street, it was announced today. At the same time, details of the permanent campaign organization were made public.

Charles D. Van Wyk, prominent Legionnaire, has been made general chairman of the county organibation and M. E. Meeks secretary. An advisory committee of workers from each community was also appointed.

Another meeting of Quinn adherents is scheduled for next Monday evening, August 6, at the new headquarters, to which all supporters of John R. Quinn are invited.

More than 52 per cent of Japan's merchandise is composed of raw silk and silk textiles.

CITY P.-T. A. TO HOLD SCHOOL OF INSTRUCTION

Instructions, new ideas and methods, for the benefit of all officers and chairmen of Santa Ana Parent Teacher associations, will be offered at the first school of instruction ever conducted by the Santa Ana Council of Parents and Teachers, which will be held at the Willard auditorium Tuesday morning, August 7, from 9 to 12 o'clock.

Although especially planned to assist officers and chairmen just beginning their year's work the meeting will be open to all members, Mrs. W. A. R. Crawford, council president, said today.

Following a short general session which will be addressed by Mrs. W. T. Kirven, Fourth District president, and Superintendent Frank Henderson, separate conferences will be conducted.

Two state chairmen will be present. Mrs. W. A. Price, of Los Angeles, editor of the California Parent-Teacher magazine, will assist Mrs. H. I. Thornburgh, council magazine chairman, with her conference, and Mrs. R. T. Goodhue, Glendale, state publicity chairman, will join with Mrs. Dale Elliott, council chairman, in conducting the conference for publicity chairman. Mrs. Ruth Riggle, council chairman of membership, will be assisted by Mrs. Oliver Wickersheim, of Orange, district chairman of membership. An hour's conference on programs, led by Mrs. Barry McPhee, council chairman, promises real assistance to the program chairmen of the city associations, Mrs. Crawford said.

Officers will confer with Mrs. Crawford, council president, on matters of procedure, organization and requirements. A class in finance and budget will be held by Mrs. Georgie B. Farren, council treasurer.

Following adjournment at noon, a one o'clock luncheon honoring state and district guests will be held at the Doris Kathrynn Tea Rooms. Reservations for the luncheon may be made through Mrs. George Ames before Monday.

Objections To Seining Are Voiced

Orange county's coastline faces the grave danger of having fishing practically exterminated if the practice of purse seining by large commercial canneries continues, Dr. C. G. Huston, president of the Orange County Coast association and prominent member of the Associated Chambers of Commerce of Orange County, declared at a meeting of the latter group last night in Laguna Beach.

Dr. Huston, who was supported in his stand by Harry Welch, secretary of Newport Harbor Chamber of Commerce, and others, presented a resolution urging the division of fish and game of the state and all law enforcement agencies rigid enforcement of the laws and regulations pertaining to protection of the fishing resources.

The resolution said that it is reported that certain commercial fishermen are taking fish in some cases in unlawful nets and in purse seining and in other cases from prohibited waters off the coast of Orange county to the great detriment and damage of marine life in the waters.

Dr. Huston said the practice of the large cannery boats has been to locate a large school of fish, throw a purse seine over the school and take the entire school, large fish, small fish, eggs and all. He said that he has been informed by fishermen that if the practice continues fishing will be a thing of the past along the coastline here in short time. He said California is the only state that permits this type of fishing. The canneries can use only a certain amount of the fish, he said, and the rest is made into fertilizer.

DEMOCRATIC CLUB POSTPONES MEETING

FULLERTON, Aug. 1.—The regular meeting of Fullerton Democratic club, scheduled for tonight, has been postponed because of the warm weather and because so many members are away on vacation, according to announcement today.

ADVISOR TELLS WHY COUNTY IN DROUGHT AREA

When public attention was first drawn to the fact that Orange county had been designated as a drought relief area many wondered why, as there was little evidence of drought in the fruit and vegetable sections. This drought relief program concerns only cattle producers, according to W. M. Cory, assistant farm advisor. "Emergency drought area" therefore has a meaning to cattlemen only.

The drought relief program has a two-fold function. It is first to supply relief where there is an actual water or food shortage by the purchase of such stock. Secondly, producers in officially designated drought areas may sell low grade cattle to conserve available feed for those cattle that remain. By this means cattlemen may reduce their herds to the number that their feed supply will safely carry through and in so doing improve the general quality of their herd by culling out the poorer individuals. Cattle which are purchased, "accepted for use" are to be processed, canned, and distributed for relief purposes, and this will not interfere with the regular channels of trade.

At a recent committee meeting of cattlemen in the farm advisor's office, it was decided to proceed with the organization of a county drought relief committee. The personnel of this committee is to consist of five members, one cattleman appointed by the California Cattlemen's Association, one sheepman appointed by the California Wool Grower's Association, one cattleman and one dairyman appointed at large, and the fifth member to be appointed by the other four.

Application blanks for cattle appraisals are now in the farm advisor's office and as soon as the personnel of the committee has been approved and an appraisal committee chosen, action can be taken on the applications.

Complimenting Mrs. Stanley Le Lievre of Mexico City, who with her young daughter Janice, recently arrived to be houseguests of Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Wright, 2320 Riverside Drive, was a luncheon and bridge at which Mrs. Wright yesterday entertained a little group of friends.

It was in the Doris Kathryn Tea Shoppe that the hostess received her guests for luncheon at 1 o'clock, later repairing with them to her home where everything was in readiness for the contract games of the afternoon. Bright summer flowers, similar to those which had graced the luncheon tables, added their charm to the home surroundings.

Mrs. Maurice Enderle scored high in the bridge contest, with Mrs. Ernest L. Spencer making second high score. When Mrs. Wright made her prize awards she included also a pretty guest gift for Mrs. Le Lievre, inspiration for the hospitality.

Invitation to the enjoyable afternoon was extended to Mesdames Francis M. Findlay, D. K. Hammond, Maurice Enderle, John Backus, Ernest L. Spencer, Robert Bartholomew, Fred Newcomb jr., Clarence Nisson, L. Allen Wallace, A. L. Hellberg, Loyal K. King, Herbert Salveson, Orin B. Robertson, Cassius Paul and Harry G. Huffmann. Mrs. Hammond's mother, Mrs. F. G. Hoxie, also dropped in for the late afternoon after attending the Ebell garden party at the Harwood home.

Mr. and Mrs. Barnett Spend Honeymoon in Mountain Resort

Returning from a short honeymoon stay at Big Bear, Mr. and Mrs. Logan A. Barnett are completing plans for establishing their home in this city, where a host of friends await to offer congratulations upon their recent marriage.

Mrs. Barnett was Miss Grace S. Middlebrook, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Roy Middlebrook, 1507 Durant street. It was on Monday, July 23, that she became the bride of Mr. Barnett, son of Mrs. Fred Truman, 524 East Pine street, at quiet rites in the First Presbyterian manse, with the pastor, the Rev. O. Scott McFarland, reading the service.

Only immediate relatives were present for the wedding for which the bride was gowned in powder blue crepe, worn with becoming white hat and white accessories. Her flowers were gardenias in a corsage bouquet, and as the "something borrowed" she wore a pendant belonging to Miss Murrell Reagan, her maid of honor, and as the "something old," an exquisite lace handkerchief of European convent work belonging to Miss Opha Coulson.

Pretty Church Garden Forms Setting for Wedding Rites

Given a particularly lovely setting, the wedding on Saturday, July 28, of Miss Mary Frances Lowe of Riverside and Edward W. Ellis of Santa Ana, took place at 5 o'clock in the afternoon in the garden surrounding the Garden Grove Methodist Episcopal church.

The Rev. William Harkness, close family friend of the bride and groom, read the rites as the young couple stood by a quaint, old-fashioned well, green with ivy and fern fronds.

Miss Lowe, daughter of Mrs. Clarice Lowe of Riverside, was a charming bride in her smart fall suit of navy blue sheer wool with all dress accessories to match, and completed with a corsage cluster of gardenias and white sweet peas. Her sister-in-law, Mrs. Kenneth Lowe of Riverside, served as honor matron.

Mr. Ellis, who is the son of Mr. and Mrs. B. W. Ellis of Pittsburgh, Penna., had the assistance of his brother, Fred O. Ellis as best man. Mrs. Lowe, Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth Lowe and Mr. and Mrs. Fred O. Ellis were the only relatives present for the rites.

The new Mrs. Ellis is a graduate of U. C. L. A. where she was affiliated with Theta Upsilon sorority. Mr. Ellis, who is in the printing department of the Register, attended Bethany college in West Virginia, and Carnegie Institute of Technology in Pittsburgh.

EAT AND GROW SLIM
Dinner
Large sliced steamed halibut
4 tablespoons string beans.
3 tablespoons steamed cauliflower
1 large steamed tomato
1 tablespoon melted butter dressing with lemon and paprika
Slice of watermelon
Black coffee or clear tea
Calory total, 410

I saw this dinner cooked yesterday by a pressure cooker demonstrator. Possibly you have one; if you haven't, you are sure to have a flat-bottomed steamer and a big kettle, so we'll use that equipment for the diet dinner. Have you ever used parchment paper in cooking? If not, do get a package, and use it for meals like this.

Prepare each vegetable, wrap loosely in parchment paper and place in the steamer over galloping boiling water, in this order: 15 minutes for the beans first, then the cauliflower for 10 minutes, at this point put in the tomatoes, and in a small pan, the piece of halibut, the pan being placed under the steamer, in the water, but not the water in the pan. . .do you see? Cover the vessel and continue steaming for 25 minutes.

Place the cooked fish in center of platter, arrange the vegetables around it and dress with butter seasoned with lemon juice and paprika (the butter in the diet dinner is for that particular portion. Add more to dress the full platter).

Baked or steamed potatoes complete the dinner for the family.

The expensive bottled capers may be duplicated in Pickled Nasturtium Seeds. Do them this way.

Gather tender green nasturtium seeds, remove steams and put in salt water overnight. Freshen in cold water, pack in bottles and fill the bottles with hot vinegar. If preferred, the vinegar may be sweetened and spiced. Use the nasturtium capers with a boiled cream sauce for fish or mutton (boiled) or use in salad dressings.

TODAY'S RECIPE
Citron Preserves

Pare ripened citron, remove seeds and cut in thin slices. Weigh the citron, then put in a kettle with water to cover, and cook until the citron is semi-transparent. Weigh an equal amount of sugar into another kettle, add some of the water the citron was cooked in, and make a heavy syrup.

Add 2 slices of lemon for each pound of fruit syrup. Cook small amounts of the boiled citron sliced at a swift boil 15 minutes, skim out and put in hot sterile jars, and when all the citron has been preserved, boil down the syrup and fill the jars to the brim. Seal at once, and be sure the jars are air-tight.—Contributed receipt.

Preserves with this density of sugar have an approximate calory value of 125 per tablespoon.

A few cans of soup on your cupboard shelves will solve the problem of an appetizing supper in 20 minutes. Boil a pound of spaghetti in lots of salted water, drain and pile on a platter, dotting with butter. In the meantime, open a can of cream of mushroom soup, dilute with same amount of thin cream, and when it bubbles, stir in the yolks of two eggs, beaten, with a scant teaspoon of cornstarch. Pour over the hot spaghetti, sprinkle with grated cheese and serve with a crisp lettuce salad and coffee.

Garden Setting Offers Ideal Surroundings For Party Guests

Many factors entered into the success of the Ebell garden party held yesterday afternoon in the grounds of the Dr. D. A. Harwood home, 2467 Riverside Drive. There was the initial hospitable planning of finance committee members of the society, and the generosity of Mrs. Harwood in placing her home at their command. The varied games program, the perfection of the day, and finally the presence of some 300 women gowned in the graceful styles of the moment, all contributed to the general success.

Interest of members and friends of Ebell society was increased by the fact that the Harwood home was so recently chosen by a Hollywood film company for sequences of "Peck's Bad Boy," with young Jackie Cooper in the star role. Yesterday's guests easily understood the company's choice, for the gardens are indeed beautiful. Tables were spaced beneath the trees of the river bank, around the lily pool and on wide, grassy lawns where they were shaded by harlequin-striped umbrellas.

While the party details were planned by Mrs. W. E. Watkins and her finance committee, Mesdames J. H. Metzgar, Alex Brownridge, B. V. Curry, D. A. Harwood, L. M. Forcey and George Raymer, they had delegated hostess duties to Ebell officers. So arriving guests were welcomed by Mrs. Charles V. Davis, president, and her staff, who assumed charge of the various table groups. These officer-hostesses included Mesdames J. N. Cloyes, W. E. Watkins, F. E. Coulter, Ralph Smedley, Warren Brakeman, L. M. Forcey, Frank Paterson, J. T. Wilson, George Dunton, Hugh Lowe, George Brigge, W. I. Ferrey, F. F. Mead and W. Maxwell Burke.

There were different groups for different amusements, with prizes awarded for special scores. These prizes proved to be luscious home-made cakes, donated by Mesdames J. J. Clark, Ralph Mosher, Charles Kelley, R. O. Winckler, James Harding, Terry E. Stephenson, Frank Paterson and T. A. Winbigler. Each cake was contained in an intriguing hat box, handmade and hand-decorated in futuristic effect by the committee on prizes, Mrs. A. G. Flagg, chairman; Mrs. Philip Hatzfeld, Mrs. Earl Morrow and Mrs. Roy Hall, from materials furnished by Mesdames Earl Morrow, W. L. Deimling, Victor Montgomery, W. B. Williams and R. G. Tuthill.

Winners were Mrs. Sara Haddon, Mrs. Norbert Lentz and Mrs. R. G. Tuthill, contract players; Mrs. Frank Platt and Mrs. Gorgeson, auction players; Mrs. O. H. Barr, games; Mrs. C. A. Vance and Mrs. Dudley, lucky numbers. Awards were made while refreshments of fruit punch and delectable little home-made cake squares were being served by members of Girls' Ebell, always to the fore in assisting the senior club, and most charming in their colorful garden party frocks. Mrs. Byron Curry, Mrs. Aldric Worswick and Mrs. E. B. Sprague had planned the refreshments.

Bride-elect Showered With Kitchen Ware At Bridge Party

Adopting a color harmony of soft bright hues in summer flowers, Miss Geraldine Cole, 618 Cypress street, honored Miss Maybelle Ball with a bridal shower Saturday evening when the honor guest had the pleasure of meeting many college friends. The wedding of Miss Ball, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. H. H. Ball, 111 West Seventeenth street, and William Hewitt, son of Mr. and Mrs. J. Lee Hewitt, 411 West Santa Clara avenue, is to take place August 7 in Glenwood Mission Inn, Riverside.

Bridge was played during the evening, and the honor guest herself scored high, winning a set of tea towels in Spanish colors. Mrs. Alex Chastain, with second high score, received a salt and pepper set, and a paring knife was consolation gift to Miss Josephine Ball.

A bridal motif was suggested at the refreshment hour, when Miss Cole was assisted in serving by her mother, Mrs. Fred L. Cole. A small bride and groom were prominent on the table where Miss Ball was seated. Dainties included individual wedding cakes iced in bright colors.

At the conclusion of this interval, a tea cart laden with packages, was wheeled in and placed before Miss Ball. All types of kitchenware were represented in the gifts, which were in bright-colored Vollrath enamel.

Sharing Miss Cole's hospitality were her honor guest, Miss Ball, with the latter's mother and grandmother, Mrs. Harry Ball and Mrs. Lavina Williams, and her sisters, the Misses Josephine and Winifred Ball; Mesdames John Tessmann, Juliette Van Meter, J. Lee Hewitt, Marie McGinnis, John Gould, C. L. Neuschwanger, Fred L. Cole; the Misses Catherine Chapman, Gertrude Hubbard and Velma Witt of Santa Ana; Miss Ruth Brubaker and Mrs. Alex Chastain of Orange; Mesdames Ryder H. Myers and J. L. Hewitt of Los Angeles; Miss Jane Cunningham of Berkeley, and Miss Edith Lindquist of Hemet.

Late New From Orange And Nearby Towns

PLANS TO GROW TROPICAL FRUIT ON RANCH HERE

ORANGE, Aug. 1.—After spending 26 years in the Panama canal zone, during which time he took a prominent part in making possible the construction of the canal project, Dr. Henry J. Williams has located permanently in Orange county, where he will carry on experiments for the adaption of tropical fruits and vegetables to the Southern California climate.

Dr. Williams spent several weeks touring Southern California in looking for a suitable location, and finally picked a tract in the Orange Park Acres just above the El Modena grade as the best suited for his purpose.

Associated with Dr. Williams as his partner is Richard Eckert. They are now enclosing their experimental tract with a hot house which will be needed to protect the tender plants during the winter months.

After quiting his practice in the Adirondacks because of ill health, Dr. Williams was recuperating at the canal zone in 1905 while en route to the west coast, at the time preliminary canal operations were under way. While there, he became acquainted with the late Colonel Gorgas, who was in charge of combating yellow fever, malarie, and other tropical diseases which infected the district, and his assistant, Major Carter.

At their request, because of the shortage of doctors who could stand the tropical climate, Dr. Williams accepted a position under the government eliminating the disease which ravaged the canal workers. He was placed in charge of the Gatun dam district, which is one and a half miles long and 300 feet wide at the base.

Yellow fever, that dread menace which had helped to crush previous attempts to build a canal across the isthmus, was eliminated in a few months by the drainage of swamps and the extermination of mosquitos which carried the yellow fever germ.

"You only have yellow fever once," stated Dr. William, "If you live, you are immune, otherwise you die. On the other hand, each attack of malaria makes one more susceptible to recurring attacks of the disease. As a result the canal workers frequently are victims of the disease for many succeeding periods. I, myself, was in the hospital dozens of times, in spite of all preventative measures, including the eating of nine grains of quinine per day."

The Gatun dam is so large according to Dr. Williams that there is a golf course located on its top. The dam is lined with a fence made out of railroad ties, he said, and all people fishing in the lake are warned to remain back of this fence to avoid being dragged off the dam into the water by the fish. The top of the dam is often slippery and the fighting tarpon averaging 100 pounds are so powerful three fishermen were pulled off the dam before the fence was constructed.

An interesting feature of the canal operation is that while the larger ships have a clearance of only 15 inches on each side, they are electrically controlled and never touch the sides of the canal. Also, that the man who puts the ships through the canal never sees them, inasmuch as he is underground and operates the canal by means of a small model which operates the electrical control of the canal locks.

BEGIN HERE TODAY

Monnie O'Dare, in love with Dan Cardigan, local heir to a fortune, believes she is losing him to Sandra Lawrence who has pretended to be Monnie's friend. In spite of the attentions of Charles Eustace, handsome newcomer, Monnie pines for Dan. After neglecting her for some time Dan again seems interested.

At a big party which Sandra gives, Dan is missing. There is a scene between Sandra and Hetty, her maid, who believes Sandra is "vamping" James, the chauffeur. Monnie and Kay, her younger sister, have been trying to keep secret from their mother the fact that their brother, Bill, is in love with a married woman. Mrs. O'Dare learns this through a neighbor's gossip.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY.

CHAPTER XX

"It's all—pretty unsatisfactory," Monnie murmured, pleating the folds of her white scarf.

"I know that—I know that," Dan protested, eyeing her uneasily. They were seated on the bank of the river under the low hanging branches of the willows. The day was clear and hot. No haze dimmed the imperturbable blue of the sky. Monnie's white linen looked cool in the glimmer.

"It's uncomfortable for me," Monnie went on, speaking quickly, eagerly as if to justify her complaint. "Mother wants to know where I'm going and I tell her. She doesn't say anything—but of course I know what she feels."

"Well, what does she feel?" Dan's tone was almost sullen, although he tried to keep a bantering note in it.

"That—that I oughtn't to go on like this, seeing you all the time, being serious about it," the girl explained with difficulty. "I know we're engaged, Dan. That part of it's all right! But so long as you want to keep it in the dark, well, it makes it so much harder for me. You know as well as I do how tongues wag. And we've been going places together for a long time, Dan," she reminded him, trying to speak lightly.

"It's nobody else's business!" he declared. "You know—and I know. Whose affair is it, anyway? My mother'd raise the roof if she knew about it. All I want is to keep things dark until I come into Uncle Frank's money. That's in January, right after my birthday. Then we can walk off and tell them all to go to—!" He reached over and drew her toward him, his tones muffled. "Monnie, sweets, let's forget all about them. We're wasting our time talking about things that don't matter. Let's talk about ourselves."

Inwardly the girl sighed. Their discussions always ended this way. Dan's kiss stopped her protests. While she was with him she, too, could believe that their affairs were distinctly their own. But when she met curious, prying friends, she longed for the right to tell them her glorious secret. "Dan Cardigan and I are engaged."

The joyful comments, the pleased, envious, interested looks—all these would be part of being formally engaged. Notes, little presents, the right to be seen everywhere with Dan, his acknowledged choice. Best of all her mother's sense of security. She sighed aloud now, thinking of all this.

Dan turned to look at her. "What's the matter now?" he demanded. "I thought we had it all thrashed out?" He was frowning. Monnie, anxious to keep him in good temper, flashed him a reassuring smile.

"Just happy," she lied. "It's been a wonderful day. Let's gather up the things now and go along. I want to pick some raspberries."

But all the rest of the long, golden afternoon her mind kept harking back to the conversation. Dan was perfectly right about the whole thing, she would assure herself. And yet—and yet she would be willing to give up everything, all the brilliant hopes of Uncle Frank's money and the rest, if Dan would say to her, joyously, some afternoon, "Let's dash over to High Springs, and get married."

He had, once before, but he hadn't really meant it. He would have been terribly surprised if Monnie had taken him at his word. Now she would give anything in the world to hear him say those words. She would take the supreme chance, the chance of a battle with poverty, to be the acknowledged wife of Daniel Cardigan, junior. No more meeting Dan by stealth, so that the argus-eyed Mrs. Cardigan would not hear of their renewed devotion. No more eluding the subject, blushing and stammering, when people asked her about Dan. No inward rage and torment of jealousy when Sandra's name and his appeared, linked ,in accounts of social activities.

"I know you love me, Dan," she would explain patiently. "I understand. Of course it's all right. In January—in January—"

It would not be long until January. They could wait. They were both young. But this was high summer. The days and nights were achingly beautiful. Never did Monica see the moon riding high but that she longed to share the sight with Dan. She wanted to share homely things with him, too. Breakfasts and casual rides in the country. All the sweet privileges of the young wife seemed marvelous to her. It was difficult, sometimes, to believe that all this would be theirs a little later.

Meantime she had to be patient.

* * *

Charles Eustace came to the house rather often these days. Monnie, resting, limp and relaxed, in the porch swing, would hear a light step on the walk, would look up to see Charles, handsome, dark, smiling, towering over her. She could be easy with this man. They could talk, simply, deeply, for hours. Charles, she felt certain, was enormously attracted to Kay. Of course, it was absurd—Kay was not yet 17—10 years his junior. And yet, what a splendid thing it would be for her little sister if this man were to want her for his wife! He had everything—looks, family, money, what the world called "background." He had, too, character of a fine sort, apparent in every look, every single gesture.

"He's fascinating," Monnie acknowledged to herself when alone. "I like him so much. But love—no, I could never love Charles."

It was just as well, she reminded herself, that Charles was attracted to Kay. Kay was sparkling, animated. She made a splendid foil for his dark and slightly mysterious good looks.

"He, averred Kay one night, discussing him, "had some sort of heavy love affair in France last year."

"How do you know?"

Monica couldn't have explained the queer little tug at her heart-strings. Charles involved in an affair with a woman—important enough to have got into the papers! Absurd! She didn't like it.

"I don't believe it," she said stoutly. "Rissy talks such nonsense and so does Lib."

"Well, I don't know," Kay told her carelessly. "He always sheers away from the subject of his stay abroad, if you notice it."

Monica had observed this. But she refused to credit Rissy's gossip. It all sounded so—well, so shady. She just didn't believe it.

* * *

"Anybody'd think you were annoyed to find that Charles had ever loked at anyone else," she said in a small, child's voice. This Monica found extremely irritating and said so.

"I think that's perfect nonsense," she said. "I never heard anything so silly." Her cheeks, she discovered, were hot—were blazing. She felt furious with Kay—with everybody.

Monica stared at her. Was it true—was she completely indifferent to this distinguished young man who lent her books and walked with her under the trees and told her amusing stories in his lazy cultivated voice?

"He's been awfully nice to me," she said. "Naturally I hate to think he's not—not all I thought him."

She couldn't understand why Kay smiled so meaningly.

It was odd how Charles' name cropped up in conversation these days. When she met Dan that night at the turn of the road where he had waited for her in the summer dusk he said, "Doesn't that fellow hang around an awful lot nowadays?"

Monnie, thinking of other things, frankly stared. "Who?"

"Dan, don't be a goose. He comes to see the family."

"Expect me to believe that?" But Dan's tone was milder.

"He's interested in Kay. He's been wonderful to her. Dr. Waterman has recommended her for a job in the library. She's starting next Monday and is wild with joy."

Dan said nothing but he seemed, for the moment, mollified.

Later, lying awake in the little room under the hot roof, listening to Kay's even breathing, hearing Bill creak up the stairs, Monnie found herself thinking of Charles Eustace—of what Kay had said.

She turned and twisted from side to side. She could not seem to get to sleep. After all, what did it matter what Charles had been in the past, what adventures he had known? He was nothing to her. She was engaged to Dan Cardigan—although no one knew it.

THE TINYMITES

STORY BY HAL COCHRAN—PICTURES BY KING

Wee Scouty, still tied to the chair told Dotty she must have a care in sneaking from the Meanies' camp. "Crawl on the ground," said he.

"Then, when you're almost out of sight, jump up and run with all your might. I'll keep the Meanies eating big gumdrops. Leave that to me."

"Okay," said Dotty. "Here I go. At first I'll take it rather slow, and then, just as you say, I'm going to run like everything.

"Don't worry! You won't sit there long. Soon you'll be back where you belong. A bunch of fighting Cheerful Chaps o'er here I'm going to bring."

* * *

Then Dotty left, and Scouty cried, "Hey, Meanies, now that you have tried those very tasty gumdrops, why don't you all try some more?

"And, if you don't mind, feed me one, to pay me back for what I've done. I am the one who told you there was quite a treat in store."

As Dotty reached the other camp, she shouted, "Get set for a tramp. We're going to charge the Meanies. They will be caught off their guard.

"I found wee Scouty. He agreed to carry out the plan we need. Here's where we win this funny war, and it won't be so hard."

* * *

"Hurray for you," cried Duncy, "Gee, you're just as smart as you can be. I'll take the lead. Come on, you Cheerful Chaps, we're on our way!

"Across the open field we'll scoot. Have your cork guns all set to shoot. It thrills me just to think that we'll have Scouty back today."

They reached the Meany camp and then, the Meanies started running when the Cheerful Chaps and Tinies let their little cork guns pop.

Wee Windy shouted, "See them run! Oh my, but this is lots of fun. Keep shooting at them. Then they won't have nerve enough to stop."

WILKIE TELLS PLATFORM IN CHAMBER TALK

PLACENTIA, Aug. 1.—Capt. Don Wilkie, candidate for sheriff of Orange county, yesterday talked to members of Placentia Chamber of Commerce and their guests on his platform, outlining the many ways in which he would change activity and organization of that office if elected. He was introduced by John Tuffree.

Prior to his talk, discussion centered on the trial of Charles McLauchlan, held in Placentia last Tuesday, and the comments that had been made in the Santa Ana Register concerning that trial, with H. H. Hale, president of the chamber, settling the discussion by saying, "Let communism alone; it will die a natural death, and the best cure for it is prosperity."

Criticizes Paper

The discussion opened with a report by Stuart Strathman, secretary of the chamber, who declared that "the Santa Ana Register beat the big newspapers by issuing two comic sections prior to Sunday, one on Wednesday and one on Friday." He criticised the Register as "the only newspaper outside of the Western Worker that ever criticised the trial of a communist," and presented a letter of protest, as to the part the chamber had in the affair. He said Tom McFadden, attorney at the trial, and S. B. Kaufman, district attorney, were only guests at the chamber of commerce luncheon the day of the trial. He also suggested passage of approval of the letter, and it was advised the letter should be sent to the Register and other papers. A few suggestions from the floor that reporters be barred from meetings met with no action by directors, and Hale settled the question by advising that the question be left alone.

After Hale's suggestion, John Tuffree humorously suggested that it is likely the Placentia chamber of commerce's fault that prosperity has not returned, "for the chamber is usually charged with starting everything."

Other guests at the meeting were Mrs. Belle Spangler, of Santa Ana, candidate for county recorder, and Mrs. Oxarart of La Habra, introduced by Mrs. Nelle Cline, and Max Royer.

No Promises to Pay

Among the changes he would desire in the sheriff's office are the taking of the office out of politics, according to Wilkie. He said he is running without political endorsement, and with no money or sponsors behind him, and will have no promises to pay with tax payers' money if he is elected. He also declared that "I will not ridicule any other man to get this office, and if I am elected, will not spend time in perpetuating myself in office, but will get the office another time because I have delivered the goods."

He declared he has had 29 years experience in secret service and such duties. In discussing the Santa Ana sheriff's office, he said it cost $93,000 to run it and the jail, while the whole United States department of secret service cost but six times that amount for the same period, 1933, and that "I believe it is a stewardship, that office, and the sheriff owes to taxpayers a quarterly report; that policy has not been followed in Orange county for many years, in detail."

Says Substations Needed

Another plan, that the office may be placed on a working basis like the United States Secret service, is to place substations at strategic points, with radio equipped cars, on which messages can be either received or sent, he said. Wilkie said the outlying points would be Irvine, Placentia, La Habra, Buena Park, Seal Beach and Huntington Beach, and added "you can see those points are not to win votes for next election, for they are not central as to voting population, but are placed for expediency of service, at converging roads."

In answering a question by Jim Tuffree, as to whether he would wait until election to raid places that have been operating for months, he said that the sheriff has no excuse to offer for not doing his duties; if the district attorney's office fails to assist him, he can take his case to the grand jury; if the grand jury does not act he can take a few good citizens, and two newspaper reporters, and walk into a court, demanding that papers be issued for arrest of law breakers; if both district attorney and the court fail, the action can be taken to the attorney general of the state, he declared. He said the article in the Register concerning the sheriff failing in making raids on gambling houses and other places because the district attorney's office had failed to function was printed with the "best intention in the world," but that the sheriff should not wait for the district attorney, if he failed to act.

Bids on Foodstuffs

Wilkie declared if he is elected he will get trained men for the chief offices in his department, and concerning the operation of the jail, will receive bids on foodstuffs for the jail, that prisoners may be fed well, but inexpensively.

Louis Jacobsen, of the education committee, urged all interested in the school bond election register as to the part they will take in assisting.

Fiesta Held By Newport Groups

NEWPORT BEACH, Aug. 1.—The combined Ladies' Aid societies of Newport Beach and vicinity join forces today in producing their annual Fiesta Del Playo, at Christ Church By-the-Sea, under the direction of Mrs. Ida Naylor, president of the groups.

Doors opened for the church carnival at 11 o'clock this morning, and luncheon was served in the main dining room of the church. Sale of goods and foods produced by the societies was held during the day, enlivened by auctions and a program during the afternoon, with dinner for an estimated 250 guests scheduled for 6:30 o'clock this evening.

This carnival is produced annually by women of the church as a means of raising money which will be used for charity.

JURY IN BEACH GUN CLUB CASE FAILS TO AGREE

HUNTINGTON BEACH, Aug. 1.—A jury late yesterday ended the trial of the Casadora Gun club, charged with waste of water under a county ordinance, making the third failure out of four attempts to prosecute the gun clubs.

District Attorney S. B. Kaufman announced following the trial that he would again try all of the three cases that resulted in "hung" juries. One of the four cases resulted in a conviction.

In one of the disagreements, the jury stood 10 to 2 for acquittal, in another the vote was 6 to 6, and yesterday's jury stood 8 to 4 for conviction, but was unable to end the deadlock after deliberating from 10 a. m. to 4 p. m., when Justice C. P. Pann ordered them discharged.

The gun club defense, conducted by L. A. West, Santa Ana attorney, succeeded on the ground that the duck ponds on the gun club premises served a beneficial use in growing grass for pasturage of livestock, and that crops were grown in areas about the ponds.

One more gun club case remains to be tried, the date of hearing to be fixed soon, it is expected, by agreement between prosecution and defense.

Farmers of the county have frankly expressed disappointment, it is understood, at the failure of the gun club prosecutions. District Attorney Kaufman personally took charge of the Casadora case, aided by Deputy Leo J. Frils, but had no better success than his deputies in the previous cases.

DINNER OBSERVES EIGHTH BIRTHDAY

TUSTIN, Aug. 1.—The eighth birthday anniversary of Bobbie Collins was delightfully observed recently when his mother, Mrs. Pauline Collins, was hostess to a group of relatives and friends at their home on North A street.

A chicken dinner was enjoyed at 4 o'clock at a prettily appointed dining table. Flowers and other decorations carried out a yellow color scheme. A number of birthday gifts were showered upon the happy honor guest.

Place cards at dinner were written for the birthday celebrant, Bobbie Collins and his mother, Mrs. Collins; Mr. and Mrs. William Benjamin and daughter, Miss Audrey Benjamin, and Miss Anna Sutherland, of Tustin, and Dr. James Adamwics, of San Diego.

Gain Recorded In Laguna Business

LAGUNA BEACH, Aug. 1.—Indicative of a growing popularity of the art colony as a weekend resort is not only an increasing demand for housing accommodations but also increased patronage at eating places and other establishments catering to visitors, inquiries at the chamber of commerce revealed today.

In this connection Horace A. Dunn, director of the chamber of commerce publicity bureau, called attention to the record-breaking number of visitors here last weekend, taxing the facilities of hotels and eating places alike.

Dunn also called attention to the marked improvement in the rental situation, due principally to the growing popularity of Laguna Beach as a week-end resort. This demand for housing accommodations has in turn led to new construction, he added.

Yorba Linda C. C. To Meet August 8

YORBA LINDA, Aug. 1.—Members of the Yorba Linda Chamber of commerce have been called to a special dinner meeting scheduled for August 8, at 6:30 p. m., in Masonic hall, according to P. J. Ton, president.

ANGLING CLUB PREPARES FOR ANNUAL EVENT

NEWPORT BEACH, Aug. 1.—Plans are under way here by the Balboa Anglers' club for its annual fishing competition, according to M. S. Robinson, president of the group. It is expected that prizes will be given for the largest fish caught on standard tackle from deep sea boats, for fish caught on piers, for unusual fish caught, for tall stories, and, in fact, for almost every kind of Waltonian exploit known.

The Anglers' club has maintained a weighing station at the public pier in Balboa for sometime. The recent run af albacore, much sought after game fish, for the first time in six years, and rumors of early swordfishing have awakened interest in the annual competitions at the beach.

Fishing continues excellent in the vicinity. Sea trout, white sea bass and bonita are being landed on both the Newport and Balboa piers in some numbers in the early mornings, and halibut continue to be taken regularly. Barges and live-bait boats report increasingly good catches of bass, yellowtail, halibut and barracuda.

SOLID PROSPERITY SEEN IN 2 YEARS

YORBA LINDA, Aug. 1.—"We are on the road back and in the next two years will be on solid prosperity; not making billionaires, but on a solid prosperity that puts the fruit of toil and industry where they belong, with equitable distribution," John E. King, of Hemet, candidate for congress from the 19th district, said Monday night at a Democratic rally at Yorba Linda.

King, introduced by A. B. Hillbaold of Fullerton, first told of the high registration of Democrats in the three counties composing the 19th district, Riverside, San Bernardino and Orange counties.

He said he stands for old age pension plans; for the policies of the president; for making the child labor amendment a reality; for the recognition of women in government affairs, as President Roosevelt has done and is in sympathy with the giving of aid to veterans.

He declared it is impossible to fear that he will favor lowering tariff on citrus, "since the raised tariff was put on during the presidency of Wilson, and since the government recognizes the citrus industry, has loaned $11,000,000 to it, and has $5,000,000 more to lean."

About 60 attended the meeting. The talk was preceded by a group of musical numbers by Clarence Wing, Louis Minor and John Hall, and by a saxophone solo, played by Billy Burchit with Audry Ton accompanying at the piano.

Candidate Backs Plan On Pensions

Davis had previously declared himself in favor of an old age pension plan, but his declaration last Monday night is said to be his first unqualified endorsement of the Townsend plan.

The meeting was sponsored by the local Democratic club, with its president, E. R. Muse, presiding. Other speakers included Carl M. Heim, Santa Ana manager of the Davis campaign, and C. R. Allen of Fullerton, Democratic candidate for the assembly in the 75th district.

Boys' Club Will Meet On Thursday

WINTERSBURG, Aug. 1.—"Young Dillinger" will be the topic for discussion at the weekly meeting of the Boys' club of the Wintersburg Methodist church Thursday afternoon, at 2 o'clock, as sponsored by the Rev. Joe Thompson, pastor of the Wintersburg Methodist church. At 2:30 the Rev. Thompson and the boys will motor to Newport Beach for a race with their own personally constructed small boats.

STANTON, Aug. 1.—Mr. and Mrs. Frank Bushnell of Long Beach entertained the Sunshine and Shower club at the home of their daughter, Mrs. Roy Rowe, recently.

The 6:30 o'clock dinner was served on the lawn. Mrs. A. L. Sherman of Fresno, a niece of E. E. Briggs, sent a large angel food cake beautifully decorated.

Sale of a quilt brought over $25.

At cards, Mrs. Pritchet won high for women, and Mrs. Poff, second. For men, G. W. Irwin of Los Angeles won high, and Mr. Brown, second.

CALL ISSUED FOR WORKERS ON $190,000 BEACH SEWER PLANT

LAGUNA BEACH, Aug. 1.—A clearing house for assignment and distribution of labor as needed from time to time by the contractor in connection with the Arch Beach $190,000 sewer and treatment plant project, was established today at the chamber of commerce offices under direction of Capt. George A. Portus, executive secretary of the chamber, the chamber official acting as the representative of the Orange county section of the National Re-employment service. It was pointed out that Captain Portus as well as other chamber officials are giving their services free of charge.

Yesterday the contractor brought down a considerable amount of machinery and nine keymen of his organization. His first request for local labor came today, calling for 15 common laborers. It was intimated, however, that additional requests for labor, including carpenters and other skilled mechanics, will follow as soon as the work is under way. The minimum wage scale for common labor is 45 cents an hour, it was explained. It was pointed out, however, that none but men who are physically fit will be employed.

Captain Portus suggested that unemployed men, capable of doing manual labor in connection with the sewer project, register at the Santa Ana office of the National Re-employment service, Federal building, Santa Ana, giving their name, age address and telephone number, and classification of work desired, it was stated.

PLAN IMPROVEMENTS

WINTERSBURG, Aug. 1.—Work of improving the grounds about the Wintersburg church is to be continued next Saturday, it was announced today.

Shrubs or young trees are being sought by the committee for planting about the grounds.

MESA SPEAKER TELLS LIONS OF POWER PROJECT

COSTA MESA, Aug. 1.—Sidney H. Davidson, principal of the Newport Harbor Union High school, spoke Tuesday at the meeting of the local Lions club, using as his theme, "The Muscle Shoals Project and Its Possible Effect on the Social and Economic Conditions of the United States."

Davidson stated that it is believed that this project will be a yardstick by which many other such projects will be measured, determining in a great measure as to whether such efforts and their eventual benefits to the people shall be handled by the people or whether they shall be promoted by private interests.

The Muscle Shoals project will not only furnish water power for power and light, he stated, but will accommodate a huge fertilizer plant, will furnish much water for irrigation purposes, will be a vast flood-control project, and will go far toward the reclaiming of much almost useless badly eroded land. If the project comes up to the expectations of those in charge, he said, there are many other such situations within the United States that may profit by such an example.

Davidson and his family have just returned from an auto tour through the east that took them into Tennessee and eastern states. He was introduced by E. A. Rea, acting program chairman for the day.

BUENA PARK, Aug. 1.—Last rites for Mrs. Mary Neidig, 44, of West Eighth street, were held Monday at the O. A. Stone funeral parlors on Grand avenue.

Mrs. Neidig, who died Sunday at the Orange County hospital, is survived by her husband, George B. Neidig; Mrs. Lora Brown of Los Angeles; Florence Neidig, Betty Neidig and Nadine Neidig of Buena Park, her daughters; and two sons, Carl and George Neidig jr., Buena Park.

The Rev. L. R. Grissle, Buena Park Pentacostal pastor, assisted by the Rev. B. Chambers, La Habra Pentacostal minister, conducted the services.

Picnic Observes 12th Anniversary

BUENA PARK, Aug. 1.—One of the recent social events of Buena Park was when Mrs. D. F. Lemke, assisted by her sister-in-law, Mrs. Vella Lune, and Miss Mildred Lune of Whittier, entertained with a picnic at the Anaheim city park, observing the 12th birthday anniversary of her daughter, Clarabelle.

Games were played during the afternoon, with refreshments of ice cream, a pink and green decorated birthday cake, and iced fruit punch served at the close of the afternoon. Favors in harmonizing pastel shades were presented each guest.

Guests invited were Miss Virginia Crisman, Miss Helen Hart, Miss Lorraine Smith, Miss Nobu Higashi, Miss Hatsu Ocabe, Miss Jean Cole, Miss Gloria Montgomery, Miss Dorothy Hatch, Miss Trevis Turner, Miss Dorothy Chronister, Miss Emily Allen, Miss Mary Byers, Buena Park; Miss Helen Sheriff, Anaheim; Miss Eva Lune, Whittier, and Miss Jane York of Long Beach, a house guest of the honoree.

LAGUNA BEACH ARTISTS NAME OFFICERS SOON

LAGUNA BEACH, Aug. 1.—In anticipation of what is expected to be one of the liveliest meetings ever held in the annals of the Laguna Beach Art association, artist members as well as associate members of the organization today were making sure of their individual membership standing as only members in good standing, that is to say those who have paid prescribed dues, are entitled to vote at the annual meeting set for the evening of August 13.

Listed as the principal business to come up before the meeting is the election of officers and directors. A nominating committee, elected from the floor, has submitted the following nominations: For president, George K. Brandriff, noted artist whose canvases have elicited much favorable comment; for first vice president, John Hinchman; for second vice president, Clarence K. Hinkle; corresponding secretary, William Riddell; recording secretary, Roy Ropp; treasurer, William Griffith; for directors R. Ferdinand Heckman, Thomas H. Lewis and Thomas L. Hunt. The officers are ex-officio members of the governing board. It was pointed out that this is the first time in many years that the official nomination slate is made up entirely of artists.

It was intimated that while a considerable number of local artists and laymen are favoring the recommendations of the nominating committee, there are those who would like to see Louis Danz, the present executive, returned to office, hence nominations from the floor are expected to be made, particularly for the office of president. The organization has a membership of about 300 artists, residing here and other parts of the Southland, and close to 600 associate members.

San Diego Lions To Give Program

Fifty members of the San Diego Lions club will take over the program at the Santa Ana Lions meeting tomorrow noon in James' cafe, it was announced today by Secretary E. M. "Sunny" Sundquist.

The speaker of the day will be Art Ponsford, who is associated with one of the big marine companies in San Diego. His talk will be on the subject, "Tuna Tales."

FIRST BIRTHDAY OF BLUE EAGLE IS CELEBRATED

The famous emblem was issued as the symbol of the NRA Aug. 1, 1933.

Slightly more than a year ago the now-famous bird lived only in the imagination of Charles Coiner, young Philadelphia commercial artist. His design creating the "Blue Eagle", with lightning in one claw and a cog wheel in the other, was adopted to lead the recovery drive.

Today most industries fly the "Blue Eagle" and operate under codes for which it stands.

Campaign Recalled

With the creation of the Blue Eagle, the largest volunteer peace time army in the history of the country was organized to make the nation "Blue Eagle Conscious." More than 1,500,000 men and women started a nationwide "block to block" canvass. As a result, 2,300,000 employers and more than 60,000,000 consumers signed up to cooperate with the president's reemployment agreement. This agreement, known as the "blanket code" held until permanent codes were formulated for individual industries.

Since the New Deal started, millions have poured out of the United States treasury direct to citizens, industries and banks.

President Roosevelt intended the flood of dollars should alleviate human misery and quicken business. The money has reached its goal, at least in the cases of some of the "firsts" to receive government checks.

JAILER TRACKS DOWN HIT AND RUN DRIVER

When Assistant Jailer Frank Cagle booked a man at the jail yesterday afternoon whom he had arrested for reckless driving, he evened up a score following an accident at Fifth and Main streets Saturday night.

John Torres, 25, Belvedere Gardens, was driving a car which collided with the Cagle machine and then failed to stop. Cagle took the license number and started a search for the missing driver. Finally locating him in Los Angeles, Cagle took Torres before Judge Kenneth Morrison yesterday, where he had his answer to arraignment set for Friday. He was released without bond until that time.

No one was hurt in the wreck but Cagle's car was damaged.

CHIP GAMES AT VENICE CLOSED

LOS ANGELES, Aug. 1.—Police permits of eighteen places in Venice, where "chip" and "circle" games have been operated recently, were revoked late yesterday, after testimony by police investigators that the games enabled players to win or lose substantial amounts of money quickly.

This action was taken after a two-day hearing called by the police commission. Assistant City Attorney Newton Kendall asserted the games induced gambling, but attorneys for the operators said the games required "great skill" and were played for "amusement purposes only."

By unanimous vote the commissioners decreed that such games cannot henceforth be played.

BALLOON REACHED 60,613 FT. HEIGHT

WASHINGTON, Aug. 1.—(UP)—The stratosphere balloon "Explorer" soared to an altitude of 60,613 feet Saturday, the National Geographic society, sponsor of the flight, announced today.

The official figure was more than 600 feet higher than was estimated by the three army balloonists. The barographs, enclosed in a wood box and insulated with sponge rubber, escaped serious damage when the gondola crashed.

The official stratosphere record is 61,236 feet. It is held by Lieut. Comdr. T. G. W. Settle and Major Chester Fordney.

THREE AQUEDUCT WORKERS KILLED

RIVERSIDE, Calif., Aug. 1.—(UP)—Three aqueduct workers who rode a muck bucket at the Val Verde tunnel project of the Metropolitan Water district, were dead today, victims of an 80-foot plunge to the ground when a cable supporting the bucket snapped without warning.

The three men, James C. Davis, 32, Samuel L. Brown, 43, and Lincoln Wells, 29, were killed instantly late yesterday.

NEW BOOKS IN PUBLIC LIBRARY

BY VERNA RAMSEY

Southeast of Florida lies an enchanted land. In "Bahamas: Isles of June," Major H. Mac Lachlan Bell tells of these islands as true isles of magic.

Columbus fell on his knees when he reached them on a quest for a new world. The legend of Drake's Drum hangs about these "Treasure Islands," where Raleigh, Frobisher, Gilbert and Hawkins, vanguard of the English merchant marine, sailed the Spanish Main. More sinister names are linked to the Bahamas, those of the pirate Blackbeard and Morgan, the buccaneer. They are now oases of peace, a law-abiding British colony on which many nations have left some picturesque mark.

They are far-flung islands of contrast. In them voodoo still hides its dark head. What meets the eye, however, is the blue magic of the sea and sky and the golden people find time to live and play, and the word haste is unknown. Major Bell has caught admirably this spirit of ease. The mystery and beauty and aloofness is reflected by their Spanish name, Islas del Espiritu Santo—Isles of the Holy Ghost.

Their historic place in the sun is recalled. The shot fired at Fort Sumpter was echoed in Nassau and earned sympathy for the cause of the South. Daring adventures connected the blockade-runners of the period; in fact all the glamorous episodes and personalities associated with the Bahamas are embraced for the visitor's and the reader's information and entertainment.

His exploits are many. He conquered the Alamo and butchered its garrison of Texans. His defeat by General Sam Houston at the battle of San Jacinto, his capture following the battle and his eventual escape from Texan vengeance, compose one of the most gripping chapters in the chronicles of the southwest. Later the Americans crossed his path when he was commander-in-chief of the Mexican forces during the war between Mexico and the United States. He matched wits with Andrew Jackson and he hoodwinked President Polk. He directed the Mexican army with distinction in the battles of Buena Vista and Cerro Gordo, and he combatted desperately the attack of General Winfield Scott on the "Halls of Montezuma." Zachary Taylor, Robert E. Lee, William Tecumseh Sherman, U. S. Grant, Colonel Jack Hays and his Texas rangers, and a host of other famous Yankees pass in this striking panorama of one of the most heroic epochs in our history.

Notable as he was in American history, Santa Anna was even more important in the long and bloody story of the Land of the Eagle and the Serpent. Eleven times he was president of Mexico. As an impetuous young officer he overthrew the throne of Mexico's Emperor Iturbide. He lost his leg in that most bizarre of conflicts, the Pastry war with France. He hobbled in and out of power until finally he reached the climax of his career—his fantastic reign as His Most Serene Highness, a despotism so gaudy and extravagant that it brought about his permanent downfall.

Santa Anna was one of the bloodiest, cruelest and most colorful of Latin-American dictators. This is, however, more than a thrilling story of the life of a famous character. It is the only satisfactory account of a fascinating period in the history of the 19th century North America.

The day of the sailing vessel is very nearly past, but we still respond to tales of those thrilling days. "The Log of a Limejuicer" by Capt. James P. Barker, is a first-hand narrative of high adventure. It was told by Captain Barker to his son, Roland Barker, himself a seafaring man who served as third mate under his father on the ship "Tusitala," last of the square-riggers.

Captain Barker's "log" covers a span of 20 years. This period began after the decline of the clipper ship era and practically ended when steam crowded the windjammers from the seas. He is best known as commander of the "Tusitala." Forty-four of his 58 years have been spent at sea. He has rounded Cape Horn under canvas 41 times.

The narrative begins with James P. Barker's apprenticeship at the age of 14. His life since that time has been packed with high adventure, great danger, and greater courage and resourcefulness. This account ends with the account of his command in 1905 of the ship "British Isles" on a voyage which according to Percy Hutchinson in the New York Times Book Review has "no exact counterpart in the books of the sea."

"The Log of a Limejuicer" is alive with color, incident and breath-taking adventure. It is not only the stuff that high adventure is made of—it is the stuff that will give to all who love adventure, and the sea, and ships and who read this book, an unforgettable and soul-stirring experience.

GAMBLING CASE TRIAL DATES ARE CHANGED

Defendants in two of three jury trials scheduled in Seal Beach on August 21 and 22 on violation of the gambling laws, succeeded yesterday in having the trials moved forward on the Seal Beach justice court calendar to tomorrow and Friday.

The four persons arrested in Larry's Tango parlor will go on trial tomorrow and the 13 defendants arrested in the first of three raids on Ballard's chip parlor will be prosecuted Friday.

Three men and a woman were arrested by sheriff's officers in Larry's parlor. These are Walter D. Burgess, 24, Gene Warren, 27, Roy Shaw, 35, the proprietor, and Jane Jessing, 21. They were all released on $200 bond by Judge Fred Smith of Seal Beach after Judge Kenneth Morrison of the Santa Ana justice court had fixed their original bond at $500.

Those to go on trial Friday from Ballard's are Charles Coleman, 28, William Conner, 22, Ogle Pieper, 23, Bob Webb, 23, J. P. Browner, 57, Joseph Smith, 33, Eleck F. Nelson, 32, Roy Heckenkamp, 26, Patrick Harrison, 47, Frank Pieper, 51, William J. Mulconnery, jr., 35, Larry W. Logan, 34, and Charles Wilson, 44.

Ballard's was raided three times by sheriff's officers, the last time on charges of conspiracy to evade the gambling laws, a felony.

POSTPONE INQUEST FOR WRECK VICTIM

The inquest over the body of Nello Sabato, 20, of Old Town, San Diego, scheduled to be held yesterday afternoon from the Harrell and Brown Funeral home, has been indefinitely postponed pending the recovery of Peter Gerache, San Diego youth hurt in the same wreck at Tustin Saturday.

Gerache was taken to his home after the wreck and was unable to return here for the inquest. Pending the setting of the date for the inquest, the body of Sabato has been shipped to San Diego for burial.

The accident occurred when Gerache "laid down" his motorcycle while rounding a turn to avoid hitting a truck driven by George E. Meton of 338 South Parker street, Orange.

LOFNER BAND WILL PLAY AT BALBOA

Carol Lofner and his band, direct from the St. Francis hotel in San Francisco, will play at the Rendezvous ballroom in Balboa tomorrow and Friday nights in conjunction with "Reunion Week" being observed at the beach amusement center.

Lofner's band and the regular Everett Hoagland band will alternate their music from 8:30 to 2 o'clock both evenings and offer a double bill of entertainment. Hoagland was a member of Lofner's band when the Rendezvous was opened in 1928 and Manager Harry Tudor was successful in signing Lofner this week because of their former associations.

Lofner will bring his usual entertainers to Balboa and has several novelties prepared, according to Tudor. There will be no price advance for the unusual programs on both nights.

Court Notes

Milton W. Mitchell, 120½ North Flower street, charged with driving under the influence of intoxicating liquor and Dallas Preble, Santa Ana, charged with drunkenness son the highway, each received 90 day jail sentences yesterday from Judge D. C. McCharles of Tustin.

Jimmie Zulfa, 20, Fresno truck driver, charged with overloading a truck and failure to appear in court, paid the $15 balance of his $25 fine on the first charge and the full $25 fine on the second charge and was released from the county jail yesterday by Judge D. C. McCharles of Tustin.

Charged with drunkenness, John Sharkey was given a 30-day suspended jail sentence and Jesus Gastelo paid a $25 fine in police court yesterday.

Jess Stanfield paid an $8 speeding fine and Wallace Davis paid a $1 minor traffic violation fine in police court yesterday.

Local Briefs

William J. Hancock, a worker on the SERA project of tearing down the Spurgeon school, was treated at the Santa Ana Valley hospital yesterday for neck and back injuries received in a fall on the job.

NRA MEMBER U.S. WE DO OUR PART

A COOLIDGE MEMORIAL EXERCISE

On August 3, at Plymouth, Vermont, the eleventh anniversary of the swearing-in of Calvin Coolidge as president of the United States is to be observed. The speaker on that occasion will be Congressman James M. Beck of Pennsylvania, the much-heralded expounder of the Constitution, a close and much admired friend of the late president.

The address will be of national interest in view of Congressman Beck's devotion to the constitution, of which in recent years he has been the most devoted defender.

In answer to a question as to the constitutionality of the New Deal legislation, Professor Powell, professor of constitutional law in the Harvard Law school, as to whether Congressman Beck's statement in regard to the unconstitutionality of that legislation were valid, said, "Mr. Beck is a fine gentleman, has a fine voice, but I would say of him what President Eliot once said of the faculty of the Harvard Theological School, that he performs his functions with a maximum of intellectual frugality."

Congressman Beck recently stated that the constitution has been in the process of slow demolition for the past 50 years, and that at present the people do not really care whether the constitution is violated or not. In the same address, he expresses little hope in the Supreme Court for a rigid interpretation of the constitution, and he has less hope that an appeal to the urban masses will result in anything more favorable.

So, we look for the rather platitudinous language from Mr. Beck which has marked the recent utterances of Mr. Fletcher, the new chairman of the Republican National committee, young Teddy Roosevelt, Senator Vandenberg of Michigan, and Ogden Mills. We may hear something about bureaucracy, regimentation, spending, and the dangers of democracy.

But a new era has come since the incumbency of Calvin Coolidge. Little that was applicable to our situation then is applicable today.

Mr. Coolidge had a philosophy of life and society which has been rudely shattered by the events of the last five years. His much-extolled virtue of thrift, which was framed in innumerable bank windows all over the country at that time, no longer has any appeal in view of the losses sustained by thrifty people who entrusted their savings to the money lenders.

And the years of speculative prosperity which marked his administration have proven to be too ruinous in the light of the past five years to deserve a eulogy.

Still, we shall be eager to learn what Mr. Beck has to say to the country on August 3 on that anniversary occasion. Few knew Mr. Coolidge better, and few had his confidence to a larger extent.

CONSIDER THE STATE OF YOUR GLANDS

It has now been well established that the gland secretions of the body have much to do, not only with physical growth, but quite as much with character and temperament. Dwarfs and giants, fat people and lean people, are what they are, because of an undersupply or oversupply of certain glandular secretions.

It is equally certain, and most every one can bear testimony to the fact out of his own experience, that certain people's mental and moral attitudes are determined by an undersupply or an oversupply of the secretions of certain glands.

That is not to be given as an explanation for every "nagger" and every moral delinquent. There is such a thing as deliberate "cussedness."

There are those who want to "keep up with Lizzie," and are miserable themselves and make every one around them miserable when they cannot succeed. There are those who, as Shakespeare says, "lay their lechery to a star," when they themselves are alone to blame.

How frequently have we heard the lawlessness and the brutality of Dillinger laid to the fact that he was unjustly charged with an offense of which he was innocent when a young man. This is all nonsense. The fact that his mother died when he was an infant was unfortunate.

But he had a good sister who reared him, and to whose home his dead body was brought for burial. No, the career of a Dillinger cannot be so explained.

But that there is something in the story of the man whose character was changed with the removal of his thyroid gland, and that there are those who have become victims of malnutrition or are irresponsible by reason of mental deficiencies cannot be denied.

Our whole modern practice of psychiatry and medicine is based on the discovery that moral guilt, mental abberations, and physical defects are in no small measure due to what men are. Our whole penal system of today takes such matters into consideration in fitting that penalty to the crime.

PHILANTHROPIC GIFTS

A firm of fund-raising consultants reports that the total sum given for philanthropic enterprises is larger by 44 per cent the past six months than for the similar period last year.

Such a report has to be carefully analyzed, for there are factors in such a situation that may lead to different conclusions from those evidently deduced from the figures. It may be that a considerable amount of the gifts of the past six months was from wills made five, or 10, or 15 years ago.

It may be that the fear created by losses from investments during the last five years has led some people to make large conditional gifts to charitable and educational institutions, on which they will receive annuity payments for the rest of their lives. It may also be that there were a few unusually large gifts the past six months which did not mark the same period last year.

Fund-raising consultants have to make a case if they expect to get business. We do not question the general statement made by this particular firm.

But we would not advise any charitable or educational institution to start a fund-raising campaign on the basis of such a report without a careful study of the field and its possible constituency. The time has not yet arrived in recovery to believe that there is much money to be had for a philanthropic drive.

Dividend checks are not yet normal. And the state of the stock market at present does not warrant parting with well seasoned securities.

STRONG MEN WILL FACE CONFLICT

In other columns of today's Register there will be found expressions from the publisher in respect to law enforcement.

The spirit of law enforcement and law violation cannot live peaceably in the same community at the same time. It is one of life's strenuous battles. It is the irrepressible conflict.

Abraham Lincoln quoted famous words from the Scripture when he said: "A house divided against itself cannot stand."

Ideas of themselves cannot come to blows. It is only through men, the embodiment of ideas, that conflict comes. Ideas are only permanent when embodied with a personality.

It is lamentable that one has to speak with emphasis, and sometimes with directness, in relation to the embodiment of an idea and be personal concerning it.

There are times for love feasts. We like to engage in them, but unfortunately a fight over profitable criminality is not a love feast.

We like the old adage that you can catch more flies with honey than you can with vinegar. We have tried it, and it works in the fly-catching business.

But fighting law violators and law violations, and sustaining officers who are against them, and opposing those who are for them, is not fly-catching. It is a condition which demands a fight, and the champion fighter for ideas in this country, one time said: "If it reaches the point where you have to hit; hit hard."

Theodore Roosevelt was a great personality. When his indignation was aroused, he was a mighty force against law violators, high and low. His type is needed in the nation today. It is needed in California. It is needed in Orange county.

New Roads to Romance?

Christian Science Monitor

Vast additional recreational advantages are not the only benefits to the general public which result from the CCC camp workers. It may be that these workers have tapped a new field which will provide a novel and enjoyable method of learning both history and literature. Today in northern Idaho, southeastern Washington and northeastern Oregon two projects are under way which serve as an illustration. When completed there will be made available to millions of motorists and hikers extensive pleasure domains. When venturing into these forested lands may not the public recall the first known expedition to this country, that of Lewis and Clark? If so, then what of the Indian girl guide, Sacajawea?

Perhaps in all American history there has been no more colorful and satisfying constructive adventure than the experiences of this woman. Born a Shoshone—a tribe remarkable for its morality, truthfulness and bravery—she possessed qualities that made her service as guide of exceptional value to these explorers. Her presence on the expedition was evidence in itself that Lewis and Clark were on an errand of peace, because no woman, in that section of the world, ever would accompany any war party. However, it was not so much as a guide that she deserves recognition. Her chief contribution was her unfailing understanding of the attitude of the white man, which she passed on to her native tribes, and her successful interpretation to the white man of the Indian point of view. It was she who persuaded these tribes to adopt the white man's methods of agriculture, a service of particular value to government agents at that time.

An authentic record of the life of Sacajawea has been written by Grace Raymond Hebard, who has for nearly thirty years sought—in her own words — "to rescue Sacajawea from the semi-oblivion into which her name had fallen, and give to her her legitimate place in the history of the great northwest." In this successful effort there is romance aplenty. It is gratifying to find that Sacajawea's faith in the white people was never betrayed. This cannot always be said in reference to the treatment of the American Indian. Her son, Baptiste, the papoose of the great expedition in 1805, accompanied Prince Paul of Wurtemberg on his journey through Europe; her adopted son, Bazil, was a leader, highly respected by the whites, and she herself was treated with reverence by white and Indian alike.

What Is a Secret?

San Francisco Chronicle

Announcement from Halifax, Nova Scotia, that Premier Ramsay MacDonald is so alarmed by the European situation that he has given secret orders for a cruiser to be in readiness for an emergency dash back to England, arouses some wonder as to just what is a "secret." That Mr. MacDonald has officially denied the report in no manner discourages it. Nor does it disclose how many people are supposed to know a "secret" before it ceases to hold secrecy. Can a "secret" be something merely guessed at and deriving its only corroboration from official denial, or something known broadcast but kept officially "confidential?"

More Truth Than Poetry

TROUBLE IS SIGHTED

The Kleagles are gathered together,
The Kleagles we fancied were gone,
In spite of the hot sultry weather
They are marching around the old lawn.
They move in a solemn procession,
Agreed to the very last man
To stem the alarming aggression
Of the terrible Soviet Klan.
They are ready to cook—and cook plenty—the goose
Of the base scheming Reds that the Czar has let loose.

In spite of the breadth of the ocean
That rolls between Russia and us,
The Kleagles now cherish the notion
That we're due for a terrible fuss.
Let the Russians beware of their power,
Let a Red wave his beard on our shore,
And that second, or minute, or hour
Not a Red will exist any more.
For once let a Kleagle put on his white shirt
And somebody, somewhere is going to get hurt.

Just where have they been, those fierce Kleagles
Who number so many today?
They once were as plenty as eagles
Flying forth in pursuit of their prey.
And then they no longer paraded,
We thought they were wholly de-Klanned:
Overnight, it appeared, they had faded
From the face of this glorious land.
And ready to kick up the deuce of a row!

Little Benny's Note Book by Lee Pape

Me and pop was taking a wawk before supper and we was crossing a street and 2 automobeels was coming from 2 diffrent directions, and pop grabbed a hold of my arm, saying, Easy, easy, take it easy.

And we stood there safe and then kept on going, pop saying, Always keep your head and the werld is yours, or at least you wont end your days with unnecessary suddenness. No matter what the emergency is, stay cool anl you'll live to emerge from other emergencies. The werld's grate men have all kept their heads at crucial moments. Be cool minded and you can even afford to be hot tempered. Stay cool, let the most important emblem on your coat of arms be the cucumber, pop sed.

Yes, sir, I said. G, pop, do you think you'd always keep your head and stay cool no matter where you was no matter what happened there? I said, and pop said, I have that happy faculty. I think I'd know what to do in all emergencies, most contingencies, practically any dilemma, the generel run of quandries, and proberly 9 tents of all jams.

Me thinking a while and then saying, Well jimminy, pop, what would you do if you was in the jungles and a tiger chased you up a tree and when you got up there you discovered you was half ways between a bear and a bore constrictor with the tiger still waiting for you down below and about 6 buzzerds flying around up in the air waiting to see what happened?

I'd keep cool, I'd keep my head, pop said, and I said, Yes sir, but what would you do, sipposing you ony had 5 seconds to act? It's been much more than 5 seconds now since I asked you, and sippose you hadn't did anything yet? I said.

O, you want to know what my course of action would be? pop said, and I said, Yes sir, and pop said, It would be effective you may rest assured of that.

And he got me a ice cream cone on account of proberly thinking it would be a good way to change the subjeck.

With approximately 100 acres of sorghum cane almost ready for harvesting, Costa Mesa's first industrial plant, a sorghum mill, was being rushed to completion under direction of Edward Loggdon. The mill was being constructed on Newport road, about a mile east of Costa Mesa. An apple packing house, cider mill and salesroom were being erected on an adjoining lot. All were community projects, practically every rancher on the Mesa was an apple grower and the majority had put in sorghum patches.

Miss Jeannette McFadden, city librarian of Santa Ana, was honored by the president of the California Library association by being appointed to the presidency of the sixth district association of the state organization. The district included counties from San Luis Obispo to San Diego.

Thoughts On Modern Life

BY GLENN FRANK

THE PARAMOUNT ISSUE OF OUR TIME

Many Americans, noting at least a surface similarity between the early moves of Italian Fascismo and the first steps of the American New Deal, not in the seizure of power or any strong-arm suppression of opponents, but in the steady expansion of the role of the State in the life of the people, have begun seriously to ask whether, in the long future, we are to pursue our enterprise in freedom or under regimentation.

And this, it seems, is to be the battle-cry of the Republican opposition.

I am aware that an enormous amount of political bunk will be thrown around this question, but, for all that, it is, in my judgment, the major issue of this generation.

If we do not meet this issue with a deliberate and well-founded decision, the drift towards the all-ambracing state will be swiftly accelerated. And how this acceleration will take place is, it seems to me, sun-clear.

In the absence of a clean-cut and comprehensive policy regarding the right relation between government and private enterprise we shall almost surely revert uncritically to anti-trust legislation which will express an admirable social purpose but embody an obsolete economic conception. And the Borahs will help this reversion along.

I would be the last living American to lift a voice in defense of anti-social monopoly. The necessity for its control is manifest. But the nature of its control is debatable. For loosely conceived legislation in the field of monopoly control may operate to prevent the leadership of private enterprise from bringing to the major fields of production and distribution that measure of large-scale co-ordination and plan without which a smoothly functioning and socially satisfactory economic life is impossible in an age of science, technology and power production.

If in our efforts to hobble by legislation the irresponsibility of private enterprise we hamstring its strength and unintelligently limit the right of its leadership to lead, we shall but insure the inefficiency of the economic order. And with a continuing, not to say increasing, inefficiency of private enterprise, the future can be forecast with measurable certainty.

The old cycles will take on a new severity.

We shall have our spurts of speculative prosperity, less frequent in occurrence and shorter in duration, but the effective development of mass production and mass consumption, as the two physical starting points of social progress, will be definitely slowed down if not stopped.

Popular dissatisfaction with economic arrangements will grow by leaps and bounds, and an unprecedented, irresistible pressure will come upon government to run the show.

This is why it is important now to deal decisively and in a flexibly intelligent fashion with this central issue of the relation of the government to private enterprise under modern circumstances.

Our Children

THE GARDEN POOL

"What are they going to do, mother?"

"Make a garden pool. They're going to dig a hole and line it with stones and cement and we will let the water run in and make a pool there under the trees."

"A pool. That means it will be full of water, doesn't it, mother?"

"Yes. Full of water. Then mother is going to put some lilies in it and some little fishes. Won't that be nice, son?"

"Awful nice. Can I play in it when they get it done?"

"Play in it?"

"Yes. I could wade in it, and ride my ship, and it will be such fun, won't it, mother?"

"I suppose it will. Yes, I'm sure it will."

That night mother said to father, "I'm not going to put any plants in the pool. I was going to, but I've changed my mind about it. I'm going to leave it free of anything at all so John Henry can play in it."

"Play in it?"

"Yes. I felt so ashamed of myself today. When the men came to start work John Henry came along with me to watch them and he asked me if he was going to be allowed to play in it and I hadn't the heart to tell him I had never thought of it. He must play in it. That's all there is about it."

"Well, I know, but Mary, you wanted that pool for—"

"I can wait. Just now he wants to ride his ship in it, and wade in it, and enjoy it. By and by he will outgrow it and I can plant anything I like in it. When I was talking to him about it I couldn't help thinking that about the best thing my pool could grow would be a little boy riding his ship."

So that was that and a happy boy played in the garden pool. A bit of water is a wonderful companion for children. Of course one cannot raise fine water lilies and little boys in the same pool, and with any success. But one can raise a healthy, happy youngster with the aid of a little water judiciously placed. If there is no pool maybe you can make one. It costs little and it goes far in amusement and health values. The garden hose can be used for a shower. A little ingenuity in partnership with the piped water supply can work miracles.

If you can manage it bring it into his play yard. It doesn't have to be much, just so he can get wet in it, paddle about in it. It cools him in the hot weather, it soothes him when he is irritated, it comforts him when he is lonely, it sings to him and with him. Water is his natural element. Bring it to him and he will be content to stay with it hours on end.

(Mr. Patri will give personal attention to inquiries from parents and school teachers on the care and development of children. Write him in care of this paper, inclosing a three-cent stamped, addressed envelope for reply.)

HINDENBURG REPORTED DYING TODAY

New Orleans Bristles With War Preparations

500 POLICE ADDED TODAY, FACES GUARD

All Weapons in Hardware Stores and Pawn Shops Guarded by Police

NEW ORLEANS, La., Aug. 1.—(UP)—Two miniature armies were mobilized here today, armed with almost every device known to modern warfare and ready to enforce the wills of their angry commanders, Senators Huey P. Long and Mayor T. Semmes Walmsley.

On the one side were Huey Long's national guardsmen, 600 strong, infantrymen, artillerymen and cavalrymen.

Against them were pitted 840 city police and 500 citizen volunteers, who were being sworn in and armed to defend the city.

Points of concentration were the Jackson barracks for troops and police headquarters for the volunteers.

The city bristled with preparations for war but few expected any catastrophe to develop from the situation. Martial law has been a familiar spectacle during the struggles of Huey Long against the city political ring and it hasn't cost any lives yet.

Except for a detachment of 50 troops that surrounded and menaced the city hall with machine guns, the militiamen were all confined to Jackson barracks.

There were only 20 police on the city hall steps, defending the building, but riot call reserves were held in readiness at police headquarters.

At headquarters, too, were a throng of citizens volunteering for service against Huey Long. Superintendent of Police George Reyer ordered 500 of the citizens mustered in. The volunteers were to be transported to points of vantage throughout the city, armed with shotguns, revolvers, riot guns, machine guns and other weapons.

CLEAN MOVIES DRIVE BACKED

LOS ANGELES, Aug. 1.—The campaign for clean movies received the unqualified support of the Presbyterian Synod of California-Nevada, when it endorsed the League of Decency movement. The Synod also advocated federal censorship of motion picture, and non-attendance of local members on unsavory films.

The action was taken in approving the report of the committee on moral welfare at a session in the Highland Park Presbyterian church.

Legislation to prohibit "the system of block-booking and blind-booking as now practiced" was also recommended.

Other objectives outlined by the committee report and approved by the Synod included support of the pending federal child labor amendment, opposition to compulsory military training in secondary schools and colleges and a diligent campaign for temperance.

PLEADS NOT GUILTY OF GIRL'S MURDER

NORMAN, Okla., Aug. 1.—(UP)—Pale and distraught, Neal Myers fidgeted today while his attorneys entered a not guilty plea for him on a charge he murdered Marjan Mills, University of Oklahoma beauty queen.

After a brief procedure in a courtroom crowded by many spectators who knew both the victim and the youth, Peace Justice J. D. Grigsby set the preliminary hearing for next Saturday.

The state accused the young university pharmacy student with administering drugs in an attempt to avert motherhood for his campus sweetheart. These administrations, investigators alleged, caused her death.

Divorce Trial Halted By False Teeth

SAN FRANCISCO, Aug 1.—(UP)—Mrs. Ralph Zorilla's divorce action was halted by court order today until she returns her husband's teeth.

In answering his wife's action, Zorilla complained this his wife "not only took my truck, which I need to earn a living, but also took my false teeth."

Judge Walter Perry Johnson asked Mrs. Zorilla about the teeth.

"I don't have them," she replied. "The last I saw of his teeth they were in the basement and the dog was playing with them."

The judge ordered her to find the teeth and bring them into court so that the proceedings could continue.

NOTORIOUS DESPERADO IS CAPTURED

He was arrested without a battle by members of a Kansas highway patrol squad and federal agents.

Clark and Frank Delmar were the only two members still at large of the desperate band which broke from the Lansing, Kan., prison last January 18 with Bob (Big Boy) Brady, slain by a posse two days later.

After his capture, the officers, heavily armed, bundled him into a car, and started the drive back to Kansas.

SWANSON URGES REDUCTION OF NAVIES 20 PCT.

Naval Secretary Opposes Japan Move for Change in 5-5-3 Ratio

WASHINGTON, Aug. 1.—(UP)—Secretary of the Navy Claude A. Swanson said today he would sponsor a general reduction of 20 per cent in naval armaments by the great powers, but was definitely opposed to abandonment of the 5-5-3 ratio fixed by the Washington treaty of 1922.

Swanson's statement came as a reply to a declaration by Premier Keisuke Okada that Japan was dissatisfied with the 5-5-3 ratio, arbitrarily designated as Japan's proportion of capital ships in relation to the United States and Great Britain.

"I believe that if we abandon the ratio, there is no telling where we would go," said Swanson at a press conference.

"I believe, further, in a 20 per cent reduction in all categories."

Swanson made it clear that this was his personal opinion and not necessarily the stand to be taken by the administration at the 1935 naval conference. The government's policy, he emphasized, will be determined by the president, "but my convictions are that we should not change the ratio."

The navy secretary, who represented the United States at the Geneva disarmament conference, said he had repeatedly expressed his position concerning the ratio and a general reduction of armaments in public statements, "and in my reports to the president."

Swanson made it plain that he would not advocate a 20 per cent general reduction in all categories, unless there was a general reduc-

RULES NURSE MAY GIVE ANAESTHETIC

LOS ANGELES, Aug. 1.—(UP)—A nurse is privileged under California law to administer anaesthetics, according to a superior court ruling on file today.

The ruling, of wide importance to the medical profession, was issued by Superior Judge Allan B. Campbell, sitting by assignment from Kern county, in denying an injunction to three physicians who sought to prevent Miss Dagmar A. Nelson, a nurse, from such practice. The suit was in the nature of a friendly action.

"Acts of the defendant, under the evidence introduced in this case, do not constitute the practice of medicine or surgery under the medical practice act," Judge Campbell held.

Electrician Survives High Voltage

LOS ANGELES, Aug. 1.—(UP)—"Tell them to turn that damned thing off!" an electrician shouted to the crowd from his perch among the high-voltage wires 40 feet above the ground.

Horror-stricken passersby saw the worker swinging and swaying, "stuck" on a 220-volt wire that carried plenty of punch known officially as amperage.

For 15 minutes the electrician fought to break loose from the wire which he accidentally touched. Then the power was turned off.

The man climbed down unaided.

"And I ain't hurt," he said as he climbed into his truck and drove off.

At the present speed, the Houston and its convoy, the New Orleans, will reach Astoria, Ore., Thursday. Navigators pushed their ships ahead at a rate greater than necessary in order to allow leeway in event of fogs off the Oregon coast.

The president spent most of his time on a thorough examination of documents bearing on public works and relief projects in the Pacific northwest, through which he will pass on his way overland to the east.

He also was attending to administration details communicated by radio from his Washington offices.

The Houston and the New Orleans will part company when they reach Astoria. The Houston will proceed up the Columbia river, carying Mr. Roosevelt to Portland, where he is due Friday. He will find Mrs. Roosevelt waiting for him there and also his secretaries, Louis Howe and Stephen Early.

New Record Set; G. O. P. Still Leads

REGISTRATION records in Orange county were smashed today when County Clerk Joe Backs announced that a total of 63,814 electors have signified their intention of voting at the August primaries.

Never before in the history of the county has such a large number of voters been registered, Backs said. The county clerk just completed compilation of his report which will be mailed to the secretary of state Friday. The large number of registered voters indicates the interest felt by citizens in the coming election, it is said.

In spite of a decided swing to the Democratic party, the Republican forces in Orange county were still about 5000 ahead of the Bourbons, with 33,295 Republicans and 28,251 Democrats registered. In former days the Republican majority in Orange county was approximately two and a half to one.

In a report made in June by Backs, a total of 59,209 voters were registered, of which 33,762 were Republican and 23,174 Democrat.

Registration figures now show a gain of 13,510 over the total registered at the time of the November, 1930, election, when 50,304 were registered. The swing to the Bourbon ranks is shown in the comparative party figures at that time when but 10,692 were registered Democrats and 37,154 were Republicans.

Party registrations in the report just compiled are as follows: Republican, 33,295; Democrat, 28,251; Socialist, 222; Prohibition, 472; decline to state, 1393; Liberty, 33; Progressive, 107; Commonwealth, 44, and Communist, 3.

The Otsego ran aground at Cape was under convoy of two coast guard vessels.

The Otsego, ran aground at Cape Madvinoff in Bristol Bay late yesterday. Its plates developed leaks. Refloated, coast guard vessels came alongside to accompany the 32-year-old steamer on the 300-mile journey.

The ship, a vessel of 2595 tons built in Hamburg, is used to carry workers and supplies to Alaska salmon canneries.

Samples of food served at the meal were being analyzed to determine the exact cause of the wholesale illness.

CHARGE GERMAN NAZIS BACK OF BLOODY REVOLT

VIENNA, Aug. 1.—(UP)—A Heimwehr patrolman shot a civilian dead in the third ward of Vienna tonight. It was the first such fatality in Vienna since last week's outbreak.

LONDON, Aug. 1.—(UP) — The Austrian cabinet has agreed "in principle" to the acceptance of Baron Franz Von Papen as German minister, the Exchange Telegraph Vienna correspondent reported today.

VIENNA, Aug. 1.—(UP)—Fascist Austria charged Nazi Germany today with direct complicity in the blody revolt that took the life of Chancellor Dollfuss.

The charge was made on the basis of coded documents found in the shirt and shoes of Franz Heel, a secret courier, arrested on his way from Munich, headquarters of the German Nazi party and Austrian Nazis' refuge in Germany.

Col. Walter Adams, minister of propaganda, in a radio speech, said the documents showed the German government was connected with the revolt.

One document, half deciphered by government code experts, said: "it follows Rintelen". There followed several undeciphered words and then: "Rintelen arrested. There will not be any more new samples of table service." Government experts believed "Table service" meant arms.

Anton Rintelen was Austrian minister to Italy, a trusted aide of Dollfuss. Evidence that he conspired with Nazis caused his arrest. He shot himself. Yesterday he was removed to a prison hospital and was retired along with other prominent officials on two thirds of the normal civil service pension.

In the shoes of the arrested courier, police found long instructions providing that if the Dollfuss government fell, the Nazis should give the password "Summer Festival." This, it was said in explanation, would mean an organized, uniformed march on government and communications buildings in each district, but with arms concealed under the uniform.

If the government opposed the Nazi coup, the instructions provided, the password should become automatically "prize shooting with Italian night," which

FILE NEW CHARGES AGAINST RADICALS

SACRAMENTO, Calif., Aug. 1.—(UP)—All of the 28 alleged Communists arrested in police raids July 20 today were accused of criminal syndicalism in additional charges filed by District Attorney Neil McAllister.

The new charges were filed, McAllister said, to forestall any possibility of the prisoners securing bail and leaving the city. Bail was placed at $3000 on each charge by Police Judge Byron Gaddis.

Warrants also were issued for the arrest of seven asserted teachers at the Communist school here who are still at large. The school was one of three places raided by the officers when two teachers were taken into custody.

JUDGE SEWELL IN COLLAPSE TODAY

LOS ANGELES, Aug. 1.—(UP)—Superior Judge Harry F. Sewell collapsed en route to court today, forcing another postponement in the insanity hearing of Louis R. Payne, convicted young axe killer, until this afternoon.

Sewell, under fire from Presiding Judge Frank C. Collier, who accuses him of being intoxicated in a court appearance last May, failed to appear at the opening of court this morning, and an hour and a half later his nurse notified Superior Judge Fletcher Bowron that he had been seriously ill all night. Judge Bowron announced postponement until this afternoon.

ARREST LABOR LEADERS WHEN RAIDS STAGED

Minneapolis Strikers Left Disorganized as Guard Units Stage Coup

MINNEAPOLIS, Aug. 1. — (UP) —"Dictator" Adjutant General Ellard A. Walsh struck with a mailed fist today to suppress the revolt of 6000 striking truck drivers against martial law.

In a series of swift and dramatic raids on labor headquarters and arrests of leaders of the 16-day-old strike, General Walsh left the milling mobs of strikers leaderless and dispirited.

Militiamen armed with rifles and backed with machine guns "cleaned out" strike headquarters, termed by employers, "a nest of communists." William S. Brown, president of the union, and three other leaders were arrested.

Another detachment of guardsmen raided the Central Labor Union headquarters. While citizens scurried to cover, they surrounded the building. Led by an officer with a riot gun, guardsmen entered the building and quickly cleared it. A hundred strikers and strike sympathizers stood outside the building, held by a line of militia and shouted derisively at the troopers.

The action of the militia in striking before the strikers could carry out their announced intentions of resuming forceful picketing, was believed to have averted further bloodshed. Five men have died and 300 have been wounded in previous rioting.

HITLER AT CAPITAL

BERLIN, Aug. 1.—(UP)—Private sources said tonight that President von Hindenburg's death agony had started.

Doctors refused to predict the time of his death, saying he might die tonight or linger a day or two.

The doctor was quoted as saying the length of life depends entirely on the strength of Hindenburg's heart.

(Copyright, 1934, by United Press)

BERLIN, Aug. 1.—(UP)—A proposal to make Adolf Hitler sole ruler of the Reich without a president over him will be considered by the cabinet, reliable quarters said tonight.

Information was that the cabinet is scheduled to meet as soon as possible, perhaps tonight and probably in the strictest secrecy, to adopt measures to be taken on the death of President Paul von Hindenburg.

It was generally expected the cabinet would decree a general referendum to sanction a proposd change in the consittution which would abolish the post of president and combine the president's duties with those of the chancellor in a "Reich Feuhrer" (leader of the Reich) or some similar title.

The referendum also was expected to ask confirmation of Hitler in the new post.

Although at present it is not certain that the particular procedure outlined would be followed, it was felt certain that something similar would be adopted.

Hitler would temporarily fill the office of president until the referendum, which would be accomplished simply by a cabinet law under an enabling act setting aside the Van Schleicher constitutional amendment providing that the supreme court chief justice shall take over the duties of the president on the death of the latter.

Ernest Umphenour, 14-year-old Garden Grove youth who was the hero of a fire at his home in Santa Ana Gardens and received a medal for his feat in 1930, was fatally injured last night in Garden Grove while riding his bicycle when struck by a car driven by Barclay Ralston, 14, son of the Rev. Grove Ralston of Garden Grove.

The injured youth died two hours after the wreck in St. Joseph's hospital. The accident occurred at Stanford and North Huntington streets in Garden Grove at 6:05 p. m. The injured boy was thrown to the pavement and suffered a severe skull fracture and other injuries. His death brought the total of traffic fatalities in the county this year to 34, nine more than at this time last year.

The Ralston youth did not have a driver's license, because of his age, according to officers. He is in the custody of his father, who is secretary of the Orange County Law Enforcement League.

The accident victim is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Claude Umphenour of Garden Grove and is also survived by seven sisters and five brothers. These are Mrs. Alice Jiles of Santa Ana, Ruth Umphenour of Santa Ana, and Inez, Besie, Beth, Juanita, Martha and Mable; and LeRoy, Clarence, Lawrence and Leonard Umphenour, all of Garden Grove, and Arthur L. Umphenour of Santa Ana.

Coroner Earl Abbey has scheduled an inquest for 3:30 p. m. tomorrow from the Harrell and Brown funeral home, where funeral arrangements will be announced later.

The fire in which young Umphenour displayed so much bravery occurred on January 22, 1930, at his home off Edinger road southwest of Santa Ana. The house caught fire when a coal oil lamp exploded. Ernest and his five smaller brothers and sisters were alone at the time of the fire and he saved them all by carrying them from the blazing building. He was then but nine years of age and had been left to watch over the younger children while his older brothers and sisters and parents were attending church in Santa Ana.

Attempts were immediately started to secure recognition for the youth, and he was awarded a medal from the Ralston Purina Hero commission in March, 1931, nearly 14 months after the fire. The medal was presented by the Rev. Elder W. Jiles, pastor of a revival meeting being held at that time in Garden Grove.

HERO DIES

No one was hurt at 11:30 a. m. today in a three-car wreck at First and Main streets. A car driven by F. C. Anderson, 313 North Ross street, is reported to have hit a machine driven by Miss Lillian Whiting, 443 Ashton drive, Laguna Beach, which in turn was thrust into a parked machine owned by Barney Reidenour, 1051 West Second street.

W. K. Maxwell, 719 North Spadra, Fullerton, and A. E. Davis, 790 Carhart road, Fullerton, were slightly injured Monday evening, when the car in which they were riding in La Habra Heights, plunged over an embankment near the Hacienda Country club.

A child was shot and injured seriously last night. Trucks were dynamited. Frequent crashing of glass was heard through the night as strikers hurled stones.

Strikers fired into the home of Grady Hart, a worker who refused to join the walkout, and wounded his son.

Police Chief W. P. Brown informed the United Press he was powerless.

Longshoremen Happy at Work

SAN FRANCISCO, Aug. 1—(UP)—From Canada to Mexico, winches and hoisting tackle clattered and creaked today as 20,000 Pacific Coast maritime workers, shouting "It's good to be back" sought to move unprecedented freight tonnage piled up during their 83-day strike.

Men plunged happily into the task of loading and unloading more vessels than west coast ports had seen at one time since world war days.

In San Francisco harbor were 77 ships, most of them ocean carriers. In Seattle 37 others jammed the roadstead. As six vessels cleared from Portland, others rushed into the piers. Los Angeles, Tacoma, San Diego and all other ports experienced record-breaking waterfront activities.

The new shipping boom started yesterday when the 20,000 seaboard workers — longshoremen, licensed officers and sailors—went back to jobs they had abandoned May 9 in strikes demanding union recognition, control of hiring halls and wage adjustments.

A federal arbitration board went to work immediately seeking to adjust the issues which caused the strike.

Extension of Strike Threatened

CHICAGO, Aug. 1.—(UP)—Extension of a Chicago stockyards strike to the ring of giant packing houses that encircles the yards was threatened today by union leaders.

While federal mediators awaited arrival of Gen. Hugh Johnson, hoping he would try his powerful hand at settlement of a walkout of 800 stock handlers which has halted activity of the world's largest livestock market, 400 meat cutters walked out last night.

William Collins, international organizer for the union, said that more of the 8000 union cutters and butchers in the packing house district would strike today.

All but three or four of the largest plants would be closed by such a walkout. Even they, because of the difficulty of obtaining animals, might close.

The handlers walked out a week ago, leaving 80,000 head of stock without food or water on one of the hottest days of the summer. Thousands died before they could be moved or slaughtered.

The men charged in their strike call the Union Stockyards company failed to abide by an agreement reached at the end of a similar strike last winter.

NOTORIOUS DESPERADO IS TAKEN TODAY

Clark and Brady were leaders with Wilbur Underhill, who was slain last fall at Shawnee, in the Memorial day break at the Kansas prison in 1933.

On October 6, Clark and Brady were captured and wounded in Tucumcari, N. M., and returned to the Kansas prison. They were in the prison only until January 19 of this year, when they engineered another break.

Clark was serving a life term in the Kansas prison on conviction of bank robbery under the habitual criminal statutes.

The desperado was captured in front of an apartment house in which he had lived for three weeks. So quickly did officers close in on him that he had no chance to resist.

Money sacks found in the car at the apartment were believed to have been taken when the Ottawa, Kan., bank was robbed recently.

Heel, it was said, received the documents at Passau, on the German-Austrian frontier, with instructions to take them to Linz and leave them at the general postoffice with an agent.

The instructions listed nine points in all, the last of which said that if any Nazis were sentenced to death, all Nazis were instructed to make a quick rescue.

It was announced that Pope Pius, complying with a request of Dollfuss' widow, approved a plan to dister his body later and rebury it along with that of former Chancellor Ignatz Seipel in the Seipel Memorial chapel now under construction.

Storm Troopers Back in Uniform

BERLIN, Aug. 1.—(UP)—The familiar brown shirt uniforms of the Nazi storm troopers reappeared throughout the country today at the end of their enforced month's vacation, announced just before the Roehm revolt of June 30 and ending as President Paul von Hindenburg was believed dying—leaving his post, according to reliable information, to Adolf Hitler.

The impossibility of completing the planned reorganization of the "SA" or ordinary storm troop organization; the troubled international situation and Hindenburg's illness combined to bring the storm troops back in full number, estimated anywhere up to 2,500,000.

HINDENBURG NEAR DEATH THIS EVENING

Hapsburg restoration in Austria excited continental capitals.

There was talk here of a French march into the Rhineland as a precautionary measure in the event a Hohenzollern was called to lead Germany either as king or president.

Little entente nations—Czechoslovakia, Roumania and Jugoslovakia—have threatened to march into Austria if a Hapsburg was put back on the throne or named regent.

Reports that seemed unquestionably true said there was no chance of a call for a Hohenzollern to replace Hindenburg.

The new factor, which brought fears in European chancelleries back to where they were in the early days of the Nazi revolt in Austria, was Hindenburg's illness.

France particularly watched Hindenburg's Neudeck sick room with anxiety. French government chiefs refused to say what action they would take if the Hohenzollern problem rose.

Many observors thought France, and perhaps Belgian and troops of another nation, apparently meaning Britain would make a rapid march into the Rhineland as a precaution-ary measure.

There were many developments that showed Europe's frame of mind.

French military experts held this summer's air manoeuvers in France, Italy, Japan, Great Britain and the United States showed that a large airplane fleet by sudden attack could deliver a shattering and, perhaps decisive, blow at an enemy nation.

The Paris prefecture of police, it was announced, was speeding up air defense machinery. A study was begun of means of evacuating all possible Parisians to the country in event of attack.

Held for Trial On Theft Charge

James Jerome, charged with grand theft in connection with the alleged swindling of J. A. Murdy jr., of Talbert, was held to answer in the Santa Ana justice court today by Judge Kenneth Morrison.

Jerome was arrested after he had taken a check from Murdy to assertedly secure the return of an investment in a defunct Hollywood beverage concern. He was arrested in Long Beach after perpetrating a similar fraudulent transaction.

Deputy District Attorney J. E. Walker appeared against Jerome today while Chris Wilson was defense attorney. Bail was maintained at $1500 which Jerome has failed to post.

Clouds Of Smoke Cover County As H. B. Grass Burns

Clouds of smoke which filled the air in Santa Ana and other parts of the county around 2 o'clock this afternoon were the result of the burning of salt grass in the flats between Huntington Beach and Newport Beach, about a half-mile east of Huntington Beach, it was learned from the Huntington Beach fire deparment.

There was no occasion for concern over the fire, the fire department said. A Standard Oil company rig near the scene had its crew of men on watch to see that the rig was not menaced. Numerous calls were received by The Register regarding the source of the smoke.

WARM WEATHER IS AID TO D. CUPID

Warm, balmy summer weather brought romance into the hearts of more couples during the past month than it did at the same time last year, with the result that more marriage certificates were issued by County Clerk Joe Backs during July than in the same month last year.

A total of 372 marriage licenses was issued the past month, while in July, 1933, 353 were issued. So far this year 2389 licenses to wed have been issued, and every month but April this year is ahead of last year.

POPE LEAVES VATICAN

SWANSON URGES REDUCTION OF NAVIES 20 PCT.

tion to this extent by all nations signatory to the London treaty.

He repeated he believed in a United States navy "second to none."

Elaborating on his disarmament "convictions", Swanson said he would suggest that if the 20 per cent reduction were agreed to, "that we abandon ships over-age and refrain from building new ones." At present the American navy has one battleship over age. In 1936, it was said there would be three such battleships.

Commenting on the recent Baldwin declaration that Great Britain's frontiers now extend to the Rhine, Swanson said that "our frontiers extend to all our territory. We have no aggressive policy, but we're determined to defend ourselves."

Former President Herbert Hoover at one time advocated a 33 1-3 per cent general reduction in naval armaments.

Questioned extensively, Swanson indicated that his proposed 20 per cent reduction might be offered at the 1935 conference as a "feeler", adding that if the nations appeared willing to go further, he might sponsor a reduction of even 25 or 30 per cent.

SALES TAX IS APPROVED BY C. OF C. BOARD

Members of the Santa Ana Chamber of Commerce board of directors, at a semi-monthly meeting held this morning in the chamber offices in the courthouse annex, went on record as being in favor of the sales tax, with the stipulation in the motion adopted that the sales tax be simplified in operation and any inequalities adjusted.

The motion was made following considerable discussion during which time directors said they were informed that there will be considerable opposition against the sales tax, and that these efforts should be met with expressions of approval.

A letter from the B. R. Hunt manufacturing company, an eastern concern, was read in which company officials expressed a desire to locate a small plant in Santa Ana provided financing aid could be secured here.

The company, manufacturers of leather specialty goods, needs 4000 feet of floor space, and wishes to be advanced $1500 for freight and moving expense, which they offered to pay back at $50 a month and giving the factory equipment, which would not be valued at more than the loan, as security. It was estimated that the goods made would be valued at about $100,000 annually, including jobbing expenses, and that the payroll would run from $5000 to $15,000 a year. The directors decided to write the firm a letter to obtain further information.

Directors expressed an objection to weather reports in Los Angeles newspapers reading higher temperatures than those which actually prevail here, and discussed means of correcting the information published.

Word Received Of Death of Former Santa Ana Man

Word of the death of Hirem E. Epperly, who died from a heart attack while hunting Sunday south of Duarte, was received here today.

He was the father of Fred E. Epperly of Anaheim and of H. L. Epperly, of 1025 West Myrtle street, Santa Ana. The dead man was found after he failed to return home Sunday night. It was recalled that his grandson, Ervin Epperly, was killed in a wreck north of Fullerton three months ago.

Mr. Epperly had lived in Santa Ana and Anaheim for a short time before making his home at Monrovia, where he was an engineer for the Southern Counties Gas company. He was retired on March 1.

LA HABRA MEN DIE AS TRAIN STRIKES TRUCK

Two former La Habra residents, George W. Beer, 73, and H. G. Corbett, 55, met instant death at the Rosedale crossing near Bakersfield yesterday afternoon when their truck was struck by a fast northbound Santa Fe train.

Corbett, driver of the truck, apparently attempted desperately to halt the vehicle after sighting the locomotive, highway patrolmen said. Wheels on the truck dragged for 15 feet as the brakes were applied, they said.

The two men were employed by the Dean Core Drilling company at Bakersfield and went there in May to take up that work.

Corbett had been making his home recently in the Weed Patch district, near Bakersfield, with his wife and family and although funeral arrangements had not been completed, relatives here expect interment to be made there.

The body of Beer will be brought to the Southland for burial at Loma Vista cemetery, where his wife, the late Mrs. Barbara Beer, is buried.

Relatives of Mr. Beer who live at La Habra, are Gurnard Beer, a nephew, of La Habra Heights; Mrs. Sarah Elder, a sister-in-law; Grant Sherman and Herbert Sherman, brothers-in-law, La Habra. He is also survived by one son, Pearl Beer, of Fruitvale, with whom he made his home.

MRS. ETTA SMALLEY DIES AT HER HOME

Mrs. Etta Pearl Smalley, 48, resident of Santa Ana for the past 15 years, died at her home, 411 Richland street, yesterday following an illness of about two years' duration. She had been employed at Rankin's Dry Goods store for about 10 years.

She is survived by her mother, Mrs. Minerva J. Switzler; two brothers, Harry E. Switzler, of Santa Ana, and Bruce E. Switzler, former manager of Rankin's, now of Fresno.

Funeral services will be held at 2 p. m. tomorrow at the Harrell and Brown Funeral home, 116 West Seventeenth street, with the Rev. W. S. Buchanan, minister of the First Christian church, officiating.

Interment will be made in Westminster Memorial Park.

WALTER V. DRAKE CALLED BY DEATH

Walter V. Drake, 76, a rancher in Santa Ana for 12 years, passed away at his home in Santa Ana Gardens yesterday.

The elderly man had been ill for some time before his death. He was the husband of Lydia M. Drake of Santa Ana and step-father of Dr. A. O. Holmes of Oakland.

Funeral services will be held Friday at 2 p. m. from the Smith and Tuthill funeral chapel.

BAN ON CHIP GAMES ISSUED IN LOS ANGELES

Following the example of Sheriff Logan Jackson, of Orange county, in driving gambling games out of Seal Beach and Balboa, Los Angeles authorities yesterday took similar action against chip and circle games at Venice and San Pedro resorts, by wholesale revoking of licenses.

The Los Angeles police commission voted unanimously to revoke 17 permits in Venice and one at San Pedro, under which chip and circle games were conducted under the guise of games of skill.

The police commission termed them out-and-out gambling devices and a menace to public welfare, thus upholding the same view taken by Sheriff Jackson in running them out of Orange county.

Nearly two days were occupied by the police commission in hearing the charges against the Los Angeles beach resorts, the evidence convincing the commission that the games were purely gambling devices.

Assistant City Attorney Kendall, of Los Angeles, declared to the commission that "the playing has all the attributes of gambling." The commission rejected the argument of defense counsel that the livilhood of 400 persons depended upon the games, and that the taxpayer's interests were affected.

Sheriff Jackson today expressed satisfaction at the action of the Los Angeles authorities.

"I am pleased, not only because of this evidence that our actions against the gamblers here were well considered, but also because it will be a fine thing for Los Angeles beaches to be rid of this type of parasite," he said.

"Orange county may be sure," he added, "that so long as I am sheriff, and my hands are not tied by the courts, the gamblers will never get a foothold in the county again."

INAUGURATE NEW TOMATO PRORATE MOVEMENT HERE

A new movement to effect a prorate for tomato crop of the current season was launched today when representatives of the Orange County Farm Bureau and of the Farm Advisor's office began circulation of petitions among county growers as part of a statewide movement started here to increase prices for tomatoes for the present crop.

A voluntary prorate agreement entered into among growers of Orange county recently collapsed, with resultant decrease in tonnage prices for tomatoes, when it was found that tomatoes grown in other parts of the state came into competition with the local tomatoes, according to R. D. Flaherty, executive-secretary of the Farm Bureau.

H. D. Zimmer, of Anaheim, has been named chairman of a statewide committee to attempt to get the prorate plan into operation. Other members of the committee are E. W. Soper, of Chino, and K. Mukaeda, Los Angeles, president of the Southern California Japanese association.

There are some things we refuse to do to sell a car

There are some things we refuse to do to sell a car. We like sales, but fair-dealing and the confidence of our customers are desirable too.

For one thing, we refuse to poison any one's mind against another make of car. We know what our car is and what it will do, and we are ready to tell you about that. But to imply defects in another car is not our business.

We have done our utmost to encourage intelligent buying of motor cars by showing purchasers how to protect their own interests. All that a good producer asks is a customer who knows quality when he sees it. An intelligent purchaser will speedily conclude that only a bad product requires bad sales methods.

We refuse to keep dinning in your ears that the Ford V-8 is the best, most economical, lowest priced car. That is claimed for several cars. Obviously it cannot be true of all. There comes a point where claims and adjectives and all advertising hysteria disappears in its own fog. Personally, I prefer facts.

We say the Ford V-8 is the best car we have ever made.

We say that our 8-cylinder car is as economical to operate as any lower number of cylinders.

We say that we have always been known as the makers of good cars and that the many good, well-balanced qualities of our present car place it at the head of our line to date.

Any one wishing to do business with us on these principles will find our word and the quality of our product to be A-1. What we say about economy, operation and durability will stand good anywhere.

ATTORNEY M'FADDEN SENDS LONG LETTER TO PUBLISHER; FAILS TO DENY ASSERTIONS

A denial which signally failed to deny, was made today by Thomas L. McFadden, Anaheim attorney who is city attorney at Placentia, in a communication addressed to the publisher of The Register, regarding disclosure of political motives behind a recent Placentia trial.

Objecting to The Register's showing that the trial was made the occasion for Mr. McFadden, as a defender of gamblers and bootleggers, to stage a political show on behalf of his staunch ally, the district attorney, the communication yet substantially admitted the truth of The Register's statement of his position. This statement had been submitted by The Register as proof of his motives and the political nature of the Placentia incident, in which District Attorney "Soppy" Kaufman made an attack upon The Register.

Mr. McFadden's communication submitted his attempted denial as a thin disguise for the personal attacks upon The Register's publisher, which made up a large portion of his statement. The communication, in full, follows:

Hon. J. Frank Burke
Editor of Santa Ana Register
Santa Ana, California
Dear Sir:—

On page 5 of your issue of July 27th under the caption "To the Voters of Orange County," much space and abuse was devoted to me. I am not flattering myself that I am worthy of the space, time and effort therein expended, for I realize that you are merely attempting to use me as a vehicle to injure Mr. Kaufman in his campaign for district attorney, and it would seem that any means would, in your opinion, justify the end.

I cannot but believe that you consider yourself fair, that you believe that you would not stoop to unfair advantage, and that you think that you are sincere in statements made and methods used. Relying on your estimate of yourself, I am asking you to publish this letter, and give to it the same prominence given to the article in question. Further relying upon your sense of fairness and justice, I believe that you will be only anxious and willing to correct misstatements, which, in some instances, if not deliberately and maliciously made, were made through gross carelessness, and without due regard to the sources of information that are at your disposal, and which cannot be excused by the license that any newspaper has to color facts and information to suit the occasion.

Let me say that I am a daily reader of The Register, that I have been a subscriber for a period long antedating your connection with the paper, and even now permit the paper to be delivered to my home in Placentia, where I was born, raised and now live.

I have been impressed with the great amount of space given to moral questions in the news columns and in the editorials. My acquaintance with you has been entirely through your publication, and I doubt if you would know me if you met me on the street. I do not recall that you have ever been introduced to me or spoken to me. In this I may be in error. It is barely possible that having formed the estimate that you have you would not appreciate an introduction or an interview.

Be that as it may I cannot but assume from the tone of your editorials and news columns that you are the living epitome of moral rectitude. In this assumption, which would be rather violent in far too many instances, I hope I am correct.

Fortified with this assumption I have no hesitancy in approaching the subject matter of your article to which I have already referred.

I, as the City Attorney of Placentia, am accused of making a "Roman Holiday" out of a simple misdemeanor. A most perfunctory investigation of the true facts by an intelligent investigator would, in your desire to be fair, have precluded you from making that statement.

Mr. McLauchlan was arrested in the city of Placentia for distributing papers, handbills, etc., without a permit. I did not order his arrest; I did not draw the complaint as the basis for issuing the warrant; I was not present at the arraignment or the fixing of the bail. This all happened on a Monday. I knew nothing of the matter until Monday night at approximately 8 p. m. when, as city attorney, I attended a regular meeting of the city council. At this time I was informed that McLauchlan had been arrested, taken before Judge Harmony, and was represented by counsel in the person of William Maxwell Burke, your brother, and, I am informed, vice president of The Register Publishing company, at which time Mr. Burke asked Judge Harmony to release the man on his own recognizance, saying that he knew the man and had known him for approximately two years, that he had learned to love and admire him, that he was a man of integrity, and had been a great help to The Register. Bear in mind that I was not present and at that time knew nothing about the case. Judge Harmony fixed the bond at $50, and in lieu of bail he was committed to jail. His attorney immediately went to Santa Ana, procured the signatures of two employes of The Register, one of them your son-in-law, on the bail bond, which bond was approved by Judge Morrison, and the defendant ordered released. This all took place Monday afternoon without my knowledge. If this was preparation for a Roman holiday, who made these preparations with so much care and precision?

It then developed that McLauchlan was a Communist by his own admission that the paper he was selling and distributing was the Western Worker, a Communist paper.

For some reason best known to himself, Mr. Maxwell Burke withdrew from the cast. Not having been paid for his services he had a perfect right so to do, and no one has the right to question his motives or the propriety of his action. Mr. McLauchlan was left without counsel, but out on bail with a perfectly satisfactory bail bond. The case was set for trial Tuesday, July 24, in the hall over the bank at Placentia, the only place in the business district of Placentia suitable for a jury trial.

Prior to the trial a Communist organization circularized the community with handbills calling on all workers and friends of the Communist movement to be at the trial.

The case was called. The hall was filled with people, perhaps a hundred or more, Mr. McLauchlan acting as his own attorney. The jury was called and Mr. McLauchlan conducted his own examination. His first statement to the jury was "I am a Communist" and then proceeded to ascertain what affect that fact would have on the minds of the jury. The jury was impaneled in a short time; the defendant, if I remember correctly, excused but two. Just preceding the commencement of the trial I did prepare and file an amended complaint substantially the same as the original one on file.

If this was a "Roman Holiday" wherein, Mr. Burke, do I appear as yet as the stage manager?

Mr. McLauchlan moved to quash the proceeding on the ground that the ordinance was unconstitutional in that it violated the constitution of the United States, and to his credit handled the matter rather intelligently. He, however, gave the court, jury and spectators a 15-minute dessertation on Communism and the great good it would bring to the world.

The trial proceeded. The city's evidence consumed not to exceed five minutes. The defendant took the stand in his own behalf and freely answered all questions put to him. He again declared himself a Communist and admitted he had been one for several years, and said "I am proud of it." He admitted he had been in contact with Communist sources who had agreed to furnish him contacts on the Irvine ranch. He said that he and his family were on the county at the time he, as a delegate, attended the Communist convention in San Francisco; that he was born in Canada and had been in Orange county only a few years.

The court adjourned at 11:30 until 1:30 to permit the Placentia Chamber of Commerce to use the hall for the regular weekly luncheon. The luncheon was held. Mr. Kaufman was a visitor as has been every other candidate. He had not been at the trial of McLauchlan but did speak very briefly to this luncheon gathering. He did not mention the trial, nor The Register, nor you, Mr. Burke. I was called upon to introduce him which I did in a few brief words to which you seem to take exception. This all took place at the Chamber of Commerce meeting and not at the trial as your article would seem to intentionally convey.

The trial was resumed at 1:30 p. m. In a very brief opening statement to the jury I asked the jury to disregard the fact that this man was a Communist, and very definiely told them not to convict him if in their opinion the evidence was insufficient to convict a man not a Communist and not distributing Communistic literature.

Mr. McLauchlan spoke for fully 30 minutes, addressed his remarks to the spectators, and urged upon them for the full period of time the wonders to be accomplished by Communistic domination.

In my closing remarks I did answer Mr. McLauchlan as best I could, even though the controversy developed subject matter outside the issues.

Mr. McLauchlan was convicted and in due course the court fixed the fine at $35 or 17½ days in jail. The fine has been paid, he is out of jail. Who paid the fine I do not know. Those who read have the right to guess.

This is the "Roman Holiday" you charge that I staged for Mr. Kaufman. If a "Roman Holiday" it was, in fairness, Mr. Burke, give credit where credit is due. Give credit to Mr. Maxwell Burke, your brother, who vouched for Mr. McLauchlan in such glowing language. Give credit to the bondsmen, your employes, one of them your son-in-law. Give credit to Mr. McLauchlan, long-time friend and client of Mr. Maxwell Burke, who alone injected Communism into the trial.

I have known Mr. McLauchlan about the same length of time as has Mr. Maxwell Burke, but I knew him as a Communist from the first meeting. I know Mr. Maxwell Burke to be a lawyer of ability and shrewdness, and I cannot believe that in Mr. McLauchlan he did not know he had a dyed-in-the-wool red Communist as a client. If he failed to reveal this fact to your employes who signed the bond, do not blame Mr. Kaufman, do not blame me. Had he sought my advice I would have advised differently.

To those who know something of your financial connections in the county and the rumored financial interest of the Hon. Jas. Irvine in your paper, it is rather difficult to understand how you, in your defense of Mr. McLauchlan and so much of what he advocates, could be so disloyal to your backers. Mr. McLauchlan admittedly is endeavoring to gain contacts on the Irvine ranch in an effort to disrupt his organization in true Communistic fashion, yet he is being defended, in court and in your paper, by your officers and yourself. This, however is a matter for Mr. Irvine and perhaps is beside the issues.

I make this statement concerning your so-called "Roman Holiday" in fairness to Mr. Kaufman who knew even less about it than did the signers of the bond that released your pet gladiator.

Let us proceed, Mr. Burke. You say I have been repeatedly attorney for bootleggers. If my memory serves me correctly, I have represented three persons charged with the sale of liquor, and while they were acquitted, Mr. Kaufman had nothing to do with it as it all occurred before he was district attorney and before he was even connected with the office. I have represented other liquor violators by giving them the comfort of an attorney while they entered pleas of guilty, in none of which cases has Mr. Kaufman appeared or had any knowledge so far as I know.

In this respect let us be fair. These men are entitled to an attorney, the law gives them that right just as fully as though they were charged with manslaughter.

I would be pleased to have you publish the list of my clients who have been liquor violators if you will publish at the same time and with the same prominence, those represented by your brother, Maxwell Burke, who, I am advised, is the vice president of The Register Publishing company.

Permit me to further comment upon the fact that it matters not who may be successful in the race for district attorney, I will not be the chief deputy or a deputy of any kind in the office, and should Mr. McKinney be successful I am sure I will receive every courtesy, every favor that Mr. Kaufman and his office has extended me. As a fair district attorney he could not do less. I have asked no special consideration in the past; I hope I will never ask for any in the future.

Again, you charge me with having been attorney for the gambling interests, and also attorney for the gambling devices. I take itt hese two charges are the same and have been segregated by you merely to bolster up your case against Mr. Kaufman.

My office at one time did seek to test the validity of the vending machines operating in Orange county. A temporary restraining order was obtained, but with this the district attorney had nothing to do. His consent to file the petition was not asked, his approval was not sought. It was granted ex parte by a superior judge of Orange county. Mr. Kaufman, however, did promptly move to dissolve the restraining order and his motion was granted. What more could you have a district attorney do, Mr. Burke? If Mr. Kaufman is, as you charge, friendly to the gambling interests, this prompt attack was a bit of ingratitude, and mind you there was no campaign on at that time.

No injunction was obtained that interfered with any officer of Orange county other than the restraining order above noted which at most would interfere for but a few days. For three years and six months they have been operating and no restraining order interfered with the sheriff or other police officer. Perhaps they were forgotten until this primary election reminded them that activity against these vending machines might make votes.

Had you read the record of these cases above referred to, which record is public and readily accessible, I am sure you would not have made the statements, which, if made by another under the same circumstances, would be classed as deliberate falsehoods.

Again, Mr. Burke, you cast aspersions upon the district attorney because I represented a man charged with undue familiarity with some little girls. He was charged in four counts, at the trial he was acquitted on two counts, convicted on one, and the jury disagreed on the other. Again I say this man was entitled to counsel just as much as though he had been charged with manslaughter.

This defendant, a gassed World war veteran, with an unbalanced mind, took liberties of a minor character with these little girls. The district attorney's office prosecuted this case almost with bitterness, would not give an inch or concede a point, determined that this man should go to the penitentiary. That he did not go was not the fault of the district attorney. Probation was opposed to the last, but the superior court felt that under all the circumstances, probation was proper, and committed him to the county jail, where he now is. Not satisfied, the district attorney's office filed four more counts against this man, and tried him again, in an attempt to send him to the penitentiary, but I, however, withdrew from the case, and he was represented by other counsel.

Judge Henderson, of Ventura, who tried this case, and granted probation, stated, at the conclusion of the trial, that this case had been handled in a most efficient manner by the district attorney's office, and commented upon the vigor and ability of the prosecution.

The intensity with which this case was prosecuted, according to your ideas of political favoritism, should be another reason why I should oppose, instead of favor, Mr. Kaufman.

Again, Mr. Burke, you say that this is not an isolated case. In your article, you refer to a man who molested a little girl at Westminster, and state that his defender was this same man McFadden. In this you are so grossly in error that I cannot but class this statement in the category of deliberate and malicious falsehoods.

This man was arrested without a warrant while committing no offense of any kind, thrown in jail, and held there on a suspicion of vagrancy. Subsequently, such a charge was placed against him, which was promptly dismissed. He was a working man, out of employment, looking for work, lives in this community, and always enjoyed a good reputation. Personally, I knew nothing about this case until he was discharged from jail. Suit was brought against the sheriff in behalf of this man, for false arrest and imprisonment, judgment for $500 was obtained, and by the sheriff paid. Wherein does Mr. Kaufman figure in this episode? Do you believe it fair, Mr. Burke, to attempt to stretch this mantel of abuse heaped upon me, over Mr. Kaufman? Those are the facts, and, relying on your reputation, honesty, integrity and Christian rectitude, I feel that you will make due apology at least to Mr. Kaufman.

In your reference to an indecent show in Anaheim, you have reached the acme of political mudslinging. You mention the fact that I am an attorney in Anaheim, that the show was in Anaheim, trying to convey the idea that I had something to do with the show, arranged protection for it, otherwise aided and abetted the enterprise. For your information, let me say I knew nothing about it until I read it in The Register, and only learned afterwards that the account therein given was inaccurate, and unduly emphasized an incident that might happen any time, any place. You rejoice in the fact that you were "tipped off," but, so far as I know, you concealed this fact from the police in order to get the story.

Space, I am sure, will not permit me to answer in further detail your aspersions, innuendos and abuse directed at me. My clients, among whom I number some of the outstanding people of the county, will resent the charge you make that they are gamblers, bootleggers and underworld characters. Less than one-half of one per cent of my law business has had to do with the criminal side of the law. I do not represent any gambling interest or liquor interest, and such representation as you charge me with has been but sporadic cases that fall to the lot of every lawyer doing a general practice in a county such as this.

While your venomous attack on me, I am sure, had for its primary purpose injury to Mr. Kaufman, you must realize that to the extent of your influence, you have done me untold injury. It should perhaps not give me too much concern. I believe that I have the confidence and respect of those who know me, some of them for 40 years or more, in this county, a record that will not suffer in comparison with your own, even though you are still a tenderfoot in our midst. I do know that in your short career as a newspaper man in this county, you have antagonized every other newspaper in the county, both daily and weekly. It cannot be that they are all wrong, that they cater only to the so-called underworld, that their subscribers comprise the disreputable element of the community as you would have your followers believe. Something is wrong, Mr. Burke. Might it not possibly be with you?

I do know that before your arrival in our midst, Orange county was outstanding in the state of California in its reputation for decency and good government, and that if it still maintains that reputation, it is in spite of your vigorous efforts to picture the county government as being conducted by underworld characters, or by men and women with underworld connections. Because the voters of this county have not meekly submitted to your political dictatorship from the day of your arrival, you, through your paper, have attacked the best citizens of Orange county, men who have spent a lifetime in building up the wealth and prestige of this county. Your part in the political life of this county has been that of a political carpetbagger, and the time will come when you will move into some other peaceful community, and sow seeds of discontent and political animosity. I dare to say that you undoubtedly had such a record from whence you came. Your super ego will cause you to repeat wherever you may go.

Under the subhead, "McFadden's Message," you make statements which you do not say are quotations of mine, but you would leave that impression by enclosing the alleged statements in quotation marks. This may be a trick indulged in by newspaper men. It may be legitimate newspaper technique, but, measured by the standards of common honesty and decency, it falls far short of what one would expect from a man who is not only an experienced publisher and able writer, but an avowed follower of Christ as well.

I know you have influence in Orange county, most especially in Santa Ana. I know there are a large number who blindly follow your lead, but it would seem that this outburst against me is so plainly the trick of a political shyster that decent and intelligent people will not be fooled.

You make much of the fact that you are opposed to Communism, but let me call your attention to the fact that the strongest denunciation of Communism ever appearing in your paper appears along side of the article which calls forth this reply. You have, it is true, in prior issues, commented on Communism, but in many instances in such a lukewarm and apologetic manner that the impression was given that if you dared you would espouse the cause. Many people of Orange county are wondering whether or not you are a member of the American Civil Liberties Union. This question you might answer editorially.

I grant you, Mr. Burke, that few of the human family have attained perfection. I am not one of those who have. I doubt even that you have attained that envied goal. Might it not be well for all of us to sort of appraise ourselves, our innermost thoughts, our erstwhile conduct, take notice of our shortcomings, our delinquencies, so to speak, catalogue those things that might be of public interest, but not for public consumption? Perhaps then those of us who happen to publish a newspaper might be a little more considerate of the shortcomings of others.

Equipped as you are with an efficient newsgathering organization, I am sure that instances of moral delinquencies amounting to felonies committed by prominent people have come to your notice and attention. I have reason to believe such is the case. Have you at all times been as eager to report these instances to the police and other law enforcing agents as you have to blacken the character of one of no great importance because it suits your political program?

Whether your readers will still believe me the public enemy that you picture me, I do not know, but I can say that after all is said and done, so far I have never been prosecuted or charged with the crime of manslaughter.

In conclusion, permit me to again say that in my humble opinion, just common justice between man and man, unaccompanied by any degree of high ideals, would prompt you to retract that which you have so falsely written.

Yours very sincerely,
THOS. L. McFADDEN,
607 Bank of America Bldg.,
Anaheim, Cal.

Reply Made By J. F. Burke

Dear Mr. McFadden:

Your kindly and friendly letter was received in due order, and I am writing you in this manner, because it may be possible that things can be put more clearly, and you can understand them better than you can through the form of an editorial.

A great deal of your letter, Mr. McFadden, is the recital of the news items which every newspaper carried, including our own. But I am printing it nevertheless, although it is a repetition in some cases of three or four times of the same matter.

BUT, MR. McFADDEN, THE PARTICULAR THING I WANT TO THANK YOU FOR IS YOUR ACKNOWLEDGEMENT OF THE SUBSTANTIAL TRUTH OF EVERY STATEMENT IN MY EDITORIAL, AND IN THE OTHER MATTER THAT WAS PRINTED ON THE FIFTH PAGE, EXCEPT ONE.

That one was that you were not the attorney for the second man cited charged with molesting girls, but you acknowledge you were attorney for him in prosecuting the sheriff.

In this I was misinformed, but I believe, Mr. McFadden, even at that, you would not consider that serious, in the light of the rest, would you? In no other particular have you cited one untruth or one misstatement of fact in the whole page of matter.

IN CONSEQUENCE OF THAT, MR. McFADDEN, I AM REPRINTINGB THAT WHOLE PAGE, WRITTEN BEFORE YOUR STATEMENT, ONLY ELMINATING THAT WHERE THERE CAN BE A QUESTION FROM YOUR CRITICISM. THAT CERTAINLY IS FAIR TO YOU, MR. McFADDEN.

READ IT. IT IS PAGE FIVE. IF I HAD WRITTEN IT AFTER I RECEIVED YOUR LETTER, IT WOULD BE A COMPLETE REPLY.

READ IT AGAIN

Now read it over, Mr. McFadden, very carefully, and see now if every sentence isn't justified. You have added some material, which I should like to have added to that editorial, which I didn't know.

The real issue, Mr. McFadden, after all, between us is not when you became attorney for this party, but it is the question of commercialized law violations, and whether we want them continued.

You have been defending those engaged in it and want Mr. Kaufman elected. I have been fighting them and, to rid ourselves of it, know we must have a change.

After you have admitted all the facts but one, and I beg pardon for that misstatement, you ought to know that that near completeness in agreement on the facts in a controversy is something for which you should congratulate The Register.

You say that the slot machines are now running in Orange county. Frankly, Mr. McFadden, I didn't know it. As I recall, Mr. Foust is your client. He has been designated in this county as the "slot machine king." It was on his behalf that you tied up the sheriff, so as to prevent his grabbing the slot machines you refer to, until after your client had collected them, and after they were all collected, then the injunction was dissolved. And the district attorney didn't get it dissolved until then.

I am not questioning your loyalty, ability and zeal for your client, only possibly to suggest it is too great, maybe, at times, for the public good.

Now you say these slot machies are back running again. Yes, we can understand why you got the injunction. Do you think they will be running in this county if either Mr. McKinney or Mr. Guy is elected district attorney?

IS KAUFMAN IN EARNEST?

Do you know, Mr. McFadden, in spite of your protestation, I find it is difficult to believe in the light of this that the district attorney is very terribly in earnest about the law enforcement business.

Now really, Mr. McFadden, why are you anxious for Mr. Kaufman's election, because the gambling business is permitted to run, as you say it does, or because the district attorney is such a fighter for the enforcement of the law as you say he is?

You call me a "tenderfoot," I have been here seven years.

I am just as much in favor of law enforcement as when I first came. How long does it take to get over it?

YOU TELL ME WHAT A PERFECT SET OF COUNTY OFFICIALS YOU HAVE ALWAYS HAD IN ORANGE COUNTY. I HAVE READ THE REPORTS OF GRAND JURIES ON THE SHERIFFS AND HAVE NOTED CERTAIN SUICIDES AND HAVE NOTED THAT FOR 20 YEARS A HANDFUL OF POLITICIANS HAVE RUN THE POLITICS AND ABUSED ANYONE WHO CRITICIZED, AS THEY HAVE DONE ME. AND, FURTHER, I HAPPEN TO KNOW THAT THIS COUNTY WOULD BE SADDLED WITH $16,000,000 MORE DEBT IF THESE SAME OFFICIALS HAD HAD THEIR WAY.

Which is best, to watch quietly a pickpocket in a crowd stealing from a victim's pocket, or grab the thief and yell for the police? I suppose you would say: "Keep quiet or you will be a disturber!"

Which one of us is really working at the job of getting and keeping a decent reputation for Orange county?

Can Orange county be better off by permitting commercialized vice to run the county or by insisting that it be run out of the county?

You say that the attempt to fight gambling now is but a political trick, just before election. If that is so, it is not a trick of The Register, is it? We have been fighting it wherever we heard of it, haven't we?

Wasn't it three years ago, in a non-political year, when we exposed the terrible conditions when you defended the gambling in the county and got your restraining order on the sheriff?

Yes, Mr. McFadden, I know you are against the Communists. That is the great outdoor sport for all of us, isn't it? It doesn't cost anything, and there aren't very many of them, and they are a poor, deluded people.

THE REAL ISSUE

But, Mr. McFadden, this fight isn't over the question of that kind. I ask you, are you against any men who are breaking law for the purpose of making money out of it?

If so, where did you show such opposition and under what circumstances?

I HAVE NOT CHARGED YOU WITH ANY PERSONAL DELINQUENCY. YOUR PERSONAL LIFE MAY BE AS PURE AS THE DRIVEN SNOW. I AM ONLY SPEAKING OF YOU IN A REPRESENTATIVE CAPACITY, AS A LAWYER, AND AS YOU ARE ENDEAVORING TO INFLUENCE OTHERS IN GETTING A DISTRICT ATTORNEY OF YOUR LIKING ELECTED.

I note you try to create sympathy for yourself, because there was recited your attorneyship for law breaking interests, as we were noting your support for the district attorney.

These were facts to which attention was called, but you can point to no place or circumstance where either the publisher or the Register supported Communism, which you charged to the paper, as you introduced your friend, the district attorney, to the audience between the two sessions of the court.

You know very well what I referred to as "staging." It was not the trial, it was the manner in which you endeavored to give your friend, the district attorney, an opportunity to take advantage of the grandstand play you were making in trying to tie The Register to Communism.

I haven't attempted to suggest, Mr. McFadden, that you be fair. So I was not surprised at all, that you should attempt to tie to me and The Register, statements of an attorney for his client, statements for which I, in no respect, nor the paper were responsible, could not control and which the attorney since has declared he knows was a misstatement of fact.

I am not concerned seriously about that, because I feel the whole matter of commercialized law-breaking is altogether too important a question when defended, protected and continued, to spend the time over statements of an attorney for his client in another matter entirely.

You know it didn't have anything to do with the trial. You know very clearly just what you staged.

Mr. McFadden, why don't you organize the gamblers and bootleggers of the county into an anti-Red squad, or is that what you are trying to do. It will give them great gobs of patriotism, put the communities under a wagon-load of gratitude, cause the citizens to forget the stealing they are doing from honest men.

AND WHO KNOWS BUT THAT THROUGH PROPER MISREPRESENTATION AND CAMPAIGN ABUSE, YOU CAN MAKE SOME FRIGHTENED BOOBS BELIEVE THAT THOSE WHO ARE OPPOSING COMMERCIALIZED VICE ARE COMMUNISTS, YOU CAN DO AWAY WITH ALL OPPOSITION TO GAMBLERS AND OTHERS, AND YOU CAN REALLY PERFECT ORANGE COUNTY ALONG THE LINES YOU DESIRE. IT WILL THEN HAVE PERFECT PEACE, THAT OF CORRUPTION, CONTENTMENT AND DEATH. THAT'S A REAL PROGRAM.

KAUFMAN ATTACKED THE REGISTER

You say, in this letter, speaking of your friend Kaufman, he did not "mention The Register nor you." Let's see what he did say. We happen to have it in his exact language. What he said was this: "I have had requests made by a publisher in Orange county, and his son-in-law, Loyal K. King, and they have advised me they will defeat me for election."

Mr. McFadden, do you think that anybody but a lawyer would say that a man who made such a statement did not refer to me or to The Register.

I presume that he was referring to the Western Christian Advocate at the time, and everybody knew it.

And, incidentally, how was it that you knew and that Mr. Kaufman knew that The Register was opposed to him? Up to that time it had never said a word against him. Didn't you know it from the fact that The Register stands for one thing and you stand for another thing? And that you and Mr. Kaufman agree?

LET ME ADD, IN THAT CONNECTION, THAT I HAVE NEVER MENTIONED ANY OFFICIAL BY NAME, TO OPPOSE HIM, IN THE MIDST OF A POLITICAL CAMPAIGN, EXCEPT AS SUCH OFFICIAL HAS FIRST ATTACKED THE REGISTER.

You state that you have received word from people who know my financial condition that Mr. Irvine was interested in The Register, and that The Register is connected with Communism, and is protecting it, and the Communists are planning to do something to Mr. Irvine.

And you make these suggestions to indicate that something should be done about it by him.

Well, Mr. McFadden, if you are telling the truth about these things, I should think there would be. You know if I were in your place I would send that letter special delivery to Mr. Irvine. I would underscore that part. I would do it for two purposes. First, to show him the earnest solicitude of your heart for his welfare. Second, could there be any more certain way to eliminate the pernicious rascal against whom your animosity is directed than to have him see, if he is financially back of The Register, that he is working for his own undoing?

Then, if nothing happens, you will probably conclude either Mr. Irvine has been fooled and duped, or The Register has bought him off, and made him a part of its program.

No, your purposes, Mr. McFadden, are too thin. You protest too much.

You ask whether I am a member of the American Civil Liberties Union. The facts force me to say to you "No"; that I have not supported them, but at the same time I want to assure you that I realize that there are many fine leaders among them, such as Charles F. Amidon, retired judge of the U. S. District Court of North Dakota; Harry Elmer Barnes, journalist, former professor of sociology, Smith college; Edwin M. Borchard, professor of law, Yale University Law school; Richard C. Cabot, Professor of Social Ethics, Harvard university, and professor of medicine, Harvard Medical school; John Dewey, Professor of Philosophy, Columbia University, and John A. Ryan, head of the social department of the United Catholic Welfare conference, who I understand are all members.

HAS DONE FINE JOB

Mr. McFadden, you have done the best, as a lawyer, that could be done for your client. You have done the best to avoid the effect of the facts concerning the Concordia Club.

I didn't say you were the attorney for the city of Anaheim. As a matter of fact, far from it, it was your partner who was the attorney, and of course your partner and the police and Mr. Kaufman knew nothing about what was transpiring.

THE LAST PEOPLE WHO LEARN OF THESE THINGS ARE THE PEOPLE WHO ARE EMPLOYED TO PROSECUTE THEM. LET ME REMIND YOU, MR. McFADDEN, THAT COURTS HAVE DECLARED THAT YOU CANNOT ENJOIN PEACE OFFICERS FROM DOING THEIR DUTY UNDER A VALID LAW.

You say you got this injunction from a superior court judge of Orange county.

Granted, and wouldn't a district attorney who wanted to see law enforced advise a sheriff that such an order was invalid. A sheriff who did this with Newton D. Baker as his attorney was protected by the higher courts.

The injunction was not dissolved, was it, Mr. McFadden, until after your client had collected the paraphernalia which, by implication, you say he is now using again in the county? You certainly interposed no objection to dissolving the protection which the court afforded you, after you had saved the gambling paraphernalia, did you, Mr. McFadden?

You say that the man whom you defended from molesting little girls was shell-shocked, was not himself, was not responsible for his acts.

This is entirely possible, but certainly the people who wanted him incarcerated for the protection of society would be warranted in their endeavor, just as much if his acts were due to shell-shock as to any other reason, the only difference being in the one case it might be in prison and the other in an asylum.

BOTH ARE CONSISTENT

THERE IS ONE THING, MR. McFADDEN, IN WHICH BOTH OF US SHOULD TAKE CONSOLATION. YOU HAVE BEEN REPRESENTING THE GROUP THAT HAVE BEEN VIOLATING LAW FOR MONEY. AS A PUBLISHER, I HAVE BEEN ENDEAVORING TO PREVENT THEIR OPERATIONS.

I would not say that these people may not be entitled to an attorney, but I will say that there are limitations which the public good will place upon attorneys who are defending men who make their living out of such operations.

If I am sincere in my editorial and you are sincere in your letter, isn't it natural that we should come to conflict and meet headon? It is proof, maybe, that both of us are carrying along very consistently.

AND, MR. McFADDEN, IF THERE IS ANY PLACE IN MY WRITINGS OR SPEECHES OR LIFE, WHERE COMMUNISM HAS HAD DEFENSE OR PROTECTION, WHY DON'T YOU TAKE ADVANTAGE OF MY CHALLENGE AND DISCOVER IT?

EVERY EDITORIAL I HAVE EVER WRITTEN IS HERE UNDER THE ROOF OF THE REGISTER. IF YOU THOUGHT YOU COULD FIND ANYTHING TO SUPPORT YOUR CASE YOU WOULD HUNT IT UP, WOULDN'T YOU?

I WILL GRANT THAT I AM NOT DIVERTED FROM GOING AFTER THE REAL MENACE IN ORANGE COUNTY BY THE DESIRES OF THOSE WHO WOULD PROTECT THESE MENACES, AND THROW A RED HERRING OF SOMETHING THAT IS NOT A DANGER TO ORANGE COUNTY, ACROSS THE TRAIL.

Isn't this what makes you mad, Mr. McFadden? Now read over my corrected matter on the other page, and see if you will not grant that it is in harmony with truth and justice and with your attitude?

You want things as they are and are becoming. And you say that gambling is being carried on.

I want it cleaned up and officers elected who will do it.

I don't blame you for fighting for it if you believe that way.

I want the law enforced, gambling driven out, the money spent with merchants and landlords.

You are working to get your plan. I am working to get my plan. We have given the people an exhibition of what each thinks. Now that the public has it clearly in mind, let's let the voters decide, as they are going to do anyhow.

Yours truly,
J. F. BURKE.

Motives For Attacks Upon The Register Exposed

REGISTER'S OPPOSITION TO COMMUNISM OFTEN MADE KNOWN THROUGH EDITORIALS

The position of The Register and its publisher in respect to Communism, or any other "ism" that would employ force and violence, or would attempt to undermine law or society, is too well known to be affected by untruths and misrepresentations in Orange county.

For many years the publisher of The Register has not only spoken openly and frankly upon all economic questions, but his views have been presented upon almost every phase of these questions.

REGISTER'S OPPOSITION

We have given expression to our views primarily through our editorial columns. Neither friend nor foe has ever accused us of either indecision or ambiguity or equivocation. The volumes of these editorials are here in our office. The files of The Register are here under our roof.

And we challenge any man to find one solitary word that by any mental gymnastics could be even remotely twisted into a claim that we stand for any man or group that would achieve its ends by force or violence or the overthrow of government.

We have written upon this very question many times, and we are herewith printing a recent editorial published in our paper of Saturday, April 28th, of this year.

Read it and then ask any of these men, who are trying to slander our institution and break down the influence of The Register and what it is standing for, to produce any utterance The Register publisher has made, or any word that has ever been printed by him that is contrary to this editorial:

THE ABSURDITY OF THE COMMUNISTS' REASONING

If there were real ground for fear, because of Communism, the way to meet it would be to show the false basis of the Communist political organization, as well as to show a better way to meet the difficulties of our social life, which gives the Communist his opportunity to challenge anyone.

We note that there are those who claim that their object in life is to fight the "red radicals," as they call them. But chiefly they fight them by denunciation and not by argument. Denunciation convinces no one. It may arouse passion, but it leaves intelligence cold.

We have just been looking through a pamphlet that is published by the "Workers Library Publishers." It is being distributed, we understand, by actual members of the Communist party. There are many things of interest in it. In a chapter headed "Building the Party," we have found some striking statements. This is one of its sentences:

"While preparing for ILLEGALITY, the party must at the same time struggle against every attack upon its LEGAL rights through the development of mass struggles."

Take that sentence—and its content. The party acknowledges that it proposes to defy law and accomplish its purpose by other methods than legal ones. In other words, it is an organization of force. It does not propose to appeal to the intellect, to the reason or the judgment. It proposes to compel by strong power. It acknowledges this and then says: "While preparing for that we must defend ourselves against every attack upon our LEGAL rights."

This show the hypocritical and the pernicious character of its program. It would use, for the protection of its individual members, the very institutions which it would destroy in endeavoring to accomplish its purpose. It fails to recognize that all problems really are of the mind, and if the mind of the people is wrong, and is not changed, the problem remains unsolved. They depend upon force. Force is war. War never settled any question. It cannot settle questions, in the very nature of them.

You may, by force, prevent a man or an animal from doing certain bad things. But as long as he wants to do them, the problem is still there. The man can have the facts so presented that he doesn't want to do them, because he has the power of reason. The animal cannot. More than that, one can never even achieve what he is after by force, unless he has the major portion and the greater power, which means the majority, or at least the control of the means of force. In our country, this is only possible through majority action. And when one gets the majority, he can gain his ends without force. There is no basis upon which the program of the Communists, in this respect, can be defended.

This is what forces it into such foolish, inconsistent statements as we have just quoted. Let us paraphrase their statement: "While preparing for the time when we can accomplish our ends by force, we must protect ourselves from an attack by force, through the appeal to the law." In spite of this, we believe that even they should be protected by law in all the rights that any individual should have under our constitution and law. This is not for their good, however, but for ours. For if we should permit any man to be denied the protection which the law affords, we cannot insure the protection of the law to the rest of us.

The only way those of us, who believe that the only method to achieve ends is through legal and constitutional methods, can be assured of the protection of the law, which we desire, is to be sure that its mantle of protection is thrown upon every other individual. This is the only insurance we have of protection of property, person and life.

We should be interested to know on what theory of equity or ethics the Communist, in this sentence, asks the protection of the very institutions which it is his purpose to destroy.

STATEMENT BY ATTORNEY W. MAXWELL BURKE

The statement that Charles McLaughlan, Communist who recently was arrested at Placentia on a charge of distributing literature without a license, "has been of assistance to The Register," was made by his attorney, under an erroneous impression, in an effort to obtain the client's release without posting bail.

And the two Register employes who signed the $50 bail bond eventually required of the client, had no idea of his identity, but acted purely as a favor to the attorney.

Attempts by rival newspapers to seize upon the attorney's statement and use it in an attempt to pin Communism upon The Register, were upset when the attorney himself today issued a statement explaining his own mistake and the circumstances of the bail bond.

W. M. Burke, the attorney, issued the following statement:

"An effort is being put forth by the newspapers, which are hostile to and competitors of The Register, to make it appear that The Register is supporting Communism and Communists, because of a certain action by me as an attorney.

"I was called over to Placentia the other day by Charles McLaughlan, who had been arrested for distributing literature in Placentia without a license. McLaughlan is a resident of Anaheim. I had known him some time, and I do not know how I got the impression, but I thought he had sometime worked for The Register. I found later this was untrue; that he had never worked at any time for The Register, and that its publisher had never known him until about the time when he detailed a representative of the paper to find the Communists in the county.

"Not being able to get McLaughlan out on his own recognizance, and needing a bond signed, I went to The Register office and asked Mr. Lee Millis, who is the bookkeeper, and Mr. Loyal King, the manager, to do this for me.

"Neither Mr. Millis nor Mr. King knew the identity of the defendant when they signed the bond, but only that he was charged with distributing dodgers without a license.

W. M. BURKE."

To The Voters Of Orange County

An attorney of Anaheim, who is also employed by the city of Placentia, made a Roman holiday of a misdemeanor committed by a misguided youth, who claims he is a Communist. He staged the political part of the affair in order to give his friend and comrade, the district attorney, an opportunity to make a speech and to misrepresent the attitude of the Santa Ana Register.

Mr. McFadden, the attorney in question, and the district attorney knew full well, as lawyers, that the attempt to make The Register "Communistic" was utterly silly and absurd. They knew full well that The Register and its publisher are opposed to force and violence and the overthrow of government, but they were grasping at straws and trying to make an issue against the paper and its editor. Why?

It was because of what The Register stands for as a publication in Orange county, and what those interests stand for, that this attorney has been representing in Orange county. The Register has been taking an open, frank position against law violations, particularly against public gambling, against bootlegging, and, incidentally, it has been against any special privilege being granted by politicians to the influential, at the sacrifice of the general good.

MR. McFADDEN, WHO STAGED THIS SHOW ON BEHALF OF HIS FRIEND, "SOPPY" KAUFMAN, HAS BEEN REPEATEDLY THE LEGAL REPRESENTATIVE AND ATTORNEY FOR THE ELEMENTS IN THIS COUNTY THAT THE REGISTER HAS HAD TO FIGHT, AND HE AND THOSE WHO HIRE HIM FOR THESE PURPOSES, HAVE RECOGNIZED THAT IF THEY COULD BREAK DOWN THE INFLUENCE AND POWER OF THE REGISTER, THEY COULD "GET AWAY" WITH THEIR MACHINATIONS UNVEXED AND UNTROUBLED BY AN AROUSED PUBLIC OPINION.

WHAT McFADDEN REPRESENTS

Mr. McFadden has been repeatedly the attorney for bootleggers.

He has been the attorney for the gambling interests.

He was the attorney for the gambling devices in Orange county, and actually obtained an injunction against the sheriff to prevent him from performing his duty in rooting out the slot machines.

When it was found that a moral pervert had been abusing little girls in Santa Ana, so that the motherhood of this city was aroused, as it has not been on any other proposition for 10 years, it was this same attorney who appeared on his behalf, using every device known to the law to protect and defend him.

We do not say that no attorney in Santa Ana would have taken this case; we do not say there is no other attorney who would take it in Orange county, but we do say that the attorney, who has been the legal stay of the bootleggers, the gamblers and who tied up the sheriff from carrying on his work as sheriff, as far as the gamblers were concerned, was the attorney who was called upon and accepted the job.

In another case, of a man who had been before the court charged with molesting a little schoolgirl at Westminster, Mr. McFadden brought suit on his behalf against the sheriff, claiming false arrest, the sort of maneuver that tends to break down and intimidate law enforcement.

"PROTECTION" IS OBJECTIVE

He is an attorney in Anaheim. It was in Anaheim where practically open gambling and an indecent show were put on without let or hindrance, and when The Register was "tipped off" by the man who was on the inside, The Register was told that high county authorities had pledged protection for that gambling and indecent party.

AN AROUSED ELECTORATE IN ORANGE COUNTY IS DEMANDING BETTER THINGS. THE REGISTER HAS BEEN UNCOVERING THIS FLAGRANT AND CHALLENGING AND IMPUDENT VIOLATION OF OUR GAMBLING ACT AND THE WHOLE MISERABLE FRATERNITY, WHICH IS TRYING TO GET ITS INCOME FROM THE HONEST LABOR OF THE PEOPLE, IS AROUSED AND ANGRY AT THE REGISTER FOR THESE EXPOSURES AND FOR ITS OPPOSITION.

They see the day approaching when the electorate will place in the office of the district attorney, a man who is more honest in determination to make Orange county law-abiding and to protect the county from these ravaging wolves, who are no better in the manner, in which they get their money, than common thieves.

DISTRICT ATTORNEY HIS PAL

So here was the opportunity to make the combination. Here was the opportunity for this "special pleader" for this group to do some "hot" and "fast" work for his faithful friend, the district attorney.

So this man who has succeeded in protecting his clients, possibly, beyond the powers of other attorneys to do it, stages a performance, metaphorically puts his arms around the district attorney, placing his generous and expansive hand upon his shoulder, this man representing, as an attorney, this element in Orange county, in this manner places upon the district attorney the stamp of his unqualified approval.

He declares: Here is a man who is four-square. In effect he says: This is the man whom I, the attorney for this group, want elected district attorney.

McFADDEN'S MESSAGE

NOTING MR. McFADDEN'S ACTIONS, HIS STAGING OF THE POLITICAL SHOW AT PLACENTIA, HIS INTRODUCTION AND ENDORSEMENT OF KAUFMAN, HIS TYPE OF CLIENTELE, AND THE INTERESTS HE HAS BEEN PAID TO PROTECT FROM THE LAW, THERE IS NO DIFFICULTY IN GETTING HIS MESSAGE TO THE PEOPLE OF ORANGE COUNTY AS CLEARLY AS IF HE HAD USED THESE IDENTICAL WORDS:

"THIS IS THE MAN (KAUFMAN) WHO IS SUPPOSED TO BE ELECTED TO DRIVE FROM THE HAUNTS OF DECENT SOCIETY THE VERY CLASS OF PEOPLE, SOME OF WHOM I AM DEFENDING.

"THE SLOT GAMBLING DEVICES ARE NOW IN OPERATION, AND THEY MIGHT NOT BE IF MR. McKINNEY WERE DISTRICT ATTORNEY, SO I URGE YOU TO VOTE FOR MR. KAUFMAN, THE 'FOUR-SQUARE MAN,' THE 'FOUR' CONSISTING OF ME, MY CLIENTS, MR. KAUFMAN, AND AGAINST THE REGISTER.

"MR. KAUFMAN IS OPPOSED BY THE SANTA ANA REGISTER, THE INSTITUTION THAT IS FIGHTING THE TRAFFIC IN WHICH MY CLIENTS ARE ENGAGED. I WILL GRANT MR. McKINNEY IS A GOOD LAWYER, BUT HE IS IN FAVOR OF THE POSITION WHICH THE REGISTER TAKES UPON THIS QUESTION. VOTE FOR MR. KAUFMAN AND YOU WILL HAVE MY UNDYING THANKS AND GRATITUDE."

PROTECTING GAMBLER CLIENTS

We are not urging, understand, that Mr. McFadden shouldn't do what he is doing as an attorney. We are not claiming that he isn't looking after his clients' interest in his activity for the district attorney.

We are not claiming, for a moment, that his clients should complain at the manner in which he is endeavoring to get the district attorney back into office. We are just pointing out that as an attorney, representing those elements which are subversive to the public good, his leadership on behalf of his clients is naturally contrary to the good of those elements in society that realize that there is a terrible undermining and destructive force being carried on by those in whose interest Mr. McFadden makes his appeal. And what is for their interest is against the interest of the county.

The voters of this county cannot be fooled.

GAMBLERS FOR KAUFMAN

This is the issue in Orange county. All the men who are intelligent, concerning the political situation in this county, see instantly, in summing up what communities will be carried by Mr. Kaufman for district attorney, begin with Seal Beach and declare that he will get that without any question by a very large percentage, as it is the Monte Carlo of Orange county, and defying law with constancy, and has been for weeks.

They declare that he will probably carry Newport Beach, but not by as big a majority as he will Seal Beach. For there are more people in Newport Beach who realize that the gambling fraternity is robbing the people of money that should go to the merchants and to the landlords, and that people can only stay a day or two in frequent cases, because of this robbery, when they had money enough to begin with to spend a period.

They say he will carry Newport Beach, however, with the aid of this fraternity, by a vote of possibly 60 to 40.

They declare that this man McFadden's influence will probably bring a majority of the voters of Anaheim to him, with all that Mr. McFadden represents. And elsewhere, wherever this group is sufficiently numerous, it is declared that votes will be "stacked up" that way.

MONEY FOR CANDIDATES

The whole racketeering element is happy and rejoices whenever the Register and its publishers are abused. There are newspapers which are expressing the abuse and hatred which that unsavory outfit feels. We know that that group is putting money into this campaign for candidates.

We do not say that they are hiring these newspapers to make these assaults. These newspapers and men interested, like Mr. McFadden, may be doing this for nothing and boarding themselves.

But verily, some way or other, they are receiving or expect their reward.

But let it be known that there are striking and marked exceptions to this attitude of sychophancy to these interests among the newspapers. The exception among the dailies is that of the Orange News.

You can examine for yourself and see your own weekly paper as to its attitude in abusing The Register, in proportion as The Register is exposing the combination of gambling and bootlegging in the county.

MR. KAUFMAN IS WELCOME TO THAT KIND OF SUPPORT THAT STAGED THAT SPECTACLE AS A POLITICAL STUNT OVER IN PLACENTIA. IF MR. McFADDEN HAD STOOD FOR EITHER MR. GUY OR MR. McKINNEY IN THIS CAMPAIGN, WE WOULD HAVE HAD SOME DOUBT IN SPITE OF THE FACT THAT THE REGISTER'S REPRESENTATIVES IN CONTACTING PROFESSIONAL GAMBERS AT SEAL BEACH AND ELSEWHERE, FOUND NONE OF THEM FOR GUY OR McKINNEY.

RESENT REGISTER'S INDEPENDENCE

There has been a constant effort to break down the influence of The Register before the people of Orange county. The politicians are desperately opposed to independence. They desire that a paper shall publish that which is agreed upon by a bunch of men who are trying to run the politics of the county and who are in league with the elements that are preying upon its citizens.

The desperation of this gambling, bootlegging, racketeering outfit to break down the influence of an independent journal in Orange county is now patent to everyone who is capable of reading.

AT DISTRICT ATTORNEY'S DOOR

The real liability for lax law enforcement, for permitting criminal conditions in any county lies right at the door of the district attorney. With a district attorney able, determined, devoted to the interest of the protection of his county, with a sheriff who is reasonably fair upon the question, he is bound to succeed.

WITH THE BEST-INTENTIONED SHERIFF IN THE WORLD, LAW VIOLATORS CANNOT BE BROUGHT TO BOOK, CONVICTED AND SENTENCED WITH AN INDIFFERENT AND PASSIVE DISTRICT ATTORNEY, SAYING NOTHING ABOUT ONE WHO IS DEPENDING FOR HIS ELECTION UPON THE VOTES OF THE VERY ONES WHOM HE SHOULD DRIVE, AS ENEMIES OF THE REPUBLIC, FROM THE HAUNTS OF HONEST MEN.

Recently we spent a few weeks in the east. When we returned, we were told on every hand about the licentious and flagrant manner in which the gamblers were carrying on at Seal Beach. We could not believe it possible that they had become so bold and impudent.

We sent representatives of the paper there and found it was as open as at Tia Juana or Monte Carlo.

By constantly turning on the searchlight and arousing the people to the desperate condition, the places were forced to close for a period. Why must conditions reach such a point as this?

WHY ENFORCEMENT FAILS

One of the reasons why the 18th amendment failed to the degree it did was because men in sympathy with the liquor traffic were selected to enforce the law. The man whom the law-abiding mothers and fathers, wives and husbands, can depend upon to sustain the reputation of this county, as one of the finest counties for home-seekers in this country, is the man whom the elements that are trying to break down the bulwarks of law and order in the county want defeated.

We heard one time of a man who had a large family and an extremely small income. They seemed to be getting along in a pretty fair way. His neighbors asked him finally how he did it. His reply was: "I find what each one of my children doesn't like, and then I give him all he can eat of it."

THE BEST DOSE THAT CAN BE GIVEN THOSE WHO WOULD UNDERMINE SOCIETY, DESTROY ITS INSTITUTIONS AND RUIN ITS WORTH IS TO FIND OUT WHAT IT IS THEY DON'T WANT, AND GIVE IT TO THEM IN LARGE AND COPIOUS QUANTITIES. THEIR CRY IS: "WE DON'T WANT McKINNEY." THE REMEDY IS PLAIN.

We have ignored, personally, the stories that have come out concerning the trial of this Communist for distributing literature in Placentia.

The publisher of The Register knew nothing of the episode until after it had taken place. The attorney for this man asked two men connected with The Register to sign the bond for this misdemeanor, and in each case it was signed without knowing who the man was, what he was charged with, or his political ideas. They signed this, as they have similar bonds before for the clients of this attorney, and as we would ourselves sign a bond by application by any reputable attorney for his client, for the amount of $50.00 for a misdemeanor.

FACTS ON ARREST

The attorney said that when he was called into the case, he had thought that the man had been distributing copies of The Register. The news dispatches emanating from Placentia said that he made some statement indicating that the man had worked for The Register. We do not know what was said.

We only know that this man, nor no other man of his ideas concerning force and violence and the overthrow of government, has ever worked for The Register or has ever done anything for The Register, except to make it more difficult for The Register and all others who believe in correcting the evils of society by democratic methods to do so.

The only thing that The Register has insisted on has been that those people who do recognize the evils of society, and are trying to aid the distressed and the unemployed, and who are trying to do it, such as President Roosevelt and our various philanthropic agencies, shall not be charged with being Communist simply because they are trying to help.

We further maintain that the dangers to our civilization and our system come infinitely more from the criminal class, who are finding it profitable to carry on their criminality and are able to employ attorneys to defend and protect them, and to have newspapers "smear" those who are fighting the law violator, than there is from an insignificant group of misguided and nondescript youth, who, penniless and helpless, are carrying on so foolishly as this man was in Placentia.

If the Communists ever get to the point where it is profitable for them to racketeer, when they are numerous enough to have votes, they will then find lawyers to protect them and newspapers to defend them.. We believe, however, that more can be gained by teaching even those people that America stands for law, it stands for order, it stands for equity, it stands for impartiality in the application of law.

NATIONAL WHIRLIGIG

-- News Behind The News --

WASHINGTON

USINESS

The figures show Joseph P. Kennedy told the truth when he said usiness was better than business confidence.

Official and unofficial tabulations indicate that we are in a su ner ecession which is now about 5 per cent more than seasonal. hat s hardly amazing in view of the drought, strikes, heat and inner usiness skittishness. You would naturally expect the recession to be least three times that much, in the face of all these troubles.

The seasonally adjusted monthly business chart proves that produc- on was off about 4 points in July, employment 2, wages 2, and ales 1.

The only things higher in July were the price index and the ther- ometer. The price level was higher than it has been for two years. he drought did it.

CONFIDENCE

They look on the drought as a more serious hazard to business than trikes. Labor troubles can be settled but the drought cannot. oth are national problems, but are localized.

There is another more widespread national problem, less obvious, ut possibly even more important in their view. That is the sub- ct of which Mr. Kennedy spoke—the (at times) irrational uncertain- among some business men.

When Mr. Kennedy spoke as chairman of the securities commis- on, his voice was drowned out by the assassination of Dollfuss, hich occurred the same day. His cooling promise of restrained and nsible business relations was lost in the face of the hot blasts from urope. It was lost only temporarily.

From the way Mr. Roosevelt's economic counselors are now mur- uring among themselves, you can see very plainly that they are oing to meet Mr. Roosevelt at the pier with advice that Washington urn the electric fan on the business man's brow.

There will be more speeches like that of Mr. Kennedy—and more han speeches.

CHART

Meanwhile you can get a general idea of how things have been oing from the following table of business indices. The average ears 1923, 1924, and 1925 are 100 for each index except prices.

(June and July privately estimated).

Neither the drought, strikes nor eat had much to do with the de- rease of industrial production in uly. It was due mainly to in- eased prices of steel and lum- and the fact that textile ls are on a 25 per cent curtail- at program. The drought and ikes hurt department store ales and car loadings.

BOOKS

A General Motors executive walked into the NRA headquarters the other day. He was formerly connected with the NRA and just dropped in for a chat. Under his arm was a fat book about the size of the old-fashioned family Bible.

NRA'ers probably had never seen a Bible and inquired about it. They were amazed when informed that it was the price policy of General Motors reduced to writing.

The price policy of the NRA has never been reduced to writing. Neither has the labor policy, except in the most general terms.

That started a round of discussion about the advisability of reducing all NRA policies to detailed writing, so all the bickering and uncertainty of the different code systems could be avoided. There would be one rule for all.

It could be done but it would take more print paper than there is available in the world.

* * *

MORALE

General Johnson has been carrying the rules and regulations of that outfit around in his head since the start. They have never been put on paper either.

The result is that since Johnson has been away there has been considerable inter-office confusion, conflicts of authority, disputes as to procedure. Some executives have become disgusted.

* * *

RESUMPTION

There has been a big rush latterly among vacationing government officials to get back on the job before the boss comes back from Hawaii. Messrs. Morgenthau, Roper and Tugwell arrived the same day, acting as if they had never been away.

The influx aroused suspicions that Mr. Roosevelt had ordered some of them back to work, but such suspicions are undoubtedly groundless. The truth is the president invited his associates to take a month off if they could arrange it. Few could.

NOTES

Down in the dungeons of Wall Street they are still referring to the New Stock Exchange commission as "the securities extermination commission." . . . certain people are trying to promote national interest in the Donovan case by getting the discharged NRA labor leader to make a speech-making tour.

NEW YORK
By James McMullin

DECISION

Watch for the National Labor Board's ruling in the case of the Houde Engineering Company of Buffalo. It will have a vital bearing on future capital-labor relations.

Here's the background. The Regional Labor Board ordered an election by Houde employes to determine whether they wished representation by a Federation union or a company union. The Federation won but the company insisted on dealing with both groups. The Regional Board stepped in and ordered the company to recognize only the Federation union. The Houde people refused to comply and Federation officers appealed to the National Labor Board for a final decision.

New York insiders get word that the Board will uphold majority rule as against proportional representation and it has them worried. The proportional idea—whereby any minority group of employes can name representatives for collective bargaining—is their main hope of resisting Federation gains.

* * *

OPEN SHOP

This was the principle invoked in the motor strike settlement. Industry liked it. It strengthened company unions by assuring workers of representation without having to pay dues to a Federation group. The steel mediation proposal was based on the opposite idea that whatever organization received a majority vote should represent all workers. The steel companies accepted it because they think they can lick the Amalgamated in an election. Amalgamated is staking its very existence on an all-or-nothing basis—but if it wins it wins everything.

There are many lines of business not so confident as the steel heads. They feel that once organized labor gets the upper hand their company unions are sunk without the proportional safeguard to keep them alive. Hence the Houde case means a lot in their battle to preserve the open shop.

Already open shop leaders are preparing to fight the expected adverse decision. Their strategy will probably be to ignore this labor Board's authority as they sometimes snubbed its predecessor and leave it up to the Board to prove them wrong in court.

STABILITY

A New Yorker with wide corporate connections believes the government could best promote recovery by promulgating a law or regulation forbidding reduction of wages below present levels for five years.

His point is that industry must be convinced that wages and raw materials (of which wages are the chief cost ingredient) have reached bottom before serious buying begins. As long as there's a chance for further wage cuts—and therefore lower prices—they have no incentive to go ahead. By doing so they might give competitors who hold back a chance to score.

Conversely he argues that wage stability would spur purchases.

It would mean that prices couldn't drop further and would probably rise—making it smart to buy now even if the goods bought weren't needed for use till later. Advance purchases bred by the conviction among industrial leaders that prices had touched their low limit marked the beginning of the real upturn from previous depressions.

This man's idea doesn't get much backing among his fellow New York conservatives. Somehow they can't enthuse at the prospect of not being able to cut their major costs if they want to.

EUROPE

Informed financial circles aren't in the least excited about the war scare. They admit a stray spark might ignite the powder keg at any time but are convinced that Hitler will backtrack even further than he has already—perhaps to the point of renouncing the Anschluss—if it's necessary to keep Mussolini off his neck.

Von Papen isn't out of the German picture because he was sent to Vienna. Quite the contrary. He's simply out of the way of fresh inter-Nazi squabbles now brewing and in a position to hop back to Berlin on a moment's notice as and when needed to participate in the formation of a new government. Insiders understand that von Papen is now rated the chief white hope of the industrialists—and they will have a lot to say about Germany's future political leadership.

WEIGHT

Wall Street's reported enthusiasm for Joseph V. Kennedy's reassuring remarks was genuine enough but accompanied by a distinct undertone of skepticism in informed circles.

A leading broker puts it this way: "We knew all along that Kennedy was a good scout. The question is, how much weight does he carry? We'd feel a lot more chipper if it had been FDR who said those kind words."

LITTLE

The first serious argument between the Stock Exchange and the Securities and Exchange commission is likely to focus on small margin accounts. The SEC has intimated that abolition of such accounts — protecting the shoestringers from themselves—would be in the public interest. The Exchange thought it over and decided against such action on the ground that the little fellows would only find a way to speculate outside the Exchange — so what's the use? Some members of the Commission are reported as displeased at this ignoring of their wishes.

STAKE

Kurt von Rieth—the German envoy to Austria who was recalled for offering aid to the Austrian Nazis—has a sizable stake in the American oil business. His father was European director for the old Standard Oil Company—before it was trust-busted—and passed his large stock interest on to his son.

VICTORY

In the troubled waters of world affairs none fish more successfully than the Japanese, as the straightening out of the Chinese Eastern Railway friction shows to those behind the scenes.

The acceptance by Russia of Manchukuo's Chinese prince supported by Japanese personnel is of far-reaching moment. It is only a de facto recognition but it will prove the forerunner of that formal and complete establishment of diplomatic relationships which will constitute another milestone in the world's history. It is perhaps not too much to say that the last war cloud lifts from the Far East with a three-cornered setup of Soviet-Japan-Manchukuo in working order.

It should not be long now before we become accustomed to an economic relationship between the three which will shape the trade currents of the world.

EXPECT CROWD AT DEBATE ON EPIC PROGRAM

Several thousand people are expected to assemble tomorrow night in the Greek theater in the Anaheim city park to hear the Rev. Russell Stroup, candidate for congress, and W. E. Robb debate on whether or not the Sinclair EPIC plan is in harmony with President Roosevelt's recovery program. The debate is scheduled to start at 8 p. m.

The formal subject for the debate will be: "Resolved that Upton Sinclair, with his EPIC plan, is in complete harmony with President Roosevelt and his recovery program." The Rev. Mr. Stroup of Newport Beach will take the affirmative and Robb, of Riverside, manager for John King, candidate for congressman from this district, will debate the negative side.

In the debate the speakers will go into not only the Sinclair plan and its relation to the coming election in California but the entire program of national recovery. The Rev. Mr. Stroup will attempt to show that Sinclair and his plan are necessary for the national plan to succeed as it relates to California while Robb will seek to show that Sinclair's plan is impractical and unnecessary and would obstruct, rather than assist, the presidential plan.

Since Sinclair announced himself as candidate for governor in California the Rev. Mr. Stroup has been speaking in favor of him and his plan throughout the 19th Congressional district. Robb has already debated the question in Arlington and invited Stroup to meet him in Anaheim and Santa Ana because, in Stroup, he recognized one of the principal champions of the Sinclair plan.

Under rules accepted by both speakers for the debate the Rev. Mr. Stroup will speak for 20 minutes with 10 minutes for rebuttal. Robb will have 30 minutes and each speaker will be given 15 minutes for answering questions.

Steele Says Ad Not Ordered; One Item In It Not Correct

Correcting an erroneous statement contained in today's issue of one of the advertising circulars issued in Santa Ana, and declaring that he had refused to take space in the issue when solicited to do so by A. B. Berry, former Santa Ana newspaper man, but that an ad had appeared anyway, Joe Steele, proprietor of Steele's Barber shop, which recently moved to a new location on Main street, today said that his shop does not open until 8 o'clock, the regular opening hour observed by all barber shops in Santa Ana.

News Of Fullerton and Vicinity

FULLERTON, Aug 1.—William E. Kuhne, 64, who had been in poor health for 10 years, was found dead in his home at 206 North Drake avenue yesterday evening by neighbors who missed him in the yard. Evidences were he had died about noon.

The aged man, who for several years was janitor at Fullerton Chamber of commerce, left two notes, one to his son, Paul, of Fullerton, telling him of his final wishes, and one to McAulay and Suters, morticians, making final requests as to his burial. The son said he had been accustomed to write such notes during the past few years, when he was feeling particularly ill. Other suvivors are five sisters and four brothers in the east.

An autopsy was to be held today to determine the exact cause of death.

FULLERTON, Aug. 1.—Fullerton banks, starting today, are remaining open on a new schedule, from 10 to 3, on all week days except Saturday, when the doors will open at 9 a. m., and will close at noon.

Another change was announced as effective today, all checking accounts of $100 or under are to have a charge against them of 50 cents a month.

New Meaning Of Slogan Is Coined

FULLERTON, Aug. 1.—Miss Marjorie Allen, daughter of C. R. Allen, candidate for assembly from 75th district on the "End Poverty in California" platform of Upton Sinclair, candidate for governor, yesterday presented a new meaning of the slogan, EPIC. She said eventually, when the Sinclair program is in force, it will mean, "Enjoy Prosperity in California."

ROOSEVELT AND SINCLAIR PLANS HELD IDENTICAL

FULLERTON, Aug. 1. — The President Roosevelt plan for caring for 80,000 families in Washington, D. C., who through no fault of their own, are penniless is identical with the EPIC plan for California, as it is the platform of Upton Sinclair, candidate for governor on the Democratic ballot, according to Dr. Walter Thomas Mills, veteran of progressive movements in the United States, who last night talked to nearly 200 persons at Upton Sinclair headquarters on East Commonwealth avenue.

Dr. Mills outlined the two policies, to put people on the land; to start machinery that they may use the raw materials they use, and to issue a basis of exchange that they may exchange produce and live, and be taken off the backs of taxpayers.

These two facts, he said, show positively that the Sinclair program will fit into the Roosevelt program for relief, both of the unemployed and the taxpayer. "The Roosevelt program goes one step forward, for the unemployed, in Washington, D. C., are to care for not only the unemployed and their families, who can labor, but the sick and helpless, also, and take them off the taxpayers' back," he declared.

Thus, briefly, did the 80-year-old lecturer describe the two programs, and advised that if taxpayers want to continue to support the unemployed, out of work through no fault of their own, they should vote for other candidates for office, but that if they want to let the unemployed care for themselves, they should back Sinclair.

"If you are going to vote as taxpayers to keep the burden on your own shoulders, and make paupers out of the rest of us, then you need but fail to support Sinclair, and you will have accomplished it," he declared. "You know, the people must be fed, and if you refuse to let them care for themselves, then there is nothing for it but that you feed them, and make them take a pauper's oath."

After declaring the Sinclair and Roosevelt programs, for California and Washington, D. C., are the same, he declared, "I am for the old age pension; I like to call it an income; but I am also for an income for all under 60 as well as all over 60. I have found that all who are most vociferous in saying $200 a month is too much are living on many thousands a year; if John D. Rockefeller will say it is enough for him to live on, I am willing to say it is adequate."

He declared the work of people is actually to span the bridge that keeps an armed camp on the one hand and industry on the other, and to assist in beating swords into plow shares and organize a new society, with all given an equal chance. He said until the Constitution of United States was written, governments had been formed on military power, and had included a "church wing," but that "The United States constitution is different, and we can stand on it, and secure a freedom."

He whimsically told of the little home being built by him by "67 laborers to the present time," on lots given him by S. C. Hartranft, of Fullerton. He told of his giving up a large income, when he found how it was being earned, and of taking a vow to have no more than he needed, and delved back into the history of his life, which he is planning to write as soon as the Sinclair campaign is over.

He called attention to Frances Willard, and said, "she taught me a great lesson." He said years ago she was talking to him, and she asked him if he was a socialist; he said no, but that if he ever became one, he would be a Christian socialist." Her reply was, "Why use two words where either one will answer?" This story as in answer to a question as to whether Upton Sinclair is a socialist.

U., under which organization the lectures are being given, urged all leaders of young people's groups in Northern Orange county, and all Sunday school superintendents and teachers to attend the last two of these lectures.

OPPOSES STATE TAKING OVER ALL HIGHWAYS

Warning against allowing gasoline tax funds escape from the control of local government agencies, J. A. Mellon, engineer of the regional planning commission of Los Angeles, at a meeting of Associated Chambers of Commerce of Orange County last night in Laguna Beach, told his listeners to beware of the new auto club plan to have the state highway commission take over all highways in the state.

Mellon, who was the speaker of the evening and who was introduced by George Kellogg, chairman of the highways committee, declared that the majority of the highways in California have been constructed by the gasoline tax money paid out by Southern California.

"If the highway commission spends the money" he declared, "you will probably find the majority of the funds expended in Northern California. If the control of all roads is in Sacramento, you may be assured you will not get service like you now do."

Describing the use value of highways, the speaker told of how roads had figured in the growth of California and how land values, market values, etc., depend upon transportation along the roads. Civilization, he pointed out, has always centered around roads. He traced the history of roads in California, beginning with the famous old Ey Camino Real. He exhibited a chart to show the terrific volume of traffic which flows along highways in Los Angeles.

Ralph McFadden reported for the water committee, declaring that efforts to unite water interest of the county in regard to the Elliott plan are progressing favorably.

FARM WOMEN TO HEAR NATIONAL HOME CHAIRMAN

Mrs. Charles W. Sewell, national home and community director of the American Farm Bureau Federation, will address a general meeting of Los Angeles, Ventura, Orange, Riverside and San Bernardino county Farm Bureaus on Friday, August 10. The meeting will begin at 2 p. m. at Ganesha Park, Pomona. An effort is being made to have as many as possible come to the park with picnic lunches at noon, according to Farm Bureau officials.

Mrs. Sewell is a nationally known Farm Bureau worker and has been speaking at least once and sometimes twice a day on a schedule of meetings throughout the entire west, particularly in Wyoming and Montana. She is holding a series of meetings throughout California the week of August 6, following the Western Regional Farm Bureau Conference at Reno, Nevada.

Mrs. Sewell's message will be of special interest to the farm home departments of the various counties although it will be general in character, and the meeting is designed for the entire family, the announcement said.

Mrs. Mabel D. Ahart, chairman of the farm home department of the California Farm Bureau Federation, will be in the party with Mrs. Sewell.

Mrs. L. A. Bortz of Olive, chairman of the Orange County Home department, is making arrangements for an official delegation to attend from this county, but all farm women are invited to attend.

REPUBLICANS TALK PLANS TO REGAIN LOSSES

Speakers discussing the political situation in California at a dinner meeting of the Orange County Republican Club held last night at the White House cafe at Laguna Beach, agreed that the maintenance and effective operation of two major political parties, the Republican and the Democratic, with new ideals of public service and under a leadership of young men divorced of any connection with special or selfish interests, are indispensable to the perpetuity of the American idea of constitutional government and democratic institutions.

Coupled with these views, some of the speakers took issue with the present election system under which Upton Sinclair, a prominent Socialist, was seeking support on a Democratic ticket, and urged legislation that would modify the present primary law.

A portion of the meeting was taken up with discussion of ways and means of strengthening the party and recovering losses in the ranks of the voters as reflected in recent registration. In addition to building up an effective organization in every section of the county, it was proposed that the club launch an educational campaign among the voters by means of missionary work of individual club members, followed by meetings at appointed places and climaxed by a grand rally on the eve of the approaching primary election.

In the absence of Alvin Drumm, president of the club, now in the East, Walter Spicer, of Newport, presided over the meeting which was attended by a large number of prominent Republican leaders and several visitors. Among the latter were several candidates for public office including Captain Don Wilkie, N. E. West, and B. Z. McKinney, who were introduced to the gathering.

The principal address of the evening was made by Congressman Sam L. Collins, representing the Nineteenth Congressional district, whose talk was principally devoted to building up the Republican party on progressive lines, stressing the necessity of the individual citizen taking an active interest in the business of government. He told his listeners that on the whole he had supported the administration in its recovery measures. He questioned, however the wisdom of the administration policy which, he observed, has led a large portion of the population to depend upon the government for support, even to the extent that some people believe that the government owes them a living. He also voiced his adherence to constitutional methods and questioned the expediency of experimental measures in effecting necessary changes."

Other speakers of the evening included Leslie F. Kimmell, of Laguna Beach; Howard Irwin of Fullerton, Republican county chairman; Ray H. Overacker of Huntington Beach; E. M. ("Sunny") Sundquist of Santa Ana; Paul Muench of Orange; Roy Divel of San Clemente; Leonard West of Fullerton; and Milburn G. Harvey, of Santa Ana.

PONTIAC IS FIRST AUTO ON ISLAND

MACKINAC ISLAND, Mich, Aug. 1.—History was made here today at this fashionable summer resort, the last stronghold of the horse and buggy in the United States when a new Pontiac automobile, first motor driven vehicle ever to be permitted upon the island, was escorted under a heavy guard over the mile long route from the dock where it was landed to its resting place in the grille lobby of the Grand hotel.

With the tercentenary . . . three hundredth anniversary of the discovery of the Island by the famous French explorer, Jean Nicolet . . . serving as a background of historical pageantry, the 30 year old regulation of the Michigan State Park Commission forbidding a motor driven vehicle from being run on the streets of Mackinac Island was modified for the first time in order that the Pontiac might take its place in the celebration. The motor vehicle ban was only partially lifted, however, thus preventing a complete victory for the modern car, as the gas was drained from its tank and it was hauled up the long hill by four spanking black horses lead by coachmen in red livery.

LUCKLESS S. A. CLUB LOSES IN 10 INNINGS, 1-0

Beaten in extra innings for the third time in two weeks, Santa Ana today prayed for a change of luck in the fourth and final quarter of the National Night Ball league season, which begins at Olive tomorrow night.

Fickle fortune turned against the Stars again here last night when Huntington Beach, the first-half champion, scored in the tenth inning for a 1-0 victory in another of those brilliant pitchers' battles in which the unlucky Jim Coates finds himself game after game.

With two out, and Manager Joe Rodgers of Huntington Beach poised on third base, Pitcher "Chico" Sabella hit an unusual single past first base that accounted for the winning run. Sabella topped the sphere with the end of his bat, and the ball squirted off into foul territory by several feet before caroming crazily into fair territory just as it hopped over the bag. Sabella was as dumbfounded as the Santa Ana players and fans, and for an instant he remained motionless at the plate while his "hit" continued its unique journey into short right field.

Coates perhaps had a slight edge on Sabella in the mound duel, allowing seven hits to "Chico's" 11. Sabella fanned 10, to Coates' 8. Jim walked one, Sabella three.

Sabella was hard to get along with in the pinches. The Stars wasted chance after chance in the early rounds. Denney and Daley singled in the first but died on third and second, respectively. Sears singled in the second but was thrown out trying to go for two so Wilcox and Coates followed with misspent singles. Conrad singled and Preble walked to no avail in the third. Wilcox singled again in the fourth. Daley walked and Ballard singled in the fifth, without result. Hits by Conrad and Preble netted nothing in the seventh. Young opened the ninth with a single and moved up on a passed ball, but Sears fanned. Wilcox popped up and Coates fanned.

Last night's struggle completed the third-quarter during which the Santa Anans defeated Olive, Fullerton, Anaheim and Long Beach but lost by one run in extra innings to Torrance, Westminster and Huntington Beach. The last two setbacks were by 1-0 margin.

YANKEE CLUB PLAYS .844 BALL AT HOME

NEW YORK, Aug. 1.—The Yankees with their brogans once again in the comforting soil of Col. Jake Ruppert's ball yard, today tossed off an offer to take all comers.

Yesterday the Red Sox came, and the Yankees took them—twice. This put the Ruppert Rifles back at the head of the American league, two points above the Detroit Tigers.

The Yanks have lost only five games in 27 played at home, which averages .844. They have lost 17 out of 32 starts in the midlands, which is .469. Jaunts through the east have not been much better, averaging only .548.

They will play 29 more games at home, staying until September 4, save for a tour of Washington and Boston for seven games next week. It becomes fairly obvious that Foreman J. Vincent McCarthy and his men must knock off their winning lead this month, or be knocked off in September.

Experts claim that if the first half of the golf swing is right, the other half will take care of itself.

To correct this fault of pressing, one must concentrate on the first half of the swing, checking up on the start, which should be slow, the fairly straight left arm, horizontal position of the club at the top, and a well-timed downswing, waiting patiently until the proper hitting region is reached.

TWELVE BOUTS ON EBONY CLUB RING INVASION

"Bargain night" will be observed tomorrow at the Orange County Athletic club, where there will be 12 bouts instead of 10, and a triple main event featuring Bill Wana vs. Paul Watkins, Paddy Guillen vs. Carmen Tullio, and Frankie Trott vs. "Babe" Rosales.

Orange County Athletic club fighters make up one side of the program with the crack Ebony club of Los Angeles furnishing the rest. The Ebony boys, all colored, constitute perhaps the No. 1 amateur team in Southern California. In three inter-club tournaments here they've never failed to provide spirited competition.

Wana, Westminster's able middleweight, will have to be at his best to beat Watkins, a straight-punching Los Angeles Negro who has been mastering all comers.

The Tullio-Guillen bout will be a "rubber" contest, each holding one decision over the other.

Trott and Rosales, the latter from Placentia, are nimble 118-pounders of more than average ability.

Other bouts, all four rounds:

Mike Reyes, Ebony club, vs. Jesse Sanchez, Santa Ana, 125 pounds;
Jack Curley, Ebony club, vs. Al Garcia, Santa Ana, 130 pounds;
Young Corky, Ebony club, vs. Art Aroya, Westminster, 133 pounds;
Clovis Wilson, Ebony club, vs. Kenny Matsuyama, Westminster, 128 pounds;
Bill Long, Ebony club, vs. Frank Barrago, Garden Grove, 155 pounds;
Clair Thomas, Ebony club, vs. Don Venzor, Anaheim, 120 pounds;
Al Ponce, Westminster, vs. Bill ("Tex") Cook, Orange, 135 pounds.

Trojan Grid Application Blanks Out

LOS ANGELES, Aug. 1.—More than 70,000 ticket applications today were ready for mailing to football fans of the west by the University of Southern California. Applications for public season tickets to Trojan home games are expected to reach a new record this year, according to General Manager Arnold Eddy of S. C., and preparations have been made to handle a heavy pre-season demand.

Season tickets, good for nine home games, including the double-header which opens the season September 22, will be placed on sale at a cost of $14.50, including government tax. The cost represents a discount of 10 per cent over the cost for individual tickets.

Tickets will be issued in three classifications, Eddy said. Persons who have purchased season tickets for three or more consecutive seasons, including 1933, will be placed in the most preferred classification; fans who have subscribed for the past two seasons will be grouped in the second classification, and new purchasers will receive applications in the third group.

Occidental and Whittier double-header, Sept. 22—all seats $1.10; College of the Pacific, Sept. 29—all seats $1.10; Washington State, Oct. 6—reserved seats $1.65 and general admission $1.10; Oregon State, Oct. 20—reserved seats $1.65 and general admission $1.10; California, Nov. 10 — reserved seats, $3.30 and general admission $1.65; Oregon, Nov. 17—reserved seats $1.65 and general admission $1.10; Washington, Dec. 1—reserved seats $2.20 and general admission $1.65; Notre Dame, Dec. 8—reserved seats $3.30 and general admission $1.65.

'DIZZY' DEAN FOOLISH AS FOX

Cardinal Hurler Watches Diet Like Musicomedy Star

HIS GOAL THIS YEAR 30 WINS

BY JACK CUDDY

NEW YORK, Aug. 1.—(UP)—"Dizzy" Dean is co-operating with mother nature in a determined attempt to provide the National league at last with another pitcher who can win 30 ball games in a season.

Endowed with the long, loose-muscled body of a young hound dog—the perfect pitching physique—"Dizzy" pride of the Cardinals' mound staff takes meticulous care of that body to prevent anything impairing his blinding speed and control.

This 23-year-old native of Arkansas has built up a reputation for goofiness equal to that of "Lefty" Gomez of the Yanks. But his Red Bird teammates point out that he is "dizzy like a fox" after he leaves the club house. He is one of the cleanest livers in the game.

The most famous of the three throwing Dean brothers already has won 18 games this season. Barring accident and poor support, it seems that he may chalk up 30 victories in 1934.

"And if I do get 30," he said today, "I see no reason why I can't go right on getting that number, for a couple of years at least."

The last National league flinger who considered 30 victories as the amount he should turn in was mighty Grover Cleveland Alexander who registered 31, 33 and 30 respectively in '15, '16 and '17.

"Dizzy" is as careful of his diet as a musical comedy star. He eats only two meals a day, although he has such a healthy appetite he would like to eat about five.

"I don't have to worry about weight," he explained. "I scale about 180 now, and never go above 188. But I pitch best when I'm eating lightly. Light breakfast, no lunch and then a good dinner with a nice steak. No, I don't drink coffee; use milk instead. Don't touch liquor. Take plenty of exercise. Sleep in my pajamas, uppers and lowers, taking no chances on kicking off clothes and catching cold."

Dean has been married three years to "the swellest girl in the world," a pretty brunette from Mississippi. They have no children. He and his wife like to go to the movies and band concerts in St. Louis. "No, we don't do much dancing—sort of home people."

Why does he pull off goofy stunts, like that one early this month at St. Louis when he started a bonfire on the diamond to warm his hands when the temperature was 102.

"Oh, I don't know, I like to play around and sort of let off steam. Baseball is a game, and I think the players and fans should get as much fun as possible out of it. I get a big kick out of it."

This Week's Games

Thursday—Santa Ana at Olive.
Friday—Westminster at Torrance; Huntington Beach at Anaheim; Long Beach at Fullerton.

Westminster today forged into a tie for first place in the National Night Ball league after beating Long Beach, 8-3, last night while Torrance was dropping a 6-0 verdict to Olive.

Other developments—Santa Ana's defeat by Huntington Beach and Anaheim's third successive setback at the hands of Fullerton—left seven of the league's eight clubs in the championship struggle. Never has the National wheel "enjoyed" such a spectacular race.

Jack Dugan, Orange schoolboy, hurled another fine game as Olive blanked Torrance. The 1933 Southern California champions were helpless before the kid's "double-shuffle" delivery which was recently outlawed by the Orange County Night league. Dugan fanned Dan Leonard and "Pancho" Fabergat four times each, whiffing 14 altogether. No Torrance batsman got further than second base.

Olive made one in the second and two more in the fourth when Freddy Gunther blasted a homer to center with Al Reboin aboard. The Packers picked up single runs in the fifth, sixth and seventh.

After spotting Long Beach to a three-run lead in the early innings, Westminster staged a six-run rally in the fifth and went on to hand the Admirals their twenty-first successive defeat of the season. The margin was 8-3.

Fullerton beat the Valencias for the third time this year at Fullerton last night, 11 to 3. The inspired Bellhops drove "String" McDonnell out of the box in the sixth inning and cuffed Russ Coggan for six more runs in his brief occupancy of the box. Thomas rapped a homer with two on in the eighth. Anaheim's three errors were all costly.

Post-Mortems Follow U. S. Tennis Defeat

WIMBLEDON, England, Aug. 1. — (UP) — England wrapped up the historic Davis Cup for another year today and America's quartet prepared to return to native shores.

Speculation as to what "might have been" was scarce among the players, but plentiful among American supporters, who pointed chiefly to the great fourth-set battle between Frank Shields of New York and Fred Perry of England as the real turning point in the series.

Had the tall American been able to weather that storm, there was considerable belief that he might have come through. His inability to cope with Perry's great variety of strokes in the end wore him down, and he lost, 6-4, 4-6, 6-2, 15-13.

It was believed generally that Sidney Wood, who lost to the No. 2 Englishman, H. Wilfred Austin, 6-4, 6-0, 6-8, 6-3, would probably have turned the tables had there been anything hanging on the match.

HUNTINGTON BEACH TO BATTLE GHOSTS

The Sioux City Ghosts, colorful colored club which won 54 out of 65 starts before invading the tougher Southern California night baseball sector, play an exhibition game at Huntington Beach tonight.

This will be the first of three starts for the Ghosts in Orange county territory. They are tentatively scheduled for a game in Santa Ana Friday, and will square off against the Orange 20-30 club line-up Saturday.

Howard Morning and Paul Watson are expected to share the mound burden for Huntington Beach.

CYPRESS POINT CLUB GETS CAL. AMATEUR

DEL MONTE, Aug. 1.—(UP)—The State Golf association today announced that the executive Cypress Point club course will be available for the qualifying rounds of the State Amateur golf tournament August 27 to September 2.

In addition to Cypress Point, three other courses will be used in the tournament. The championship rounds will be played at Pebble Beach, and the handicap tournament at the Monterey Peninsula club and at the Del Monte course No. 1.

The annual Del Monte women's championship will be held simultaneously.

ACE PILOTS OF CIRCUIT ENTER EVENT, CLAIM

Two new cars, the daring and skill of most of the top-notch drivers in the midget racing circuit and a new fast track with gravelled turns will be combined tonight in an assault on new records at the Santa Ana Bowl, beginning at 8:15.

Through further agreement between promoters of the Southland, the leading racers will appear at the all tracks each week. This will end the temporary absence of the faster drivers who occasionally deserted the Bowl here. As a result, fans tonight will watch Bill Betteridge, Johnny Kiem, Neil Thuesen, Chet Mortemore, "Curly" Mills and others broadside around the turns.

Kiem will be watched with interest in his new four-cylinder water-cooled Henderson with No. 52 on the tail while Tom Elliott will try out his new No. 72 for the first time. Since Betteridge has ironed out the kinks in his speedy No. 7, he has swept aside all competition on other tracks.

Orville Brunmeier and Mel Kenealey, noted for their driving exploits with the bigger racing cars in the AAA circuit, will be here to inspect the track preparatory to entering their own cars. They will see the return of the 40-lap main event and another "surprise" race which is expected to include the comic antics of four Negroes.

Offering variety to the program, the American Legion drum and bugle corps will march in "warming up" for the state convention at San Francisco this month. The Maywood Legion auxiliary will give a team drill show during the intermission.

Because 50 pushcars were trundled on the track last week, officials will conduct a trophy dash for the two fastest cars and a one-lap main event for 10 cars. The kids qualified their pushcars this morning.

The new gravel turns, especially on the north end, held up perfectly last week and will insure faster racing. Qualifying heats will be held as usual prior to 8:15.

MISS CRUICKSHANK FACES MISS SMITH

EASTHAMPTON, N. Y., Aug. 1.—(UP) — Josephine Cruickshank, seeded second but leading ranking player since default of Carolyn Babcock of Los Angeles, led 16 players into the second round of the Maidstone Invitational tournament today.

Miss Cruickshank, from Santa Ana, Calif., meets another Westerner, Theodosia Smith of Los Angeles. Miss Babcock defaulted, under doctor's orders, to Dr. Esther Bartosh of Los Angeles.

Two gained the second round through upsets, Helen Fulton of Chicago eliminating the third seeded player, the Baroness Maud Levi, Minden, Nev., and Gracyn Wheeler of Los Angeles beating Mae Ceuvorst of Wichita, Kansas, seeded eighth.

Other Westerners who advanced included Priscilla Merwin, Pasadena, Calif.; Marianne Hunt of Los Angeles and Mrs. John Van Ryn of Philadelphia, formerly "Midge" Gladman of Los Angeles.

BRITISH DOG-HOMES 'DOGGY'

England Abounds In Fashionable Canine Resorts

By HENRY M'LEMORE
(United Press Staff Correspondent)

Unlike in America, where the choice is limited to the number of relatives one has living in the country, England abounds in summer resorts run strictly for dog holiday-seekers. The papers and magazines this time of the year are filled with advertisements of places where dogs may spend two weeks or more away from the bustle and cares of the city.

In one issue of a popular magazine alone there were no fewer than 10 resorts listed, ranging from seaside retreats where "your dog will enjoy surf bathing twice a day," to mountain inns where "pets romp to their hearts' content in a majestic wood swept by cooling breezes."

The one that caught our eye, however, and made us long for a jaded wolfhound who needed a rest and complete change of scenery, was one headed "A Holiday Hotel for Your Dog!"

"Two understanding sisters," it read, "owners of a spacious farm in Sussex, invite your pet for a happy, carefree vacation. We stress freedom with discipline. Kennels are large, modern and spotless, and the dogs have acres and acres of Sussex Treeland, fairly haunted with the wild delirious smell of rabbit, to run about in. References required. Charge: 13 shillings per week for large dogs, 8 shillings small dogs."

"It is quite a problem," a dog-owner told us, "to decide which resort would make your dog happiest. Last year we sent Rover to Tilton-on-the-Sea". It seemed an ideal place. He had a large, sunny outside kennel and the cuisine, which featured rump steak and dog biscuits, was ideal. Furthermore, the proprietor assured us that the company was quiet and middle-aged and that Rover, who is nearly 10, would find it much to his liking.

"We hadn't been home two days before we received a wire from the proprietor to come at once—that Rover was miserable. When we got there we found that, because of an unexpected rush, Rover had been forced to share his kennel with a St. Bernard. He had never slept with anybody before and he couldn't get used to it. Besides, the St. Bernard insisted on sleeping on his back, with his paws spread out, which left poor Rover so little room he couldn't have slept had he cared to.

"And the company which was supposed to be middle-aged and sedate, was the wildest I ever saw. If they weren't on a bone hunt they were out in the surf chasing fish, or fighting cats, and they kept it up all day and all night. Rover hadn't slept a wink. I don't know where to send him this year, and he must just go somewhere, for he's so tired these days he can hardly go out and get the morning paper."

Smiles in SPORTS

Few of John McGraw's hired hands ever got the last word in an argument. Hugnie McQuillan tried it once—but he didn't get very far.

It seems that Hughie was keeping late hours, and the late manager of the Giants got wind of his actions. So Jawn parked himself in Hughie's room and waited until 3 o'clock in the morning for the carousing McQuillan to return.

Imagine Hughie's surprise when he saw McGraw seated in his room when he opened the door! But the pitcher was equal to the occasion—or thought he was.

"I was just over in the next room giving one of the newspaper boys an interview," he attempted to explain.

"Oh," came back the Little Napoleon, "I thought perhaps you were attending your grandmother's funeral."

Tim McGrath, the old-time fight promoter, once ran a saloon in San Francisco known as "The Tip." Naturally it was frequented by fighters—and into it one day, very much in his cups, walked "Deacon" Jones, famous colored fighter.

"Deacon" demanded a drink, and the bartender refused to give it to him.

"White boy," he shouted, "Ah's gwine pull yo' bar down if you don't give me dat drink!" whereupon he commenced tugging at the bar.

It so happened that this incident occurred on the morning of April 18, 1906, the date of the San Francisco earthquake. While Jones was tugging at the bar, the earthquake struck, and it tumbled "The Tip" down around his ears.

"Please tell Mr. McGrath Ah'm sorry Ah caused such a disturbance."

Umpires are constantly the butt of ball players' jokes, both on and off the diamond. John Quinn is no exception—as he found out at Fort Myers, Fla., where he was working out with the Athletics.

John had put in a very tough day. He went up to his hotel room with thoughts of retiring. The bed looked mighty good to him, and he took a dive at the inviting mattress, landing on it heavily.

Instead of finding soft down, John wound up on the floor with a shock that shook the hotel building. Some ball-playing "friends" of his had removed the slats from his bed!

JONES OPEN-MINDED ON NEW FOOTBALL

LOS ANGELES, Aug. 1.—(UP)—Howard Jones, head football coach at Southern California, sees both advantages and disadvantages in the use of the new, smaller football. He believes they just about will balance.

"The main thing is to get a uniform ruling ont it," he says. "If one section of the country is going to use the old ball, while another is taking up the new one, there's bound to be trouble in intersectional games."

Trojan passers in spring practice found that the new ball is easier to grip but requires more power to throw.

"They found—probably because the new pill isn't as heavy—that they had to put a lot more force into each throw," their coach reports. "From what I can see, the new ball will travel farther, if it's kicked right, than the old one. But it has to be handled just right. If a kicker gets off a bad boot, then it's just too bad with this smaller ball. That's the main difference, so far as I can see."

The Trojan mentor believes that the new ball will make no difference in the centers or backfield receivers.

"In our spring practice," he explains, "there weren't any more bad passes from center, or any more fumbles in the backfield than there ever are in spring practice."

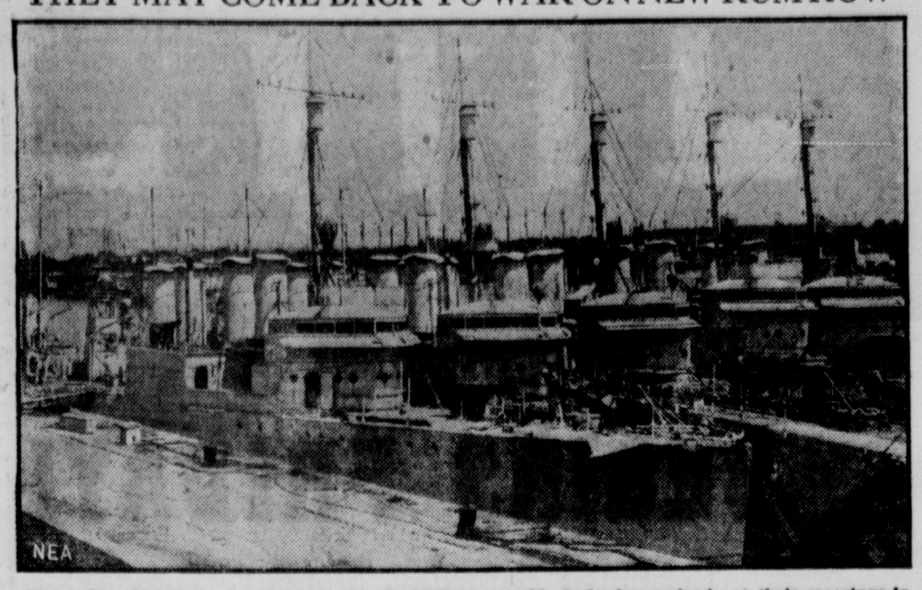
THEY MAY COME BACK TO WAR ON NEW RUM ROW



These five destroyers, veterans of the Prohibition rum blockade, lay uselessly at their moorings in the Philadelphia Navy Yard as Thomas Jefferson Coolidge, Acting Secretary of the Treasury, admitted official concern over the rapid growth of a new "Rum Row" off the New York seaboard. An increase of Coast Guard personnel and operations, now under consideration, may soon put these victims of post-Repeal economy back in service.

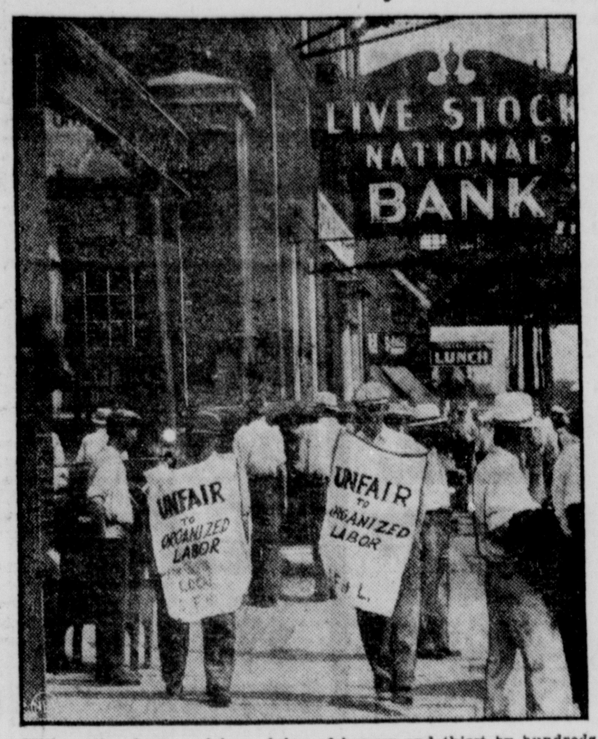
The mysterious "woman in red," who figured in the death of John Dillinger is pictured here. She is Mrs. Anna Sage, who said she knew Dillinger only as "Jimmy Lawrence." She was said to have been Dillinger's theater companion the night he was slain by federal agents.

Strike Dooms Cattle by Hundreds



With cattle, sheep, and hogs dying of hunger and thirst by hundreds in pens of the Chicago stockyards, pickets of 800 strikers of the stock handlers' union, demanding wage increases, are shown here at the yards' main entrance, keeping close guard and preventing relief measures. Demand for immediate U. S. intervention was made, as violence halted efforts to feed and water the tortured beasts.

A 1910 Speedster Goes Up Again

Perishes in Effort to Scale Everest

The daring attempt of Maurice Wilson (above) to climb Mount Everest alone failed dramatically when, according to his porters, he perished on the gale-swept glaciers but 6,000 feet short of his goal. A former British Army captain, Wilson, disguised as a Tibetan to elude authorities, made the forbidden ascent after weeks of training in an attempt to plant the Union Jack atop the peak.

Lack of Gasoline Didn't Stop Young 'Teamster'

When teamsters joined the strike movement in San Francisco, any and every sort of vehicle was pressed into service, and that lad at the left tried to do his bit to see that his mother had bread at home. But gasoline stocks quickly ebbed, and most gas stations could give you only a shrug, as the fellow at the right is doing to an anxious motorist.

(Int. News Photo)

EXPECT CROWD TO HEAR TALKS BY CANDIDATES

Considerable interest is being shown in the candidate's meeting to be held under the auspices of the League of Women Voters Thursday night at 7:30 o'clock in the Y. M. C. A. building, according to Mrs. Cra K. Heine, president of the League.

The meeting will give the general public an opportunity to hear a three-minute declaration of platform policy of all candidates seeking office for which the electorate of Santa Ana may cast their ballots in the August primaries.

Mrs. E. C. Wilson, chairman of the department of government and its operations, stated that candidate's meetings held previously have attracted large audiences, and it is anticipated that this meeting will also.

OPERATION OF COUNTY LIBRARY IS OUTLINED

Following a recent story concerning a list of new books available at branches of the Orange county free library, which has headquarters in the courthouse annex, many requests have been received there for some of the volumes named, according to library employes. Service on these books may only be had through the various branches in the county, it was pointed out.

The following statement concerning the method of operation of the county library and the service it renders, was issued today by library officials:

"The Orange county free library was established by a resolution of the board of supervisors in December, 1919. A librarian was appointed, and work was begun in September, 1921. The library is supported by a tax levy on property outside of municipalities and school districts. It gives free service to every resident in the parts of the county which support it.

A town with a library is not included, either for service or taxation, unless the city council notifies the supervisors that it wishes to be.

"The Orange county free library is simple in its method of operation, following closely that of a city library with its branches in different sections of the town. Branch libraries, in charge of custodians, are maintained in Brea, Costa Mesa, Garden Grove, El Modena, Laguna, La Habra, San Clemente, Seal Beach, Shadybrook, Tustin, Trabuco Oaks, San Juan Capistrano, Westminster and Wintersburg.

"Collections of books are sent to each of these branches, with special reference to the needs and desires of that particular locality, the largest collection being placed where the demand is greatest. These collections are changed, in part or as a whole, when the community no longer uses them. Any book, anywhere in the system, is available for the reader. All branch requests for books not in the county library are given careful consideration. If funds or future demands do not justify the purchase of an expensive book, it is supplied from the state library at Sacramento, which loans books to any library in the state. The state library pays transportation on shipments to the county, and the county pays transportation on shipments within the county.

"The teachers' professional library is a part of the county library. Any teacher in any city in the county is entitled to borrow books from the teachers' professional library, which contains books and periodicals of professional interest. Forty-three elementary schools and one high school have joined the county library system.

"Upon resolution of the district school board of trustees of any district, the school library funds may be transferred to the county library. With the pooling of funds and books, the schools receive a service which makes it possible for them to have access to four times the number of books they would have under the old system.

MYSTERY STORY AND ROMANCE AT STATE

"The Ninth Guest," a mystery story, and "Beloved," a musical romance, are the two feature films on the mid-week program at Walker's State theater.

"Beloved" brings John Boles and Gloria Stuart in leading roles supported by a cast including Dorothy Peterson, Albert Conti and Lucille Gleason. The story tells of the lifetime struggles of a composer to write "the great American symphony."

A penthouse in New York is the setting of the other feature which tells of the attempts to bring death to eight persons who are trapped there, and from which only two escape. Donald Cook and Genevieve Tobin are the featured players.

BIG CONTEST OPENS TODAY FOR 120 BOYS

Offering carrier boys an opportunity to earn clothes and cash before school opens, the Register opened the second annual "Clothes for School Contest" today for the 120 city and suburban carriers.

Duplicate prizes will be given in the city and suburban division, totalling $100 in each classification. In addition, other prizes, bonuses and cash commissions will be paid to insure that the young salesmen are repaid for their efforts in securing new subscriptions. The contest is under the direction of Circulation Manager R. M. Conklin.

The clothing prizes are now on display in the Broadway windows of Vandermast, Inc., at Fourth and Broadway. The winners can select the specified clothing or make any other choice up to the value of the prize won.

First prize in each division will consist of a $35 dress outfit, including suit, shirt, tie, underwear, sox, sweater, or other merchandise. Second prize will be a $15 outfit, third prize is $10, fourth prize $7, fifth prize $5, sixth to thirteenth prizes, $3, and fourteenth and fifteenth prizes, $2.

The prizes will be paid in addition to the regular carrier commissions earned during the contest. The competition will close on August 31 at 8 p. m. and new subscriptions must be taken for a two-months period or longer. Subscriptions mailed to the Register with request for contest credit will be honored.

There are five methods of earning votes in the contest. For each new subscription, 2000 votes are awarded. For payment in advance on new subscriptions, 1000; for payment in advance on renewal subscriptions, 1000 for one year, 500 for six months; for perfect service throughout duration of the contest, 1000; for each one increase in number of subscribers on carriers' route, August 31 over August 1, 1000.

The city carriers were told of the new contest yesterday afternoon and immediately started in search of votes. Suburban carriers have also been notified and will begin their intensive drive for subscriptions at once. The contest held last year was one of the most successful in the history of the paper, according to Conklin.

Present other than the hostess were Mesdames C. L. Benson, Sam Wiley, George Smith, Florence Ober, Claudia Boyer, Clara Whiteman, Thomas Condon, Laura Bowen and Miss Shields and Miss Linnert.

Singers To Take Part In Concert

Supplementing the weekly band concert by the Santa Ana Municipal band, the Bel Canto club of the Southern California Telephone company will offer a group of vocal numbers tomorrow night in Birch park.

E. M. Waycott, director of the organization, announced the program today for his singers. Selections will include "The Glowworm," by Paul Lincke; "Carmena," by H. Lane Wilson; "By a Waterfall" and "The Footlight Parade." The Bel Canto numbers are scheduled for 8 o'clock. Mrs. Blanche Hackelton will act as accompanist for the group.

The band numbers will open with the stately "March" from Wagner's music drama, "Tannhauser." The overture, Keler-Bela's "Ungarische Lustpiel" or "Hungarian Comedy," is distinguished by a brilliant style and clever arrangement and is based on the national dance, the "Csardas."

Director Leland Auer has chosen "Tales for the Vienna Woods," by Strauss, for the third number, and the next will be "Echoes From the Metropolitan Opera House," arranged by Moses-Tobini, which includes masterpieces familiar to every concert-goer. Included in this selection are strains from Gounod's "La Reine de Saba," Wagner's "Venusberg" from Tannhauser, "Song to an Evening Star," a march from the "Ring des Nibelungen," Leoncavallo's "Pagliacci," Weber's "Invitation a la Valse," Mascagni's "Cavalleria Rusticana" and Liszt's "Second Hungarian Rhapsody."

For the lighter half of the program, Auer has chosen a selection from Victor Herbert's "Babes in Toyland," followed by Cesar Cui's original "Orientale" from the violin suite "Kaleidoscope."

"The Flight of the Bumble Bee," from Rimsky-Korsakow's "The Legend of the Tsar Salton," will precede the "Bacchnale," from Saint-Saens' sacred drama, "Sampson and Delila." The descriptive fantasia, "In the Clock Store," by Orth, will be followed by the closing number, a march by Goodman, "Tribute to Sousa."

Auer has announced that the last program of the summer season will be an all-request program, not limited to the numbers already played this season. Harry Hanson, president and manager of the band, is receiving requests until August 15.

Pays $150 Fine On Drunk Charge

Pleading guilty to a charge of driving while intoxicated, George Brown, 33, truck driver of 191 North Tustin street, Orange, drew a fine of $150, lost his driver's license for six months and was placed on probation for a year, when he appeared before Judge A. W. Swayze in Orange yesterday. He paid the fine.

It was claimed that Brown's car turned over twice in the plaza square Sunday. He was arrested by Officers A. H. Westerman and James Johnson.

W. C. Watson of North Orange street drew a fine of $50 when he appeared in Judge Swayze's court on a charge of assault and battery. The complaining witness was Mrs. David Etters, his daughter. The charge grew out of a family dispute, it was reported.

TAX WASTE IS CONDEMNED BY COUNTY C. OF C.

Making six definite recommendations regarding the local tax situation and declaring that extravagance and waste in any department of government must reflect itself in increased taxation, a report submitted by the tax committee through J. A. Knapp, chairman, was adopted at a meeting of Associated Chambers of Commerce of Orange County last night in Laguna Beach.

"The people pay the taxes and cannot escape them," Knapp said. "Extravagance and waste in any department of government must reflect itself in increased taxation. The only way to reduce taxes is to reduce expenses.

"The tax burden and problem affects every investor, every home owner, every family and every worker. Not one of us escapes its crushing burden. That is why each and every one of us should do his part to create efficient and economical government, and to study the necessity behind every tax demand from the smallest county seat in the land to the capitol at Washington."

Recommendations made by the tax committee, adopted as part of the report, are as follows:

"1—We believe the present operation of the sales tax is fair and effective and therefore recommend its continuance.

"2—We suggest that definite information be widely disseminated regarding the recent changes in the collection and expenditure of corporation taxes and the way in which this will affect the tax rate on real property in this county. Since approximately 60 per cent of the county taxes formerly went to education, what decrease shall the owner of real property realize now that the state pays the education bill?

"3—We recommend the 40 cent road tax be reduced to 10 cents, said reduction to begin this year, or eliminated altogether, since the state has taken over so much of the county highway system. The taxpayer does not see a present necessity for this tax.

"4—We believe there is a duplication and even a triplication of expense in our library systems by maintaining city, county and school libraries under present methods.

"5—The county government act provides for our system of departments of which, in many instances two or more might be combined, causing less expense and greater efficiency. We suggest that efforts be made looking toward legislation to correct these conditions.

"6—Since the average incomes of our people have not been materially increased, and since certain groups of school teachers have volunteered to accept and have accepted reduced salaries for their services we suggest that other groups might do likewise and thereby materially help the struggling taxpayer."

Tragic Anniversaries

AUGUST 1, 1914

France Mobilizes; Germany Declares War on Russia; British Fleet Is Made Ready

BY MORRIS GILBERT
NEA Service Staff Writer

It's August 1, 1914—and war! Swiftly, now, move tragic events that finally embroil the whole of Europe in armed conflict such as the world never before has seen . . .

Paris, 3.45 p. m.—General mobilization ordered.

London.—French ambassador pleads with Sir Edward Grey to reach a decision. He adds: "After the naval agreement between our two countries by which our fleet has been concentrated in the Mediterranean to permit yours to concentrate in the North Sea, with the result that if the German fleet chose to destroy Calais, Boulogne and Cherbourg, we could not oppose the least resistance, you tell me that your government cannot decide to intervene. How can I send such a message to my government?"

The British Fleet Mobilizes

Sir Edward observes that no written agreement exists and that the decision rests with parliament alone.

Winston Churchill, again acting on his own hook, gives orders for the British fleet to mobilize. "We had no legal authority to call out the naval reserves," he declares in his Memoirs. The act was ratified next day by the cabinet.

COMPARE VALUE OF FERTILIZER FOR GROWERS

By E. E. EASTMAN
Assistant Farm Advisor

Citrus growers can many times effect a considerable saving in the purchase of their organic fertilizers if they keep in mind one or two salient points.

In purchasing any form of organic material to apply as a fertilizer only two things have been found to be deserving of consideration. One of these is the amount of nitrogen present. It is a necessary fertilizer readily used by plants and the most quickly depleted of our fertilizing materials.

The other thing of value is the organic matter present in the material purchased. Organic matter is a source of nitrogen, phosphorus, potash, calcium, iron, and all other minerals that are used by plants in their growth.

Orangic matter also acts as a food for the beneficial bacterial life of the soil and in decomposing produces certain compounds that assist in dissolving the minerals of the soil.

Allowing $2 per unit or per cent for nitrogen and 5 cents per unit for organic matter, various sources of material can be compared as to their value:

Manure, per ton price paid, $2.50, nitrogen content, 3/4 per cent ($1.50); organic matter, 30 per cent ($1.50) actual value to grower, $3.

Other organic material, per ton price paid, $26; nitrogen content, 6 per cent ($12); organic matter, $65 per cent ($3.25); actual value to grower, $15.25.

HEADQUARTERS FOR QUINN ARE OPENED

Orange county headquarters of the John R. Quinn-for-Governor organization have been opened at 605 North Main street, it was announced today. At the same time, details of the permanent campaign organization were made public.

Charles D. Van Wyk, prominent Legionnaire, has been made general chairman of the county organibation and M. E. Meeks secretary. An advisory committee of workers from each community was also appointed.

Another meeting of Quinn adherents is scheduled for next Monday evening, August 6, at the new headquarters, to which all supporters of John R. Quinn are invited.

CITY P.-T. A. TO HOLD SCHOOL OF INSTRUCTION

Instructions, new ideas and methods, for the benefit of all officers and chairmen of Santa Ana Parent Teacher associations, will be offered at the first school of instruction ever conducted by the Santa Ana Council of Parents and Teachers, which will be held at the Willard auditorium Tuesday morning, August 7, from 9 to 12 o'clock.

Although especially planned to assist officers and chairmen just beginning their year's work the meeting will be open to all members, Mrs. W. A. R. Crawford, council president, said today.

Following a short general session which will be addressed by Mrs. W. T. Kirven, Fourth District president, and Superintendent Frank Henderson, separate conferences will be conducted.

Two state chairmen will be present. Mrs. W. A. Price, of Los Angeles, editor of the California Parent-Teacher magazine, will assist Mrs. H. I. Thornburgh, council magazine chairman, with her conference, and Mrs. R. T. Goodhue, Glendale, state publicity chairman, will join with Mrs. Dale Elliott, council chairman, in conducting the conference for publicity chairman. Mrs. Ruth Riggle, council chairman of membership, will be assisted by Mrs. Oliver Wickersheim, of Orange, district chairman of membership. An hour's conference on programs, led by Mrs. Barry McPhee, council chairman, promises real assistance to the program chairmen of the city associations, Mrs. Crawford said.

Officers will confer with Mrs. Crawford, council president, on matters of procedure, organization and requirements. A class in finance and budget will be held by Mrs. Georgie B. Farren, council treasurer.

Following adjournment at noon, a one o'clock luncheon honoring state and district guests will be held at the Doris Kathrynn Tea Rooms. Reservations for the luncheon may be made through Mrs. George Ames before Monday.

Objections To Seining Are Voiced

Orange county's coastline faces the grave danger of having fishing practically exterminated if the practice of purse seining by large commercial canneries continues, Dr. C. G. Huston, president of the Orange County Coast association and prominent member of the Associated Chambers of Commerce of Orange County, declared at a meeting of the latter group last night in Laguna Beach.

Dr. Huston, who was supported in his stand by Harry Welch, secretary of Newport Harbor Chamber of Commerce, and others, presented a resolution urging the division of fish and game of the state and all law enforcement agencies rigid enforcement of the laws and regulations pertaining to protection of the fishing resources.

The resolution said that it is reported that certain commercial fishermen are taking fish in some cases in unlawful nets and in purse seining and in other cases from prohibited waters off the coast of Orange county to the great detriment and damage of marine life in the waters.

Dr. Huston said the practice of the large cannery boats has been to locate a large school of fish, throw a purse seine over the school and take the entire school, large fish, small fish, eggs and all. He said that he has been informed by fishermen that if the practice continues fishing will be a thing of the past along the coastline here in short time. He said California is the only state that permits this type of fishing. The canneries can use only a certain amount of the fish, he said, and the rest is made into fertilizer.

DEMOCRATIC CLUB POSTPONES MEETING

FULLERTON, Aug. 1.—The regular meeting of Fullerton Democratic club, scheduled for tonight, has been postponed because of the warm weather and because so many members are away on vacation, according to announcement today.

ADVISOR TELLS WHY COUNTY IN DROUGHT AREA

When public attention was first drawn to the fact that Orange county had been designated as a drought relief area many wondered why, as there was little evidence of drought in the fruit and vegetable sections. This drought relief program concerns only cattle producers, according to W. M. Cory, assistant farm advisor. "Emergency drought area" therefore has a meaning to cattlemen only.

The drought relief program has a two-fold function. It is first to supply relief where there is an actual water or food shortage by the purchase of such stock. Secondly, producers in officially designated drought areas may sell low grade cattle to conserve available feed for those cattle that remain. By this means cattlemen may reduce their herds to the number that their feed supply will safely carry through and in so doing improve the general quality of their herd by culling out the poorer individuals. Cattle which are purchased, "accepted for use" are to be processed, canned, and distributed for relief purposes, and this will not interfere with the regular channels of trade.

At a recent committee meeting of cattlemen in the farm advisor's office, it was decided to proceed with the organization of a county drought relief committee. The personnel of this committee is to consist of five members, one cattleman appointed by the California Cattlemen's Association, one sheepman appointed by the California Wool Grower's Association, one cattleman and one dairyman appointed at large, and the fifth member to be appointed by the other four.

Application blanks for cattle appraisals are now in the farm advisor's office and as soon as the personnel of the committee has been approved and an appraisal committee chosen, action can be taken on the applications.

House-guest Inspires Pleasant Luncheon And Bridge

Complimenting Mrs. Stanley Le Lievre of Mexico City, who with her young daughter Janice, recently arrived to be houseguests of Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Wright, 2320 Riverside Drive, was a luncheon and bridge at which Mrs. Wright yesterday entertained a little group of friends.

It was in the Doris Kathryn Tea Shoppe that the hostess received her guests for luncheon at 1 o'clock, later repairing with them to her home where everything was in readiness for the contract games of the afternoon. Bright summer flowers, similar to those which had graced the luncheon tables, added their charm to the home surroundings.

Mrs. Maurice Enderle scored high in the bridge contest, with Mrs. Ernest L. Spencer making second high score. When Mrs. Wright made her prize awards she included also a pretty guest gift for Mrs. Le Lievre, inspiration for the hospitality.

Invitation to the enjoyable afternoon was extended to Mesdames Francis M. Findlay, D. K. Hammond, Maurice Enderle, John Backus, Ernest L. Spencer, Robert Bartholomew, Fred Newcomb jr., Clarence Nisson, L. Allen Wallace, A. L. Hellberg, Loyal K. King, Herbert Salveson, Orin B. Robertson, Cassius Paul and Harry G. Huffmann. Mrs. Hammond's mother, Mrs. F. G. Hoxie, also dropped in for the late afternoon after attending the Ebell garden party at the Harwood home.

Mr. and Mrs. Barnett Spend Honeymoon in Mountain Resort

Returning from a short honeymoon stay at Big Bear, Mr. and Mrs. Logan A. Barnett are completing plans for establishing their home in this city, where a host of friends await to offer congratulations upon their recent marriage.

Mrs. Barnett was Miss Grace S. Middlebrook, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Roy Middlebrook, 1507 Durant street. It was on Monday, July 23, that she became the bride of Mr. Barnett, son of Mrs. Fred Truman, 524 East Pine street, at quiet rites in the First Presbyterian manse, with the pastor, the Rev. O. Scott McFarland, reading the service.

Only immediate relatives were present for the wedding for which the bride was gowned in powder blue crepe, worn with becoming white hat and white accessories. Her flowers were gardenias in a corsage bouquet, and as the "something borrowed" she wore a pendant belonging to Miss Murrell Reagan, her maid of honor, and as the "something old," an exquisite lace handkerchief of European convent work belonging to Miss Opha Coulson.

Given a particularly lovely setting, the wedding on Saturday, July 28, of Miss Mary Frances Lowe of Riverside and Edward W. Ellis of Santa Ana, took place at 5 o'clock in the afternoon in the garden surrounding the Garden Grove Methodist Episcopal church.

The Rev. William Harkness, close family friend of the bride and groom, read the rites as the young couple stood by a quaint, old-fashioned well, green with ivy and fern fronds.

Miss Lowe, daughter of Mrs. Clarice Lowe of Riverside, was a charming bride in her smart fall suit of navy blue sheer wool with all dress accessories to match, and completed with a corsage cluster of gardenias and white sweet peas. Her sister-in-law, Mrs. Kenneth Lowe of Riverside, served as honor matron.

Mr. Ellis, who is the son of Mr. and Mrs. B. W. Ellis of Pittsburgh, Penna., had the assistance of his brother, Fred O. Ellis as best man. Mrs. Lowe, Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth Lowe and Mr. and Mrs. Fred O. Ellis were the only relatives present for the rites.

The new Mrs. Ellis is a graduate of U. C. L. A. where she was affiliated with Theta Upsilon sorority. Mr. Ellis, who is in the printing department of the Register, attended Bethany college in West Virginia, and Carnegie Institute of Technology in Pittsburgh.

ANN MEREDITH'S MIXING BOWL

EAT AND GROW SLIM

Dinner

Large sliced steamed halibut
4 tablespoons string beans.
3 tablespoons steamed cauliflower
1 large steamed tomato
1 tablespoon melted butter dressing with lemon and paprika
Slice of watermelon
Black coffee or clear tea
Calory total, 410

I saw this dinner cooked yesterday by a pressure cooker demonstrator. Possibly you have one; if you haven't, you are sure to have a flat-bottomed steamer and a big kettle, so we'll use that equipment for the diet dinner. Have you ever used parchment paper in cooking? If not, do get a package, and use it for meals like this.

Prepare each vegetable, wrap loosely in parchment paper and place in the steamer over galloping boiling water, in this order: 15 minutes for the beans first, then the cauliflower for 10 minutes, at this point put in the tomatoes, and in a small pan, the piece of halibut, the pan being placed under the steamer, in the water, but not the water in the pan. . .do you see? Cover the vessel and continue steaming for 25 minutes.

Place the cooked fish in center of platter, arrange the vegetables around it and dress with butter seasoned with lemon juice and paprika (the butter in the diet dinner is for that particular portion. Add more to dress the full platter).

Baked or steamed potatoes complete the dinner for the family.

The expensive bottled capers may be duplicated in Pickled Nasturtium Seeds. Do them this way.

Gather tender green nasturtium seeds, remove steams and put in salt water overnight. Freshen in cold water, pack in bottles and fill the bottles with hot vinegar. If preferred, the vinegar may be sweetened and spiced. Use the nasturtium capers with a boiled cream sauce for fish or mutton (boiled) or use in salad dressings.

TODAY'S RECIPE

Citron Preserves

Pare ripened citron, remove seeds and cut in thin slices. Weigh the citron, then put in a kettle with water to cover, and cook until the citron is semi-transparent. Weigh an equal amount of sugar into another kettle, add some of the water the citron was cooked in, and make a heavy syrup.

Add 2 slices of lemon for each pound of fruit syrup. Cook small amounts of the boiled citron sliced at a swift boil 15 minutes, skim out and put in hot sterile jars, and when all the citron has been preserved, boil down the syrup and fill the jars to the brim. Seal at once, and be sure the jars are air-tight.—Contributed receipt.

Preserves with this density of sugar have an approximate calory value of 125 per tablespoon.

A few cans of soup on your cupboard shelves will solve the problem of an appetizing supper in 30 minutes. Boil a pound of spaghetti in lots of salted water, drain and pile on a platter, dotting with butter. In the meantime, open a can of cream of mushroom soup, dilute with same amount of thin cream, and when it bubbles, stir in the yolks of two eggs, beaten, with a scant teaspoon of cornstarch. Pour over the hot spaghetti, sprinkle with grated cheese and serve with a crisp lettuce salad and coffee.

Garden Setting Offers Ideal Surroundings For Party Guests

Many factors entered into the success of the Ebell garden party held yesterday afternoon in the grounds of the Dr. D. A. Harwood home, 2467 Riverside Drive. There was the initial hospitable planning of finance committee members of the society, and the generosity of Mrs. Harwood in placing her home at their command. The varied games program, the perfection of the day, and finally the presence of some 300 women gowned in the graceful styles of the moment, all contributed to the general success.

Interest of members and friends of Ebell society was increased by the fact that the Harwood home was so recently chosen by a Hollywood film company for sequences of "Peck's Bad Boy," with young Jackie Cooper in the star role. Yesterday's guests easily understood the company's choice, for the gardens are indeed beautiful. Tables were spaced beneath the trees of the river bank, around the lily pool and on wide, grassy lawns where they were shaded by harlequin-striped umbrellas.

While the party details were planned by Mrs. W. E. Watkins and her finance committee, Mesdames J. H. Metzgar, Alex Brownridge, B. V. Curry, D. A. Harwood, L. M. Forcey and George Raymer, they had delegated hostess duties to Ebell officers. So arriving guests were welcomed by Mrs. Charles V. Davis, president, and her staff, who assumed charge of the various table groups. These officer-hostesses included Mesdames J. N. Cloyes, W. E. Watkins, F. E. Coulter, Ralph Smedley, Warren Brakeman, L. M. Forcey, Frank Paterson, J. T. Wilson, George Dunton, Hugh Lowe, George Briggs, W. I. Ferrey, F. F. Mead and W. Maxwell Burke.

There were different groups for different amusements, with prizes awarded for special scores. These prizes proved to be luscious homemade cakes, donated by Mesdames J. J. Clark, Ralph Mosher, Charles Kelley, R. O. Winckler, James Harding, Terry E. Stephenson, Frank Paterson and T. A. Winbigler. Each cake was contained in an intriguing hat box, handmade and hand-decorated in futuristic effect by the committee on prizes, Mrs. A. G. Flagg, chairman; Mrs. Philip Hatzfeld, Mrs. Earl Morrow and Mrs. Roy Hall, from materials furnished by Mesdames Earl Morrow, W. L. Deimling, Victor Montgomery, W. B. Williams and R. G. Tuthill.

Winners were Mrs. Sara Haddon, Mrs. Norbert Lentz and Mrs. R. G. Tuthill, contract players; Mrs. Frank Platt and Mrs. Gorgeson, auction players; Mrs. O. H. Barr, games; Mrs. C. A. Vance and Mrs. Dudley, lucky numbers. Awards were made while refreshments of fruit punch and delectable little home-made cake squares were being served by members of Girls' Ebell, always to the fore in assisting the senior club, and most charming in their colorful garden party frocks. Mrs. Byron Curry, Mrs. Aldric Worswick and Mrs. E. B. Sprague had planned the refreshments.

Adopting a color harmony of soft bright hues in summer flowers, Miss Geraldine Cole, 618 Cypress street, honored Miss Maybelle Ball with a bridal shower Saturday evening when the honor guest had the pleasure of meeting many college friends. The wedding of Miss Ball, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. H. H. Ball, 111 West Seventeenth street, and William Hewitt, son of Mr. and Mrs. J. Lee Hewitt, 411 West Santa Clara avenue, is to take place August 7 in Glenwood Mission Inn, Riverside.

Bridge was played during the evening, and the honor guest herself scored high, winning a set of tea towels in Spanish colors. Mrs. Alex Chastain, with second high score, received a salt and pepper set, and a paring knife was consolation gift to Miss Josephine Ball.

A bridal motif was suggested at the refreshment hour, when Miss Cole was assisted in serving by her mother, Mrs. Fred L. Cole. A small bride and groom were prominent on the table where Miss Ball was seated. Daintiies included individual wedding cakes iced in bright colors.

At the conclusion of this interval, a tea cart laden with packages, was wheeled in and placed before Miss Ball. All types of kitchenware were represented in the gifts, which were in bright-colored Vollrath enamel.

Sharing Miss Cole's hospitality were her honor guest, Miss Ball, with the latter's mother and grandmother, Mrs. Harry Ball and Mrs. Lavina Williams, and her sisters, the Misses Josephine and Winifred Ball; Mesdames John Tessmann, Juliette Van Meter, J. Lee Hewitt, Marie McGinnis, John Gould, C. L. Neuschwanger, Fred L. Cole; the Misses Catherine Chapman, Gertrude Hubbard and Velma Witt of Santa Ana; Miss Ruth Brubaker and Mrs. Alex Chastain of Orange; Mesdames Ryder H. Myers and J. L. Hewitt of Los Angeles; Miss Jane Cunningham of Berkeley, and Miss Edith Lindquist of Hemet.

Late New From Orange And Nearby Towns

PLANS TO GROW TROPICAL FRUIT ON RANCH HERE

ORANGE, Aug. 1.—After spending 26 years in the Panama canal zone, during which time he took a prominent part in making possible the construction of the canal project, Dr. Henry J. Williams has located permanently in Orange county, where he will carry on experiments for the adaption of tropical fruits and vegetables to the Southern California climate.

Dr. Williams spent several weeks touring Southern California in looking for a suitable location, and finally picked a tract in the Orange Park Acres just above the El Modena grade as the best suited for his purpose.

Associated with Dr. Williams as his partner is Richard Eckert. They are now enclosing their experimental tract with a hot house which will be needed to protect the tender plants during the winter months.

After quiting his practice in the Adirondacks because of ill health, Dr. Williams was recuperating at the canal zone in 1905 while en route to the west coast, at the time preliminary canal operations were under way. While there, he became acquainted with the late Colonel Gorgas, who was in charge of combating yellow fever, malarie, and other tropical diseases which infected the district, and his assistant, Major Carter.

At their request, because of the shortage of doctors who could stand the tropical climate, Dr. Williams accepted a position under the government eliminating the disease which ravaged the canal workers. He was placed in charge of the Gatun dam district, which is one and a half miles long and 300 feet wide at the base.

Yellow fever, that dread menace which had helped to crush previous attempts to build a canal across the isthmus, was eliminated in a few months by the drainage of swamps and the extermination of mosquitos which carried the yellow fever germ.

"You only have yellow fever once," stated Dr. William. "If you live, you are immune, otherwise you die. On the other hand, each attack of malaria makes one more susceptible to recurring attacks of the disease. As a result the canal workers frequently are victims of the disease for many succeeding periods. I, myself, was in the hospital dozens of times, in spite of all preventative measures, including the eating of nine grains of quinine per day."

The Gatun dam is so large according to Dr. Williams that there is a golf course located on its top. The dam is lined with a fence made out of railroad ties, he said, and all people fishing in the lake are warned to remain back of this fence to avoid being dragged off the dam into the water by the fish. The top of the dam is often slippery and the fighting tarpon averaging 100 pounds are so powerful three fishermen were pulled off the dam before the fence was constructed.

An interesting feature of the canal operation is that while the larger ships have a clearance of only 15 inches on each side, they are electrically controlled and never touch the sides of the canal. Also, that the man who puts the ships through the canal never sees them, inasmuch as he is underground and operates the canal by means of a small model which operates the electrical control of the canal locks.

BEGIN HERE TODAY

Monnie O'Dare, in love with Dan Cardigan, local heir to a fortune, believes she is losing him to Sandra Lawrence who has pretended to be Monnie's friend. In spite of the attentions of Charles Eustace, handsome newcomer, Monnie pines for Dan. After neglecting her for some time Dan again seems interested.

At a big party which Sandra gives, Dan is missing. There is a scene between Sandra and Hetty, her maid, who believes Sandra is "vamping" James, the chauffeur. Monnie and Kay, her younger sister, have been trying to keep secret from their mother the fact that their brother, Bill, is in love with a married woman. Mrs. O'Dare learns this through a neighbor's gossip.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY.

CHAPTER XX

"It's all—pretty unsatisfactory," Monnie murmured, pleating the folds of her white scarf.

"I know that—I know that," Dan protested, eyeing her uneasily. They were seated on the bank of the river under the low hanging branches of the willows. The day was clear and hot. No haze dimmed the imperturbable blue of the sky. Monnie's white linen looked cool in the glimmer.

"It's uncomfortable for me," Monnie went on, speaking quickly, eagerly as if to justify her complaint. "Mother wants to know where I'm going and I tell her. She doesn't say anything—but of course I know what she feels."

"Well, what does she feel?" Dan's tone was almost sullen, although he tried to keep a bantering note in it.

"That—that I oughtn't to go on like this, seeing you all the time, being serious about it," the girl explained with difficulty. "I know we're engaged, Dan. That part of it's all right! But so long as you want to keep it in the dark, well, it makes it so much harder for me. You know as well as I do how tongues wag. And we've been going places together for a long time, Dan," she reminded him, trying to speak lightly.

"It's nobody else's business!" he declared. "You know—and I know. Whose affair is it, anyway? My mother'd raise the roof if she knew about it. All I want is to keep things dark until I come into Uncle Frank's money. That's in January, right after my birthday. Then we can walk off and tell them all to go to—!" He reached over and drew her toward him, his tones muffled. "Monnie, sweets, let's forget all about them. We're wasting our time talking about things that don't matter. Let's talk about ourselves."

Inwardly the girl sighed. Their discussions always ended this way. Dan's kiss stopped her protests. While she was with him she, too, could believe that their affairs were distinctly their own. But when she met curious, prying friends, she longed for the right to tell them her glorious secret. "Dan Cardigan and I are engaged."

The joyful comments, the pleased, envious, interested looks—all these would be part of being formally engaged. Notes, little presents, the right to be seen everywhere with Dan, his acknowledged choice. Best of all her mother's sense of security. She sighed aloud now, thinking of all this.

Dan turned to look at her. "What's the matter now?" he demanded. "I thought we had it all thrashed out?" He was frowning. Monnie, anxious to keep him in good temper, flashed him a reassuring smile.

"Just happy," she lied. "It's been a wonderful day. Let's gather up the things now and go along. I want to pick some raspberries."

But all the rest of the long, golden afternoon her mind kept harking back to the conversation. Dan was perfectly right about the whole thing, she would assure herself. And yet—and yet she would be willing to give up everything, all the brilliant hopes of Uncle Frank's money and the rest, if Dan would say to her, joyously, some afternoon, "Let's dash over to High Springs, and get married."

He had, once before, but he hadn't really meant it. He would have been terribly surprised if Monnie had taken him at his word. Now she would give anything in the world to hear him say those words. She would take the supreme chance, the chance of a battle with poverty, to be the acknowledged wife of Daniel Cardigan, junior. No more meeting Dan by stealth, so that the argus-eyed Mrs. Cardigan would not hear of their renewed devotion. No more eluding the subject, blushing and stammering, when people asked her about Dan. No inward rage and torment of jealousy when Sandra's name and his appeared, linked ,in accounts of social activities.

"I know you love me, Dan," she would explain patiently. "I understand. Of course it's all right. In January—in January—"

It would not be long until January. They could wait. They were both young. But this was high summer. The days and nights were achingly beautiful. Never did Monica see the moon riding high but that she longed to share the sight with Dan. She wanted to share homely things with him, too. Breakfasts and casual rides in the country. All the sweet privileges of the young wife seemed marvelous to her. It was difficult, sometimes, to believe that all this would be theirs a little later.

Meantime she had to be patient.

* * *

Charles Eustace came to the house rather often these days. Monnie, resting, limp and relaxed, in the porch swing, would hear a light step on the walk, would look up to see Charles, handsome, dark, smiling, towering over her. She could be easy with this man. They could talk, simply, deeply, for hours. Charles, she felt certain, was enormously attracted to Kay. Of course, it was absurd—Kay was not yet 17—10 years his junior. And yet, what a splendid thing it would be for her little sister if this man were to want her for his wife! He had everything—looks, family, money, what the world called "background." He had, too, character of a fine sort, apparent in every look, every single gesture.

"He's fascinating," Monnie acknowledged to herself when alone. "I like him so much. But love—no, I could never love Charles."

It was just as well, she reminded herself, that Charles was attracted to Kay. Kay was sparkling, animated. She made a splendid foil for his dark and slightly mysterious good looks.

"He, averred Kay one night, discussing him, "had some sort of heavy love affair in France last year."

"How do you know?"

Monica couldn't have explained the queer little tug at her heartstrings. Charles involved in an affair with a woman—important enough to have got into the papers! Absurd! She didn't like it.

"I don't believe it," she said stoutly. "Rissy talks such nonsense and so does Lib."

"Well, I don't know," Kay told her carelessly. "He always sheers away from the subject of his stay abroad, if you notice it."

Monica had observed this. But she refused to credit Rissy's gossip. It all sounded so—well, so shady. She just didn't believe it.

* * *

"Anybody'd think you were annoyed to find that Charles had ever loked at anyone else," she said in a small, child's voice. This Monica found extremely irritating and said so.

"I think that's perfect nonsense," she said. "I never heard anything so silly." Her cheeks, she discovered, were hot—were blazing. She felt furious with Kay—with everybody.

Monica stared at her. Was it true—was she completely indifferent to this distinguished young man who lent her books and walked with her under the trees and told her amusing stories in his lazy cultivated voice?

"He's been awfully nice to me," she said. "Naturally I hate to think he's not—not all I thought him."

She couldn't understand why Kay smiled so meaningly.

It was odd how Charles' name cropped up in conversation these days. When she met Dan that night at the turn of the road where he had waited for her in the summer dusk he said, "Doesn't that fellow hang around an awful lot nowadays?"

Monnie, thinking of other things, frankly stared. "Who?"

"Dan, don't be a goose. He comes to see the family."

"Expect me to believe that?" But Dan's tone was milder.

"He's interested in Kay. He's been wonderful to her. Dr. Waterman has recommended her for a job in the library. She's starting next Monday and is wild with joy."

Dan said nothing but he seemed, for the moment, mollified.

Later, lying awake in the little room under the hot roof, listening to Kay's even breathing, hearing Bill creak up the stairs, Monnie found herself thinking of Charles Eustace—of what Kay had said.

She turned and twisted from side to side. She could not seem to get to sleep. After all, what did it matter what Charles had been in the past, what adventures he had known? He was nothing to her. She was engaged to Dan Cardigan—although no one knew it.

Wee Scouty, still tied to the chair told Dotty she must have a care in sneaking from the Meanies' camp. "Crawl on the ground," said he.

"Then, when you're almost out of sight, jump up and run with all your might. I'll keep the Meanies eating big gumdrops. Leave that to me."

"Okay," said Dotty. "Here I go. At first I'll take it rather slow, and then, just as you say, I'm going to run like everything.

"Don't worry! You won't sit there long. Soon you'll be back where you belong. A bunch of fighting Cheerful Chaps o'er here I'm going to bring."

* * *

Then Dotty left, and Scouty cried, "Hey, Meanies, now that you have tried those very tasty gumdrops, why don't you all try some more?

"And, if you don't mind, feed me one, to pay me back for what I've done. I am the one who told you there was quite a treat in store."

As Dotty reached the other camp, she shouted, "Get set for a tramp. We're going to charge the Meanies. They will be caught off their guard.

"I found wee Scouty. He agreed to carry out the plan we need. Here's where we win this funny war, and it won't be so hard."

* * *

"Hurray for you," cried Duncy, "Gee, you're just as smart as you can be. I'll take the lead. Come on, you Cheerful Chaps, we're on our way!

"Across the open field we'll scoot. Have your cork guns all set to shoot. It thrills me just to think that we'll have Scouty back today."

They reached the Meany camp and then, the Meanies started running when the Cheerful Chaps and Tinies let their little cork guns pop.

Wee Windy shouted, "See them run! Oh my, but this is lots of fun. Keep shooting at them. Then they won't have nerve enough to stop."

WILKIE TELLS PLATFORM IN CHAMBER TALK

PLACENTIA, Aug. 1.—Capt. Don Wilkie, candidate for sheriff of Orange county, yesterday talked to members of Placentia Chamber of Commerce and their guests on his platform, outlining the many ways in which he would change activity and organization of that office if elected. He was introduced by John Tuffree.

Prior to his talk, discussion centered on the trial of Charles McLauchlan, held in Placentia last Tuesday, and the comments that had been made in the Santa Ana Register concerning that trial, with H. H. Hale, president of the chamber, settling the discussion by saying, "Let communism alone; it will die a natural death, and the best cure for it is prosperity."

Criticizes Paper

The discussion opened with a report by Stuart Strathman, secretary of the chamber, who declared that "the Santa Ana Register beat the big newspapers by issuing two comic sections prior to Sunday, one on Wednesday and one on Friday." He criticised the Register as "the only newspaper outside of the Western Worker that ever criticised the trial of a communist," and presented a letter of protest, as to the part the chamber had in the affair. He said Tom McFadden, attorney at the trial, and S. B. Kaufman, district attorney, were only guests at the chamber of commerce luncheon the day of the trial. He also suggested passage of approval of the letter, and it was advised the letter should be sent to the Register and other papers. A few suggestions from the floor that reporters be barred from meetings met with no action by directors, and Hale settled the question by advising that the question be left alone.

After Hale's suggestion, John Tuffree humorously suggested that it is likely the Placentia chamber of commerce's fault that prosperity has not returned, "for the chamber is usually charged with starting everything."

Other guests at the meeting were Mrs. Belle Spangler, of Santa Ana, candidate for county recorder, and Mrs. Oxarart of La Habra, introduced by Mrs. Nelle Cline, and Max Royer.

No Promises to Pay

Among the changes he would desire in the sheriff's office are the taking of the office out of politics, according to Wilkie. He said he is running without political endorsement, and with no money or sponsors behind him, and will have no promises to pay with tax payers' money if he is elected. He also declared that "I will not ridicule any other man to get this office, and if I am elected, will not spend time in perpetuating myself in office, but will get the office another time because I have delivered the goods."

He declared he has had 29 years experience in secret service and such duties. In discussing the Santa Ana sheriff's office, he said it cost $93,000 to run it and the jail, while the whole United States department of secret service cost but six times that amount for the same period, 1933, and that "I believe it is a stewardship, that office, and the sheriff owes to taxpayers a quarterly report; that policy has not been followed in Orange county for many years, in detail."

Says Substations Needed

Another plan, that the office may be placed on a working basis like the United States Secret service, is to place substations at strategic points, with radio equipped cars, on which messages can be either received or sent, he said. Wilkie said the outlying points would be Irvine, Placentia, La Habra, Buena Park, Seal Beach and Huntington Beach, and added "you can see those points are not to win votes for next election, for they are not central as to voting population, but are placed for expediency of service, at converging roads."

In answering a question by Jim Tuffree, as to whether he would wait until election to raid places that have been operating for months, he said that the sheriff has no excuse to offer for not doing his duties; if the district attorney's office fails to assist him, he can take his case to the grand jury; if the grand jury does not act he can take a few good citizens, and two newspaper reporters, and walk into a court, demanding that papers be issued for arrest of law breakers; if both district attorney and the court fail, the action can be taken to the attorney general of the state, he declared. He said the article in the Register concerning the sheriff failing in making raids on gambling houses and other places because the district attorney's office had failed to function was printed with the "best intention in the world," but that the sheriff should not wait for the district attorney, if he failed to act.

Bids on Foodstuffs

Wilkie declared if he is elected he will get trained men for the chief offices in his department, and concerning the operation of the jail, will receive bids on foodstuffs for the jail, that prisoners may be fed well, but inexpensively.

Louis Jacobsen, of the education committee, urged all interested in the school bond election register as to the part they will take in assisting.

Fiesta Held By Newport Groups

NEWPORT BEACH, Aug. 1.—The combined Ladies' Aid societies of Newport Beach and vicinity join forces today in producing their annual Fiesta Del Playo, at Christ Church By-the-Sea, under the direction of Mrs. Ida Naylor, president of the groups.

Doors opened for the church carnival at 11 o'clock this morning, and luncheon was served in the main dining room of the church. Sale of goods and foods produced by the societies was held during the day, enlivened by auctions and a program during the afternoon, with dinner for an estimated 250 guests scheduled for 6:30 o'clock this evening.

This carnival is produced annually by women of the church as a means of raising money which will be used for charity.

JURY IN BEACH GUN CLUB CASE FAILS TO AGREE

HUNTINGTON BEACH, Aug. 1.—A jury late yesterday ended the trial of the Casadora Gun club, charged with waste of water under a county ordinance, making the third failure out of four attempts to prosecute the gun clubs.

District Attorney S. B. Kaufman announced following the trial that he would again try all of the three cases that resulted in "hung" juries. One of the four cases resulted in a conviction.

In one of the disagreements, the jury stood 10 to 2 for acquittal, in another the vote was 6 to 6, and yesterday's jury stood 8 to 4 for conviction, but was unable to end the deadlock after deliberating from 10 a. m. to 4 p. m., when Justice C. P. Pann ordered them discharged.

The gun club defense, conducted by L. A. West, Santa Ana attorney, succeeded on the ground that the duck ponds on the gun club premises served a beneficial use in growing grass for pasturage of livestock, and that crops were grown in areas about the ponds.

One more gun club case remains to be tried, the date of hearing to be fixed soon, it is expected, by agreement between prosecution and defense.

Farmers of the county have frankly expressed disappointment, it is understood, at the failure of the gun club prosecutions. District Attorney Kaufman personally took charge of the Casadora case, aided by Deputy Leo J. Friis, but had no better success than his deputies in the previous cases.

DINNER OBSERVES EIGHTH BIRTHDAY

TUSTIN, Aug. 1.—The eighth birthday anniversary of Bobbie Collins was delightfully observed recently when his mother, Mrs. Pauline Collins, was hostess to a group of relatives and friends at their home on North A street.

A chicken dinner was enjoyed at 4 o'clock at a prettily appointed dining table. Flowers and other decorations carried out a yellow color scheme. A number of birthday gifts were showered upon the happy honor guest.

Place cards at dinner were written for the birthday celebrant, Bobbie Collins and his mother, Mrs. Collins; Mr. and Mrs. William Benjamin and daughter, Miss Audrey Benjamin, and Miss Anna Sutherland, of Tustin, and Dr. James Adamwics, of San Diego.

Gain Recorded In Laguna Business

LAGUNA BEACH, Aug. 1.—Indicative of a growing popularity of the art colony as a weekend resort is not only an increasing demand for housing accommodations but also increased patronage at eating places and other establishments catering to visitors, inquiries at the chamber of commerce revealed today.

In this connection Horace A. Dunn, director of the chamber of commerce publicity bureau, called attention to the record-breaking number of visitors here last weekend, taxing the facilities of hotels and eating places alike.

Dunn also called attention to the marked improvement in the rental situation, due principally to the growing popularity of Laguna Beach as a week-end resort. This demand for housing accommodations has in turn led to new construction, he added.

Yorba Linda C. C. To Meet August 8

YORBA LINDA, Aug. 1.—Members of the Yorba Linda Chamber of commerce have been called to a special dinner meeting scheduled for August 8, at 6:30 p. m., in Masonic hall, according to P. J. Ton, president.

ANGLING CLUB PREPARES FOR ANNUAL EVENT

NEWPORT BEACH, Aug. 1.—Plans are under way here by the Balboa Anglers' club for its annual fishing competition, according to M. S. Robinson, president of the group. It is expected that prizes will be given for the largest fish caught on standard tackle from deep sea boats, for fish caught on piers, for unusual fish caught, for tall stories, and, in fact, for almost every kind of Waltonian exploit known.

The Anglers' club has maintained a weighing station at the public pier in Balboa for sometime. The recent run af albacore, much sought after game fish, for the first time in six years, and rumors of early swordfishing have awakened interest in the annual competitions at the beach.

Fishing continues excellent in the vicinity. Sea trout, white sea bass and bonita are being landed on both the Newport and Balboa piers in some numbers in the early mornings, and halibut continue to be taken regularly. Barges and live-bait boats report increasingly good catches of bass, yellowtail, halibut and barracuda.

SOLID PROSPERITY SEEN IN 2 YEARS

YORBA LINDA, Aug. 1.—"We are on the road back and in the next two years will be on solid prosperity; not making billionaires, but on a solid prosperity that puts the fruit of toil and industry where they belong, with equitable distribution," John E. King, of Hemet, candidate for congress from the 19th district, said Monday night at a Democratic rally at Yorba Linda.

King, introduced by A. B. Hillbaold of Fullerton, first told of the high registration of Democrats in the three counties composing the 19th district, Riverside, San Bernardino and Orange counties.

He said he stands for old age pension plans; for the policies of the president; for making the child labor amendment a reality; for the recognition of women in government affairs, as President Roosevelt has done and is in sympathy with the giving of aid to veterans.

He declared it is impossible to fear that he will favor lowering tariff on citrus, "since the raised tariff was put on during the presidency of Wilson, and since the government recognizes the citrus industry, has loaned $11,000,000 to it, and has $5,000,000 more to lean."

About 60 attended the meeting. The talk was preceded by a group of musical numbers by Clarence Wing, Louis Minor and John Hall, and by a saxophone solo, played by Billy Burchit with Audry Ton accompanying at the piano.

Candidate Backs Plan On Pensions

Davis had previously declared himself in favor of an old age pension plan, but his declaration last Monday night is said to be his first unqualified endorsement of the Townsend plan.

The meeting was sponsored by the local Democratic club, with its president, E. R. Muse, presiding. Other speakers included Carl M. Heim, Santa Ana manager of the Davis campaign, and C. R. Allen of Fullerton, Democratic candidate for the assembly in the 75th district.

STANTON, Aug. 1.—Mr. and Mrs. Frank Bushnell of Long Beach entertained the Sunshine and Shower club at the home of their daughter, Mrs. Roy Rowe, recently.

The 6:30 o'clock dinner was served on the lawn. Mrs. A. L. Sherman of Fresno, a niece of E. E. Briggs, sent a large angel food cake beautifully decorated.

The new silverware purchased by the club was used.

Sale of a quilt brought over $25.

At cards, Mrs. Pritchet won high for women, and Mrs. Poff, second. For men, G. W. Irwin of Los Angeles won high, and Mr. Brown, second.

CALL ISSUED FOR WORKERS ON $190,000 BEACH SEWER PLANT

LAGUNA BEACH, Aug. 1.—A clearing house for assignment and distribution of labor as needed from time to time by the contractor in connection with the Arch Beach $190,000 sewer and treatment plant project, was established today at the chamber of commerce offices under direction of Capt. George A. Portus, executive secretary of the chamber, the chamber official acting as the representative of the Orange county section of the National Re-employment service. It was pointed out that Captain Portus as well as other chamber officials are giving their services free of charge.

Yesterday the contractor brought down a considerable amount of machinery and nine keymen of his organization. His first request for local labor came today, calling for 15 common laborers. It was intimated, however, that additional requests for labor, including carpenters and other skilled mechanics, will follow as soon as the work is under way. The minimum wage scale for common labor is 45 cents an hour, it was explained. It was pointed out, however, that none but men who are physically fit will be employed.

Captain Portus suggested that unemployed men, capable of doing manual labor in connection with the sewer project, register at the Santa Ana office of the National Re-employment service. However, if they have registered or have renewed their registrations within 30 days, it will suffice to mail a post card to the National Re-employment service, Federal building, Santa Ana, giving their name, age address and telephone number, and classification of work desired, it was stated.

PLAN IMPROVEMENTS

Shrubs or young trees are being sought by the committee for planting about the grounds.

MESA SPEAKER TELLS LIONS OF POWER PROJECT

COSTA MESA, Aug. 1.—Sidney H. Davidson, principal of the Newport Harbor Union High school, spoke Tuesday at the meeting of the local Lions club, using as his theme, "The Muscle Shoals Project and Its Possible Effect on the Social and Economic Conditions of the United States."

Davidson stated that it is believed that this project will be a yardstick by which many other such projects will be measured, determining in a great measure as to whether such efforts and their eventual benefits to the people shall be handled by the people or whether they shall be promoted by private interests.

The Muscle Shoals project will not only furnish water power for power and light, he stated, but will accommodate a huge fertilizer plant, will furnish much water for irrigation purposes, will be a vast flood-control project, and will go far toward the reclaiming of much almost useless badly eroded land. If the project comes up to the expectations of those in charge, he said, there are many other such situations within the United States that may profit by such an example.

Davidson and his family have just returned from an auto tour through the east that took them into Tennessee and eastern states. He was introduced by E. A. Rea, acting program chairman for the day.

The Rev. L. R. Grissle, Buena Park Pentacostal pastor, assisted by the Rev. B. Chambers, La Habra Pentacostal minister, conducted the services.

BUENA PARK, Aug. 1.—One of the recent social events of Buena Park was when Mrs. D. F. Lemke, assisted by her sister-in-law, Mrs. Vella Lune, and Miss Mildred Lune of Whittier, entertained with a picnic at the Anaheim city park, observing the 12th birthday anniversary of her daughter, Clarabelle.

Games were played during the afternoon, with refreshments of ice cream, a pink and green decorated birthday cake, and iced fruit punch served at the close of the afternoon. Favors in harmonizing pastel shades were presented each guest.

Guests invited were Miss Virginia Crisman, Miss Helen Hart, Miss Lorraine Smith, Miss Nobu Higashi, Miss Hatsu Ocabe, Miss Jean Cole, Miss Gloria Montgomery, Miss Dorothy Hatch, Miss Trevis Turner, Miss Dorothy Chronister, Miss Emily Allen, Miss Mary Byers, Buena Park; Miss Helen Sheriff, Anaheim; Miss Eva Lune, Whittier, and Miss Jane York of Long Beach, a house guest of the honoree.

LAGUNA BEACH ARTISTS NAME OFFICERS SOON

LAGUNA BEACH, Aug. 1.—In anticipation of what is expected to be one of the liveliest meetings ever held in the annals of the Laguna Beach Art association, artist members as well as associate members of the organization today were making sure of their individual membership standing as only members in good standing, that is to say those who have paid prescribed dues, are entitled to vote at the annual meeting set for the evening of August 13.

Listed as the principal business to come up before the meeting is the election of officers and directors. A nominating committee, elected from the floor, has submitted the following nominations: For president, George K. Brandriff, noted artist whose canvases have elicited much favorable comment; for first vice president, John Hinchman; for second vice president, Clarence K. Hinkle; corresponding secretary, William Riddell; recording secretary, Roy Ropp; treasurer, William Griffith; for directors R. Ferdinand Heckman, Thomas H. Lewis and Thomas L. Hunt. The officers are ex-officio members of the governing board. It was pointed out that this is the first time in many years that the official nomination slate is made up entirely of artists.

It was intimated that while a considerable number of local artists and laymen are favoring the recommendations of the nominating committee, there are those who would like to see Louis Danz, the present executive, returned to office, hence nominations from the floor are expected to be made, particularly for the office of president. The organization has a membership of about 300 artists, residing here and other parts of the Southland, and close to 600 associate members.

FIRST BIRTHDAY OF BLUE EAGLE IS CELEBRATED

The famous emblem was issued as the symbol of the NRA Aug. 1, 1933.

Slightly more than a year ago the now-famous bird lived only in the imagination of Charles Coiner, young Philadelphia commercial artist. His design creating the "Blue Eagle", with lightning in one claw and a cog wheel in the other, was adopted to lead the recovery drive.

Today most industries fly the "Blue Eagle" and operate under codes for which it stands.

Campaign Recalled

With the creation of the Blue Eagle, the largest volunteer peace time army in the history of the country was organized to make the nation "Blue Eagle Conscious." More than 1,500,000 men and women started a nationwide "block to block" canvass. As a result, 2,300,000 employers and more than 60,000,000 consumers signed up to cooperate with the president's reemployment agreement. This agreement, known as the "blanket code" held until permanent codes were formulated for individual industries.

Since the New Deal started, millions have poured out of the United States treasury direct to citizens, industries and banks.

President Roosevelt intended the flood of dollars should alleviate human misery and quicken business. The money has reached its goal, at least in the cases of some of the "firsts" to receive government checks.

JAILER TRACKS DOWN HIT AND RUN DRIVER

When Assistant Jailer Frank Cagle booked a man at the jail yesterday afternoon whom he had arrested for reckless driving, he evened up a score following an accident at Fifth and Main streets Saturday night.

John Torres, 25, Belvedere Gardens, was driving a car which collided with the Cagle machine and then failed to stop. Cagle took the license number and started a search for the missing driver. Finally locating him in Los Angeles, Cagle took Torres before Judge Kenneth Morrison yesterday, where he had his answer to arraignment set for Friday. He was released without bond until that time.

No one was hurt in the wreck but Cagle's car was damaged.

CHIP GAMES AT VENICE CLOSED

LOS ANGELES, Aug. 1.—Police permits of eighteen places in Venice, where "chip" and "circle" games have been operated recently, were revoked late yesterday, after testimony by police investigators that the games enabled players to win or lose substantial amounts of money quickly.

This action was taken after a two-day hearing called by the police commission. Assistant City Attorney Newton Kendall asserted the games induced gambling, but attorneys for the operators said the games required "great skill" and were played for "amusement purposes only."

By unanimous vote the commissioners decreed that such games cannot henceforth be played.

BALLOON REACHED 60,613 FT. HEIGHT

WASHINGTON, Aug. 1.—(UP)—The stratosphere balloon "Explorer" soared to an altitude of 60,613 feet Saturday, the National Geographic society, sponsor of the flight, announced today.

The official figure was more than 600 feet higher than was estimated by the three army balloonists. The barographs, enclosed in a wood box and insulated with sponge rubber, escaped serious damage when the gondola crashed.

The official stratosphere record is 61,236 feet. It is held by Lieut. Comdr. T. G. W. Settle and Major Chester Fordney.

THREE AQUEDUCT WORKERS KILLED

RIVERSIDE, Calif., Aug. 1.—(UP)—Three aqueduct workers who rode a muck bucket at the Val Verde tunnel project of the Metropolitan Water district, were dead today, victims of an 80-foot plunge to the ground when a cable supporting the bucket snapped without warning.

The three men, James C. Davis, 32, Samuel L. Brown, 43, and Lincoln Wells, 29, were killed instantly late yesterday.

NEW BOOKS IN PUBLIC LIBRARY

BY VERNA RAMSEY

Southeast of Florida lies an enchanted land. In "Bahamas: Isles of June," Major H. Mac Lachlan Bell tells of these islands as true isles of magic.

Columbus fell on his knees when he reached them on a quest for a new world. The legend of Drake's Drum hangs about these "Treasure Islands," where Raleigh, Frobisher, Gilbert and Hawkins, vanguard of the English merchant marine, sailed the Spanish Main. More sinister names are linked to the Bahamas, those of the pirate Blackbeard and Morgan, the buccaneer. They are now oases of peace, a law-abiding British colony on which many nations have left some picturesque mark.

They are far-flung islands of contrast. In them voodoo still hides its dark head. What meets the eye, however, is the blue magic of the sea and sky and the golden people find time to live and play, and the word haste is unknown. Major Bell has caught admirably this spirit of ease. The mystery and beauty and aloofness is reflected by their Spanish name, Islas del Espiritu Santo—Isles of the Holy Ghost.

Their historic place in the sun is recalled. The shot fired at Fort Sumpter was echoed in Nassau and earned sympathy for the cause of the South. Daring adventures connected the blockade-runners of the period; in fact all the glamorous episodes and personalities associated with the Bahamas are embraced for the visitor's and the reader's information and entertainment.

His exploits are many. He conquered the Alamo and butchered its garrison of Texans. His defeat by General Sam Houston at the battle of San Jacinto, his capture following the battle and his eventual escape from Texan vengeance, compose one of the most gripping chapters in the chronicles of the southwest. Later the Americans crossed his path when he was commander-in-chief of the Mexican forces during the war between Mexico and the United States. He matched wits with Andrew Jackson and he hoodwinked President Polk. He directed the Mexican army with distinction in the battles of Buena Vista and Cerro Gordo, and he combatted desperately the attack of General Winfield Scott on the "Halls of Montezuma." Zachary Taylor, Robert E. Lee, William Tecumseh Sherman, U. S. Grant, Colonel Jack Hays and his Texas rangers, and a host of other famous Yankees pass in this striking panorama of one of the most heroic epochs in our history.

Notable as he was in American history, Santa Anna was even more important in the long and bloody story of the Land of the Eagle and the Serpent. Eleven times he was president of Mexico. As an impetuous young officer he overthrew the throne of Mexico's Emperor Iturbide. He lost his leg in that most bizarre of conflicts, the Pastry war with France. He hobbled in and out of power until finally he reached the climax of his career—his fantastic reign as His Most Serene Highness, a despotism so gaudy and extravagant that it brought about his permanent downfall.

Santa Anna was one of the bloodiest, cruelest and most colorful of Latin-American dictators. This is, however, more than a thrilling story of the life of a famous character. It is the only satisfactory account of a fascinating period in the history of the 19th century North America.

The day of the sailing vessel is very nearly past, but we still respond to tales of those thrilling days. "The Log of a Limejuicer" by Capt. James P. Barker, is a first-hand narrative of high adventure. It was told by Captain Barker to his son, Roland Barker, himself a seafaring man who served as third mate under his father on the ship "Tusitala," last of the square-riggers.

Captain Barker's "log" covers a span of 20 years. This period began after the decline of the clipper ship era and practically ended when steam crowded the windjammers from the seas. He is best known as commander of the "Tusitala." Forty-four of his 58 years have been spent at sea. He has rounded Cape Horn under canvas 41 times.

The narrative begins with James P. Barker's apprenticeship at the age of 14. His life since that time has been packed with high adventure, great danger, and greater courage and resourcefulness. This account ends with the account of his command in 1905 of the ship "British Isles" on a voyage which according to Percy Hutchinson in the New York Times Book Review has "no exact counterpart in the books of the sea."

"The Log of a Limejuicer" is alive with color, incident and breath-taking adventure. It is not only the stuff that high adventure is made of—it is the stuff that will give to all who love adventure, and the sea, and ships and who read this book, an unforgettable and soul-stirring experience.

GAMBLING CASE TRIAL DATES ARE CHANGED

Defendants in two of three jury trials scheduled in Seal Beach on August 21 and 22 on violation of the gambling laws, succeeded yesterday in having the trials moved forward on the Seal Beach justice court calendar to tomorrow and Friday.

The four persons arrested in Larry's Tango parlor will go on trial tomorrow and the 13 defendants arrested in the first of three raids on Ballard's chip parlor will be prosecuted Friday.

Three men and a woman were arrested by sheriff's officers in Larry's parlor. These are Walter D. Burgess, 24, Gene Warren, 27, Roy Shaw, 35, the proprietor, and Jane Jessing, 21. They were all released on $200 bond by Judge Fred Smith of Seal Beach after Judge Kenneth Morrison of the Santa Ana justice court had fixed their original bond at $500.

Those to go on trial Friday from Ballard's are Charles Coleman, 28, William Conner, 22, Ogle Pieper, 23, Bob Webb, 23, J. P. Browner, 57, Joseph Smith, 33, Eleck F. Nelson, 32, Roy Heckenkamp, 26, Patrick Harrison, 47, Frank Pieper, 51, William J. Mulconnery, jr., 35, Larry W. Logan, 34, and Charles Wilson, 44.

Ballard's was raided three times by sheriff's officers, the last time on charges of conspiracy to evade the gambling laws, a felony.

POSTPONE INQUEST FOR WRECK VICTIM

The inquest over the body of Nello Sabato, 20, of Old Town, San Diego, scheduled to be held yesterday afternoon from the Harrell and Brown Funeral home, has been indefinitely postponed pending the recovery of Peter Gerache, San Diego youth hurt in the same wreck at Tustin Saturday.

Gerache was taken to his home after the wreck and was unable to return here for the inquest. Pending the setting of the date for the inquest, the body of Sabato has been shipped to San Diego for burial.

The accident occurred when Gerache "laid down" his motorcycle while rounding a turn to avoid hitting a truck driven by George E. Meton of 338 South Parker street, Orange.

LOFNER BAND WILL PLAY AT BALBOA

Carol Lofner and his band, direct from the St. Francis hotel in San Francisco, will play at the Rendezvous ballroom in Balboa tomorrow and Friday nights in conjunction with "Reunion Week" being observed at the beach amusement center.

Lofner's band and the regular Everett Hoagland band will alternate their music from 8:30 to 2 o'clock both evenings and offer a double bill of entertainment. Hoagland was a member of Lofner's band when the Rendezvous was opened in 1928 and Manager Harry Tudor was successful in signing Lofner this week because of their former associations.

Lofner will bring his usual entertainers to Balboa and has several novelties prepared, according to Tudor. There will be no price advance for the unusual programs on both nights.

Court Notes

Milton W. Mitchell, 120½ North Flower street, charged with driving under the influence of intoxicating liquor and Dallas Preble, Santa Ana, charged with drunkenness son the highway, each received 90 day jail sentences yesterday from Judge D. C. McCharles of Tustin.

A COOLIDGE MEMORIAL EXERCISE

On August 3, at Plymouth, Vermont, the eleventh anniversary of the swearing-in of Calvin Coolidge as president of the United States is to be observed. The speaker on that occasion will be Congressman James M. Beck of Pennsylvania, the much-heralded expounder of the Constitution, a close and much admired friend of the late president.

The address will be of national interest in view of Congressman Beck's devotion to the constitution, of which in recent years he has been the most devoted defender.

In answer to a question as to the constitutionality of the New Deal legislation, Professor Powell, professor of constitutional law in the Harvard Law school, as to whether Congressman Beck's statement in regard to the unconstitutionality of that legislation were valid, said, "Mr. Beck is a fine gentleman, has a fine voice, but I would say of him what President Eliot once said of the faculty of the Harvard Theological School, that he performs his functions with a maximum of intellectual frugality."

Congressman Beck recently stated that the constitution has been in the process of slow demolition for the past 50 years, and that at present the people do not really care whether the constitution is violated or not. In the same address, he expresses little hope in the Supreme Court for a rigid interpretation of the constitution, and he has less hope that an appeal to the urban masses will result in anything more favorable.

So, we look for the rather platitudinous language from Mr. Beck which has marked the recent utterances of Mr. Fletcher, the new chairman of the Republican National committee, young Teddy Roosevelt, Senator Vandenberg of Michigan, and Ogden Mills. We may hear something about bureaucracy, regimentation, spending, and the dangers of democracy.

But a new era has come since the incumbency of Calvin Coolidge. Little that was applicable to our situation then is applicable today.

Mr. Coolidge had a philosophy of life and society which has been rudely shattered by the events of the last five years. His much-extolled virtue of thrift, which was framed in innumerable bank windows all over the country at that time, no longer has any appeal in view of the losses sustained by thrifty people who entrusted their savings to the money lenders.

And the years of speculative prosperity which marked his administration have proven to be too ruinous in the light of the past five years to deserve a eulogy.

Still, we shall be eager to learn what Mr. Beck has to say to the country on August 3 on that anniversary occasion. Few knew Mr. Coolidge better, and few had his confidence to a larger extent.

CONSIDER THE STATE OF YOUR GLANDS

It has now been well established that the gland secretions of the body have much to do, not only with physical growth, but quite as much with character and temperament. Dwarfs and giants, fat people and lean people, are what they are, because of an undersupply or oversupply of certain glandular secretions.

It is equally certain, and most every one can bear testimony to the fact out of his own experience, that certain people's mental and moral attitudes are determined by an undersupply or an oversupply of the secretions of certain glands.

That is not to be given as an explanation for every "nagger" and every moral delinquent. There is such a thing as deliberate "cussedness."

There are those who want to "keep up with Lizzie," and are miserable themselves and make every one around them miserable when they cannot succeed. There are those who, as Shakespeare says, "lay their lechery to a star," when they themselves are alone to blame.

How frequently have we heard the lawlessness and the brutality of Dillinger laid to the fact that he was unjustly charged with an offense of which he was innocent when a young man. This is all nonsense. The fact that his mother died when he was an infant was unfortunate.

But he had a good sister who reared him, and to whose home his dead body was brought for burial. No, the career of a Dillinger cannot be so explained.

But that there is something in the story of the man whose character was changed with the removal of his thyroid gland, and that there are those who have become victims of malnutrition or are irresponsible by reason of mental deficiencies cannot be denied.

Our whole modern practice of psychiatry and medicine is based on the discovery that moral guilt, mental abberations, and physical defects are in no small measure due to what men are. Our whole penal system of today takes such matters into consideration in fitting that penalty to the crime.

PHILANTHROPIC GIFTS

A firm of fund-raising consultants reports that the total sum given for philanthropic enterprises is larger by 44 per cent the past six months than for the similar period last year.

Such a report has to be carefully analyzed, for there are factors in such a situation that may lead to different conclusions from those evidently deduced from the figures. It may be that a considerable amount of the gifts of the past six months was from wills made five, or 10, or 15 years ago.

It may be that the fear created by losses from investments during the last five years has led some people to make large conditional gifts to charitable and educational institutions, on which they will receive annuity payments for the rest of their lives. It may also be that there were a few unusually large gifts the past six months which did not mark the same period last year.

Fund-raising consultants have to make a case if they expect to get business. We do not question the general statement made by this particular firm.

But we would not advise any charitable or educational institution to start a fund-raising campaign on the basis of such a report without a careful study of the field and its possible constituency. The time has not yet arrived in recovery to believe that there is much money to be had for a philanthropic drive.

Dividend checks are not yet normal. And the state of the stock market at present does not warrant parting with well seasoned securities.

STRONG MEN WILL FACE CONFLICT

In other columns of today's Register there will be found expressions from the publisher in respect to law enforcement.

The spirit of law enforcement and law violation cannot live peaceably in the same community at the same time. It is one of life's strenuous battles. It is the irrepressible conflict.

Abraham Lincoln quoted famous words from the Scripture when he said: "A house divided against itself cannot stand."

Ideas of themselves cannot come to blows. It is only through men, the embodiment of ideas, that conflict comes. Ideas are only permanent when embodied with a personality.

It is lamentable that one has to speak with emphasis, and sometimes with directness, in relation to the embodiment of an idea and be personal concerning it.

There are times for love feasts. We like to engage in them, but unfortunately a fight over profitable criminality is not a love feast.

We like the old adage that you can catch more flies with honey than you can with vinegar. We have tried it, and it works in the fly-catching business.

But fighting law violators and law violations, and sustaining officers who are against them, and opposing those who are for them, is not fly-catching. It is a condition which demands a fight, and the champion fighter for ideas in this country, one time said: "If it reaches the point where you have to hit; hit hard."

Theodore Roosevelt was a great personality. When his indignation was aroused, he was a mighty force against law violators, high and low. His type is needed in the nation today. It is needed in California. It is needed in Orange county.

New Roads to Romance?

Christian Science Monitor

Vast additional recreational advantages are not the only benefits to the general public which result from the CCC camp workers. It may be that these workers have tapped a new field which will provide a novel and enjoyable method of learning both history and literature. Today in northern Idaho, southeastern Washington and northeastern Oregon two projects are under way which serve as an illustration. When completed there will be made available to millions of motorists and hikers extensive pleasure domains. When venturing into these forested lands may not the public recall the first known expedition to this country, that of Lewis and Clark? If so, then what of the Indian girl guide, Sacajawea?

Perhaps in all American history there has been no more colorful and satisfying constructive adventure than the experiences of this woman. Born a Shoshone—a tribe remarkable for its morality, truthfulness and bravery—she possessed qualities that made her service as guide of exceptional value to these explorers. Her presence on the expedition was evidence in itself that Lewis and Clark were on an errand of peace, because no woman, in that section of the world, ever would accompany any war party. However, it was not so much as a guide that she deserves recognition. Her chief contribution was her unfailing understanding of the attitude of the white man, which she passed on to her native tribes, and her successful interpretation to the white man of the Indian point of view. It was she who persuaded these tribes to adopt the white man's methods of agriculture, a service of particular value to government agents at that time.

An authentic record of the life of Sacajawea has been written by Grace Raymond Hebard, who has for nearly thirty years sought—in her own words — "to rescue Sacajawea from the semi-oblivion into which her name had fallen, and give to her her legitimate place in the history of the great northwest." In this successful effort there is romance aplenty. It is gratifying to find that Sacajawea's faith in the white people was never betrayed. This cannot always be said in reference to the treatment of the American Indian. Her son, Baptiste, the papoose of the great expedition in 1805, accompanied Prince Paul of Wurtemberg on his journey through Europe; her adopted son, Bazil, was a leader, highly respected by the whites, and she herself was treated with reverence by white and Indian alike.

What Is a Secret?

San Francisco Chronicle

Announcement from Halifax, Nova Scotia, that Premier Ramsay MacDonald is so alarmed by the European situation that he has given secret orders for a cruiser to be in readiness for an emergency dash back to England, arouses some wonder as to just what is a "secret." That Mr. MacDonald has officially denied the report in no manner discourages it. Nor does it disclose how many people are supposed to know a "secret" before it ceases to hold secrecy. Can a "secret" be something merely guessed at and deriving its only corroboration from official denial, or something known broadcast but kept officially "confidential?"

More Truth Than Poetry

TROUBLE IS SIGHTED

The Kleagles are gathered together,
The Kleagles we fancied were gone,
In spite of the hot sultry weather
They are marching around the old lawn.
They move in a solemn procession,
Agreed to the very last man
To stem the alarming aggression
Of the terrible Soviet Klan.
They are ready to cook—and cook plenty—the goose
Of the base scheming Reds that the Czar has let loose.

In spite of the breadth of the ocean
That rolls between Russia and us,
The Kleagles now cherish the notion
That we're due for a terrible fuss.
Let the Russians beware of their power,
Let a Red wave his beard on our shore,
And that second, or minute, or hour
Not a Red will exist any more.

Just where have they been, those fierce Kleagles
Who number so many today?
They once were as plenty as eagles
Flying forth in pursuit of their prey.
And then they no longer paraded,
We thought they were wholly de-Klanned:
Overnight, it appeared, they had faded
From the face of this glorious land.
And ready to kick up the deuce of a row!

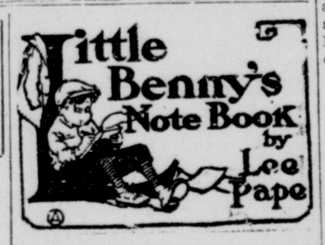
Little Benny's Note Book by Lee Pape



Me and pop was taking a wawk before supper and we was crossing a street and 2 automobeels was coming from 2 diffrent directions, and pop grabbed a hold of my arm, saying, Easy, easy, take it easy.

And we stood there safe and then kept on going, pop saying, Always keep your head and the werld is yours, or at least you wont end your days with unnecessary suddenness. No matter what the emergency is, stay cool anl you'll live to emerge from other emergencies. The werld's grate men have all kept their heads at crucial moments. Be cool minded and you can even afford to be hot tempered. Stay cool, let the most important emblem on your coat of arms be the cucumber, pop sed.

Yes, sir, I said. G, pop, do you think you'd always keep your head and stay cool no matter where you was no matter what happened there? I said, and pop said, I have that happy faculty. I think I'd know what to do in all emergencies, most contingencies, practically any dilemma, the generel run of quandries, and proberly 9 tents of all jams.

Me thinking a while and then saying, Well jimminy, pop, what would you do if you was in the jungles and a tiger chased you up a tree and when you got up there you discovered you was half ways between a bear and a bore constrictor with the tiger still waiting for you down below and about 6 buzzerds flying around up in the air waiting to see what happened?

I'd keep cool, I'd keep my head, pop said, and I said, Yes sir, but what would you do, sipposing you ony had 5 seconds to act? It's been much more than 5 seconds now since I asked you, and sippose you hadn't did anything yet? I said.

O, you want to know what my course of action would be? pop said, and I said, Yes sir, and pop said, It would be effective you may rest assured of that.

And he got me a ice cream cone on account of proberly thinking it would be a good way to change the subjeck.

In the Long Ago

From the Register Files 14 Years Ago Today

AUGUST 1, 1920

With approximately 100 acres of sorghum cane almost ready for harvesting, Costa Mesa's first industrial plant, a sorghum mill, was being rushed to completion under direction of Edward Loggdon. The mill was being constructed on Newport road, about a mile east of Costa Mesa. An apple packing house, cider mill and salesroom were being erected on an adjoining lot. All were community projects, practically every rancher on the Mesa was an apple grower and the majority had put in sorghum patches.

Miss Jeannette McFadden, city librarian of Santa Ana, was honored by the president of the California Library association by being appointed to the presidency of the sixth district association of the state organization. The district included counties from San Luis Obispo to San Diego.

Thoughts On Modern Life

BY GLENN FRANK

THE PARAMOUNT ISSUE OF OUR TIME

Many Americans, noting at least a surface similarity between the early moves of Italian Fascismo and the first steps of the American New Deal, not in the seizure of power or any strong-arm suppression of opponents, but in the steady expansion of the role of the State in the life of the people, have begun seriously to ask whether, in the long future, we are to pursue our enterprise in freedom or under regimentation.

And this, it seems, is to be the battle-cry of the Republican opposition.

I am aware that an enormous amount of political bunk will be thrown around this question, but, for all that, it is, in my judgment, the major issue of this generation.

If we do not meet this issue with a deliberate and well-founded decision, the drift towards the all-ambracing state will be swiftly accelerated. And how this acceleration will take place is, it seems to me, sun-clear.

In the absence of a clean-cut and comprehensive policy regarding the right relation between government and private enterprise we shall almost surely revert uncritically to anti-trust legislation which will express an admirable social purpose but embody an obsolete economic conception. And the Borahs will help this reversion along.

I would be the last living American to lift a voice in defense of anti-social monopoly. The necessity for its control is manifest. But the nature of its control is debatable. For loosely conceived legislation in the field of monopoly control may operate to prevent the leadership of private enterprise from bringing to the major fields of production and distribution that measure of large-scale co-ordination and plan without which a smoothly functioning and socially satisfactory economic life is impossible in an age of science, technology and power production.

If in our efforts to hobble by legislation the irresponsibility of private enterprise we hamstring its strength and unintelligently limit the right of its leadership to lead, we shall but insure the inefficiency of the economic order. And with a continuing, not to say increasing, inefficiency of private enterprise, the future can be forecast with measurable certainty.

The old cycles will take on a new severity.

We shall have our spurts of speculative prosperity, less frequent in occurrence and shorter in duration, but the effective development of mass production and mass consumption, as the two physical starting points of social progress, will be definitely slowed down if not stopped.

Popular dissatisfaction with economic arrangements will grow by leaps and bounds, and an unprecedented, irresistible pressure will come upon government to run the show.

This is why it is important now to deal decisively and in a flexibly intelligent fashion with this central issue of the relation of the government to private enterprise under modern circumstances.

Our Children

THE GARDEN POOL

"What are they going to do, mother?"

"Make a garden pool. They're going to dig a hole and line it with stones and cement and we will let the water run in and make a pool there under the trees."

"A pool. That means it will be full of water, doesn't it, mother?"

"Yes. Full of water. Then mother is going to put some lilies in it and some little fishes. Won't that be nice, son?"

"Awful nice. Can I play in it when they get it done?"

"Play in it?"

"Yes. I could wade in it, and ride my ship, and it will be such fun, won't it, mother?"

"I suppose it will. Yes, I'm sure it will."

That night mother said to father, "I'm not going to put any plants in the pool. I was going to, but I've changed my mind about it. I'm going to leave it free of anything at all so John Henry can play in it."

"Play in it?"

"Yes. I felt so ashamed of myself today. When the men came to start work John Henry came along with me to watch them and he asked me if he was going to be allowed to play in it and I hadn't the heart to tell him I had never thought of it. He must play in it. That's all there is about it."

"Well, I know, but Mary, you wanted that pool for—"

"I can wait. Just now he wants to ride his ship in it, and wade in it, and enjoy it. By and by he will outgrow it and I can plant anything I like in it. When I was talking to him about it I couldn't help thinking that about the best thing my pool could grow would be a little boy riding his ship."

So that was that and a happy boy played in the garden pool. A bit of water is a wonderful companion for children. Of course one cannot raise fine water lilies and little boys in the same pool, and with any success. But one can raise a healthy, happy youngster with the aid of a little water judiciously placed. If there is no pool maybe you can make one. It costs little and it goes far in amusement and health values. The garden hose can be used for a shower. A little ingenuity in partnership with the piped water supply can work miracles.

If you can manage it bring it into his play yard. It doesn't have to be much, just so he can get wet in it, paddle about in it. It cools him in the hot weather, it soothes him when he is irritated, it comforts him when he is lonely, it sings to him and with him. Water is his natural element. Bring it to him and he will be content to stay with it hours on end.

(Mr. Patri will give personal attention to inquiries from parents and school teachers on the care and development of children. Write him in care of this paper, inclosing a three-cent stamped, addressed envelope for reply.)
